Rabbi's & President's Messages

To Be Loved

Rabbi Sharon Mars

Of all the good reasons to join and be engaged in a synagogue, the best one I know is this: to be loved. I don't think that's why Or and I originally became shul members way back when in Israel in 1999. Our first foray into being official temple members anywhere was precisely when our first child Adi was born and we desperately needed to find a large enough space for our toddler to run wild to burn off a few hours of energy on Shabbat. So we joined Kol Haneshama, a Reform synagogue in Jerusalem, and delighted as the gorgeous harmonies of Shabbat liturgy mingled with the joyous squeals of children playing just outside in the courtyard. In sharing that space with others, we would eventually carve out a space for ourselves spiritually and socially. We found our people and our friends there. And when my mother suddenly died in the States and I came back to shul just after her Shiva, I found comfort there. As I hugged our newborn Tova just after reciting Kaddish, I'll never forget the rabbi imploring me, "Hold on tight." In that special place, I knew I was loved.

Joining a synagogue can be a very heady endeavor. We join for our kids to feel anchored in our tradition; or maybe we promised our parents we would pass it on without halt. We join for our partners and for our friends and for our great-great-grandparents. But we join not only for the love of those we already know we can count on, but for the love of others whose love we will learn to count on. We join for ourselves and we join for love.

And it is a sacred but risky proposition: As in ancient days when our ancestors brought sacrifices to the Temple, we too lay down our offerings - our time, our energy, our money - and give a precious part of our life over to cement a holy relationship. In return, we expect through this joining to be connected to something that will be there for us in times of need and times of joy. We trust that, like the Shelamim (peace) offering in the Temple, in giving of ourselves we will be wholly accepted for who we are, appreciated for all of our multidimensional gifts. Our authentic selves will be loved for all that is sweet and all that is burned inside of us. What may once have appeared to be a sacrifice should ultimately become a bond of sacred partnership. That's building community. That's love.

If we have one goal alone at Temple Israel in creating a beloved community together, it should be exactly that.

B'shalom,

Rabbi Sharon Mars

President's Message

Patti Shorr,
Temple Israel President

Dear Temple Israel Family –

This is our "Moses Moment" – instead of a staff parting the Red Sea, we're using a shovel to lift the dirt! I am super excited to let you know that we will officially break ground on March 31st. As we have communicated many times over the last year or so, we would not break ground and begin construction until we had the funding committed and enough cash in hand to avoid finance fees. Our "promised land" is our future home at 3100 East Broad Street. I cannot thank you enough for your support of this exodus, and being patient with our wandering! But I promise – it will be worth the wait.

As the work begins to shape our new home, committees will be put in place to honor our history and look forward to the future. There is room for everyone to participate in the ownership of our new home. Communication of the immediate needs will be messaged over the summer. Plan to participate if you can and are interested. This is your new home!

As we sit down with family and friends to break some matzah – let's pause for reflection and gratitude for the many blessings bestowed on our congregational family. I think about the growth and vibrancy of our Temple community and in that spirit, I hope we can all take some time to join in the act of tikun olam, social action and social justice. Please join us as we come together on April 28th to once again give of ourselves through the tzedakah of Tikkunapalooza – one day for intergenerational mitzvot and healing in our community. Please do not wait to sign up for your chance to volunteer and take part in a day of action, sign up through our website www.templeisrael.org. There is something for everyone. I thank the Tikkunapalooza Chairs Adam Solomon and Kathy Weissberg, and their committee who work tirelessly all year round to make this day a special day of joy for our entire community and those who benefit from our acts of giving.

Personally, I am approaching the end of my term as Temple Israel President. I promise that although I will no longer be Temple Israel's President, I look forward to continuing to lead the completion of our new home. I look forward to formally sharing a l'chayim with all of you at our 173rd Annual Meeting on Friday, May 17, 2019 – please mark your calendars.

Shalom,

Patti Shorr

PURIMAGINATION 2019!

Over 300 of our extended community members joined us to celebrate our Third Annual Allison Senser Hamantaschen Festival. We are so appreciative of all of the volunteers who lent a hand in what was truly a heartfelt occasion. The entire event was inspired with the creative love and vision of Neil Goldberg, Ali's Dad and Broadway Producer. We are so thankful for Neil's support of this amazing community event!

2019 WRJ Central Ohio Tzedakah Collective

The next meeting for the WRJ Central Ohio Tzedakah Collective will be on Sunday, April 14, 3 – 5 pm, at Temple Beth Shalom, 5089 Johnstown Rd, New Albany. Our speaker will be Amy Noltemeyer, the founder of GROWLERS DOG BONES. Amy's love for her autistic son inspired her in 2016 to create a vocational training and employment opportunity for him and others with disabilities. Using wet grain by-products donated by local micro-breweries with other ingredients added, the young adults with disabilities measure, mix, bake, package, and distribute dog biscuits and dogs love them!

This is truly an inspiring story of love, motivation, ingenuity, creativity, perseverance, and partnering.... Please come to hear Amy speak, and if you have a dog or know of one Amy will have these precious biscuits to sell.

The 2019 WRJ Central Ohio Tzedakah Collective continues to support Central Ohio programs that restore human dignity. Mark your calendars for these upcoming meetings: June 23 at Congregation Beth Tikvah, August TBD, October 20 at Congregation Beth Tikvah, and December TBD. Attendance at our meetings is not a requirement of participation. Our members belong to each of the Reform synagogues in Central Ohio; we also welcome unaffiliated women. Each member will make a minimum $60 tax-deductible donation to the collective, which we combine together to make larger, more impactful, grants. We invite you to join us!

Planning Ahead

Say not in grief: "S/he is no more," but live in thankfulness that s/he was.
~ Hebrew Proverb

No one likes to think about death...

...but when you come face-to-face with death, you should know that Temple Israel/Temple Israel Foundation are here for you. The Foundation is the owner of multiple cemeteries that have served and continue to serve Temple Israel members as well as members of the greater Jewish community. Currently, members may opt to purchase burial plots in the Temple Israel Section of Forest Lawn Memorial Garden (no above-ground markers permitted) or The New Temple Israel Cemetery (above-ground markers permitted) at Alum Creek & Performance Parkway – where family plots are also available as well as trees with recognition plaques.

Historically, members have also purchased plots at Greenlawn Cemetery, where the Foundation owns two sections, Section #44 and Section #91, both of which no longer offer plots for purchase. In addition, the Foundation maintains a one-acre section on the grounds of Mt. Calvary Cemetery where the first Columbus Jewish settlers are interred.

Pre-planning is always a good idea, so if you have thoughts about making a cemetery plot purchase now or in the future, feel free to contact the Temple, 614-866-0010, to facilitate this important conversation.

WRJ 2019 Social Justice Conference!

Join WRJ in Washington, D.C. to learn, grow, and take action at the inaugural Social Justice Conference (SJC)!

The WRJ Social Justice Conference on May 18-19, 2019 will be a powerful experience for Jewish women to become better-educated and trained on social justice issues, learn advocacy skills that can be utilized at home and on a larger scale, and address timely topics in a welcoming and encouraging, all-female Jewish environment. SJC is intended for any woman (age 18+) interested in advocacy in the Reform Movement through a Jewish woman's lens.

Attendees will begin their weekend with meaningful Shabbat worship and continue with workshops and learning sessions, opportunities to create connections and network with other Reform women, learn from experts and from each other, and enjoy a rocking Saturday night concert with some of the Movement's favorite female musicians.

The Religious Action Center of Reform Judaism's Consultation on Conscience will take place immediately after SJC, at the same hotel, on May 19-21.

There is a special discounted rate for young women ages 18-30.

Information and registration is available on the WRJ website: https://wrj.org/social-justice-conference-2019
