By Debby Joseph

I am writing this column after the conclusion of Yom Kippur. This year, Adas Israel was blessed with what many have described as the most meaningful and moving High Holy Day services that they have experienced. I wanted to take this opportunity to say thank you and a hearty yasher koach to the many individuals who were responsible for making these services so memorable. As I reflect on what goes into this effort, a process that began almost 11 months ago, it seems to me that it exemplifies what takes place in the synagogue throughout the year.

Successful Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur services are truly a collaborative effort among Adas Israel's clergy, administrative and support staff, custodians, and many members. The unique tone and spirituality present in each service was clearly the result of the work of our rabbis and Cantor Brown. Sermons and teaching moments offered by the rabbis were very much appreciated and amplified the experience of these holiday services. The synagogue staff's coordination of the logistics resulted in each room, gathering, and space meeting the needs of those present. The work of our caring and attentive custodians, this year's High Holy Day coordinator Naomi Malka, and administrative staff was evident.

November evokes gratitude. It is the month of giving thanks. In this spirit, I would like to raise up a group at Adas that does not get a lot of outward attention, but is one of the bedrocks of this great synagogue.

This particular group, the Bereavement Committee, was started by several laypeople over 15 years ago and was headed by Sybil Wolin. Today the Committee is made up of over 25 volunteers and is headed by Edie Hessel. The Bereavement Committee is a group of people who are giving of their time, their love, comfort, and their physical and spiritual selves.

So how does it work? The committee currently has three different teams with many members serving on multiple teams. The teams are as follows: Havurot (literally, friends)

When someone dies and the family chooses to use the Bereavement Committee, our havurot are set into action. In addition to the clergy, the havurot also meet with the family of the deceased to help arrange the entire funeral from start to finish, including announcement of death, preparation of death certificate, contract with Hines-Rinaldi (our community funeral home), and any other details for the funeral. The havurot attend the funeral, help make sure all of the details are covered, often provide a ride to the officiating rabbi to the cemetery, and often attend the shiva minyanim.

Tahara (Ritual cleansing)

Our tradition ordains that we immerse the dead body into living waters. The body is washed with water in a ritual called tahara. The prophet Ezekiel says: "And I will pour pure water upon you, and you shall be purified from all of your impurities; and from all of your abominations I shall purify you" (Ezekiel 36:25). This act of purification is both for the purpose of cleansing the body so that it can return back to the earth, as well as a purification of the soul as it gets ready to be returned to God. This act is one of absolute love and in our tradition is called Hesed shel Emet—the ultimate act of love. It is also one in which there is no public recognition as we do not permit the surviving family, or anyone for that matter, to know who served on a particular tahara for the deceased. This way we protect the honor of the deceased. The final act of the Tahara Committee is to dress the deceased in traditional shrouds (tachrichim) and to place the deceased into the coffin.

Shmira (Guarding)

Our tradition, which has always mandated that the deceased be treated with kavod (honor), created a ritual act of guarding the body from the time the person dies until he or she is buried. This year, under the leadership of Lucy Congregants played a huge role. A special thank you to Mark Berlin who started working on what would be required of the ushers in the spring. He created a schedule, reviewed the handbook, and solicited almost 70 members who served as ushers at all services from Erev Rosh Hashanah to the conclusion of Yom Kippur. Members of the Religious Practices Committee recruited all of the Torah and Haftarah readers and those who would have aliyot from among our alwayswilling members.

The list of names of all our congregants and staff who contributed to these holidays is very long. Each one deserves our appreciation for adding to our collective opportunity to engage in the reflective renewal that we were invited to do this year in creative, innovative, and traditional ways. I feel so very fortunate to be part of the Adas Israel community, with this star-quality team of people who are always prepared to step forward to work together. May we continue to go from strength to strength. *

Hassell, we will be providing shmira for our congregants who have died. Shmira involves sitting with the body at the Hines-Rinaldi funeral home in shifts (usually two people at a time). We literally guard the body from harm (this piece is more a remnant of the past than an issue today) and provide comfort to both the soul as it travels back to its Maker and comfort to the family whose members know that their loved one is being taken care of before burial.

This committee, as you can see from the descriptions, is one of devoted, loving, committed members of Adas. They are never mentioned publicly or receive any recognition for the incredible work they do. I want to take this moment to recognize each and every member for this holy work and to say thank you.

I invite you to become a part of this incredible committee. We are always looking for new people to serve on each of our subcommittees. If you are interested, please be in touch. All my best for a season filled with gratitude and giving thanks. *

Global Jewish Cultures: France—Resistance to Memory in Vichy and Lyon WEDNESDAY, NOV. 4, 8:15–9:25 PM

Instructor: Miriam Isaacs

The French cities of Lyon and Vichy have a stained history when it comes to the treatment of Jews, particularly during World War II. Klaus Barbie, the so-called "Butcher of Lyon," finally met his punishment in Lyon's Montluc prison. Marshall Petain's collaborationist government in the spa city of Vichy sent many Jews to their deaths. There are many signs that France is increasingly acknowledging its role in this shameful history, even as many Jews are leaving that country in the face of increased anti-Semitism. What are the implications of this difficult process and its effect on Jewish life in France today? Miriam Isaacs will explore the dimensions of these questions and offer insights, conversations, and observations from a recent visit.

Miriam Isaacs is a scholar of Yiddish literature and recently completed a Fulbright grant in Sweden.

Global Jewish Cultures: Jews in a Changing Latin America WEDNESDAYS, NOV. 4, 11, 18, 7:00–8:15 PM

Nov. 4—Jews of Cuba, Betty Adler

Life is changing rapidly for Cuba—and for Cuban Jews. Photographer Betty Adler was in Cuba on a humanitarian mission the day Alan Gross was released in 2014. Learn about the Jewish community's history in Cuba and see photographs of its past and present, including the first b'nai mitzvah in 50 years in a small town outside Havana.

Nov. 11—Jews of Ecuador, Betty Adler

Ecuador was settled by Spanish conquistadors, many of them "hidden Jews" or conversos. The session covers the modern history of a small but dynamic and well-to-do community arising from the ashes of European Jewry, with many photographs of a beautiful country and its synagogues, community centers, and schools. The instructor's father arrived much later, in 1939, when Ecuador was one of the few countries still accepting Jews from Europe. Photographer and instructor Betty Adler was born in Ecuador and has visited there often.

Nov. 18—Jews of El Salvador, Aaron Sztarkman

How a small community—at times only 50 families—was able to thrive in a sometimes difficult setting. Even during hard times like the Salvadoran civil war during the 1980s, this community didn't stop having services for the most important holidays. Aaron Sztarkman is a native of El Salvador. Series: Adas, JSC members $40, others $60, single sessions $15/$20.

Sacred Spaces: Tales and Laws of Synagogues and Study Halls WEDNESDAYS, NOV. 18, DEC. 2, 8:30 PM

Instructor: Norman Shore

Ashrei yoshvei veitecha, says the psalm: "Fortunate are those who live in your house." But what makes a synagogue a holy space? The class will read stories and traditional texts on the synagogue as a sacred space and its customs and history. According to the tradition, Abraham created a permanent place to pray, ancient Jerusalem was full of shtiblech—little prayer-rooms, and Alexandria, Egypt, had a mega-shul. Why do we pray in a permanent space and with a regular community? What makes a place holy, and how do we act within it? The focus of this course is on the sanctuary, but we will also discuss other roles of the synagogue, as study centers and, in modern times, a home for community centers, pre-schools, Hebrew schools, and mikvahs. educationupdate

From the Director of Education

By Rabbi Kerrith Rosenbaum

With the holidays spreading through September and into the beginning of October, it is only now that I feel as though we are finding our rhythm. And, although it is a busy year, there is something comforting about the consistency of it all. In many ways our holidays are meant to be "disruptive" to shake us from the regular routines at hand and to call our attention to something significant and different. But despite the celebration and community, the irregular schedule often takes its toll on the practicalities of everyday life.

And yet, as we settle into more normal patterns and embrace the warmth of the predictable, my wish for all of us is that we not become complacent in that comfort. The holidays, both religious and secular, often serve as an external vehicle to remind us to be joyful, to come together as families and congregations, to take time from our busy schedules to be present in a moment, and to think about the world at large. But now, as we begin to manage the tasks of daily living, we need to find our own opportunities to celebrate, to cultivate gratitude, to engage in the moment at hand, and to truly encounter the people we share our lives and our world with.

Judaism provides us with a framework that can help lift up those moments, but it is on each of us to find a way to make it personal. When is it time to take a step back and reassess? How do you express thanks? Who are the people who support you and whom you support in return? What impact can you have on those around you and in our larger society? Where do you want to put your energy moving forward? The more we can find ways to continually ask ourselves these questions and engage in these conversations, the more we are able to translate the spiritual work of the holidays into the rest of the year. We look forward to making time in our days to share these moments with you.

Gan HaYeled

Students at Gan HaYeled are enriched through hands-on learning, both within the Adas building and beyond its walls. Our STEAM room provides an opportunity for small groups of students to extend their learning of Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math. This room, a virtual treasure trove of recycled and discarded, found and natural materials, and tools, allows children to explore their world. From discovering chemistry in baking a cake or gravity in a marble run, students delight in multiday, scaffolded learning.

Off-site, our students explore and learn in both the natural and man-made adventures that await them around Cleveland Park. From afternoons spent in Rock Creek Park to walks through the National Zoo (or the local pet store), to an impromptu visit to the local

Kol HaMayim:The Voice of the Waters

There are so many wonderful ways to introduce kids to the idea and practice of mikvah. A simple question like, "Where does water come from?" can stimulate a fascinating conversation about the water cycle of our planet and how all water was present B'Resheet—at the beginning of life on Earth. Informally, kids can make the connection between their bodies and God when they are in the ocean, or even a pool or a bathtub! Kids and teens can immerse in the mikvah before Shabbat, before Yomtovim, before their bar or bat mitzvah, or to formally convert or affirm their Judaism.

Encouraging kids to think creatively about marking their own life cycles and milestones with a ritual immersion is the best way of helping the next generation of Jewish youth to grow up with positive associations about mikvah. Kids from Adas have immersed before going to Israel for the first time, before leaving home and going away to college, when they first began to drive independently, or after recovering from a serious illness, and for many other transitions they found meaningful.

Recently, Rabbi Alexander brought his son Ariel to the mikvah before Shabbat. He writes here about their experience:

Life presents us with so many transitions. As adults we experience promotions, demotions, physical changes, emotional triumphs and setbacks over the course of many years. But the rhythm of kids' lives is faster and they grow so quickly from week to week and month to month. Soon after my family moved to Washington my son Ariel (age 5) heard about the mikvah and told me he wanted to go in. To be honest, he didn't really know exactly what it was, but the idea of a little pool inside of a synagogue clearly piqued his interest and energy. So before Shabbat one week—late on a Friday afternoon—he and I scheduled time for the two of us to immerse together, marking spiritually and playfully this new space that captures so much of our new life here. We made two blessings together (he repeated after me, the blessing over the mikvah and then She-hecheyanu) and just spent about 20 minutes floating, talking, and deeply enjoying uninterrupted time without the normal noise of our busy lives. Without even one explicit word of Torah leaving either of our mouths during that time, it was a flowing sanctuary filled with Torah. Total Torah. That's what the waters of the mikvah—especially ours here at Adas—can do and be for each of us.

To make an appointment or to discuss other ways of introducing your kids to mikvah, contact Naomi Malka, 202-841-8776 or Mikvah@adasisrael.org. **

November: Sacred ConflictConflict is a natural and necessary part of our lives.

November learning is generously co-sponsored by the Annie Bass Yellen Scholar Fund.

It is present no matter how hard we try to avoid difficult situations. Conflict isn't a question of "if," but "how" we engage. Our lives hold deeper meaning when we have discipline and when we can interact and disagree with each other with dignity. This month we'll explore the concept of machlocket shem shamayim, disagreement for the sake of heaven.

New Adas Clergy Meet with Adas Israel Sisterhood at Opening Event It's all about 'Getting to Know You'

It was all about "Getting to Know You" at the Adas Israel Sisterhood Opening event on Sunday, October 25. Over 100 members and guests had the opportunity to meet and share ideas with the newest members of our clergy family: Rabbi Aaron Alexander and his wife, Rabbi Penina Alexander, and Ritual Director Hazzan Rachel Goldsmith. The event was billed as "A Little Study, a Little Song, and a Little Drash," and it certainly was.

Everyone at the opening event was treated to a powerhouse of creative connecting. The three guests of honor shared their backgrounds with the group and learned about the interests of many members of the audience. Rabbi Aaron taught a piece of Talmud about wearing tzitzit. We learned a great deal about this mitzvah, one of the 613 commandments that God instructs us to carry out.

Rabbis Aaron and Penina Alexander

Hazzan Rachel Goldsmith, Ritual Director

Then Rabbi Penina discussed her work with adolescent girls and how she taught them Jewish values. She also invited Sisterhood to do some additional imaginative programming at Adas. She then led the group in helping others learn to tie their own tzitzit.

Hazzan Rachel led the group in singing special psalms for the day as we helped each other tie our own tzitzit. She then shared her ideas on how this mitzvah relates to the beautiful ribbon ceremony she conducted next: the ceremony represents the interwoven community that the women of Sisterhood create within the Adas Israel community.

As is always the case with Sisterhood, we take away at least three things from any event: Friendship, Knowledge, and Community. Everyone at the gathering left with very positive feelings about these three concepts, and each of us felt uplifted and inspired. We offer a hearty welcome to Rabbi Aaron, Rabbi Penina, and Hazzan Rachel. We know they will be a wonderful support for Sisterhood.

A very special thank you goes to Susan Winberg and Lucy Hassell, chairs of this wonderful program.

Sisterhood will co-sponsor two Book Chats, November 8 and 22

On Sunday, November 8, at 10 am: One Nation Taken Out of Another. Cantor Ariane Brown and poet Zackary Sholem Berger will present a program of Yiddish music and poetry.

On Sunday, November 22, at 10 am: Zahav: A World of Israeli Cooking. Author and food historian Joan Nathan will interview Chef Michael Solomonov and Steven Cook about their celebrated Philadelphia restaurants and new book.

Please contact Robin Jacobson, librarian@adasisrael.org, for more information.

Tips to the Staff Holiday Gift Fund

Adas Israel Congregation is fortunate to have wonderful, dedicated maintenance, clerical, administrative, and support staff members, all of whom ensure that the synagogue runs as needed. Our staff serve our members, officers, committees, schools, and clergy in achieving the mission and goals of the congregation.

Several years ago, the synagogue adopted a policy of "no tipping" to individual staff members following events or programs. Some staff members are more visible than others, but it takes all of them to prepare.

In lieu of tipping, the congregation has created a Staff Holiday Gift Fund, which is divided equally among the support staff every December. We appreciate those who contribute to the holiday gift fund to our maintenance and support staff members in honor of their good work during the High Holy Days and throughout the year.

Ma Toul: Aaron and Erin Claxton Honoring our leaders and volunteers

Interviewed by Marcy Spiro, Director of Membership Engagement

What is your Adas Israel story? Your history with Adas, how you ended up here, why you're here?

Aaron: It was the fall of '79. My parents and I were living at Connecticut and Davenport when a friend told them about a wonderful preschool at Adas Israel called Gan HaYeled. They enrolled me immediately, and the rest is history. My mother, Betty, describes the Gan as "the gateway drug to full time Adas membership."

Erin: My first memories of Adas are from sixth and seventh grade when I would attend a bar or bat mitzvah almost every weekend. I remember the Kay Hall in its former state . . . it's way better now! Aaron and I chose to raise our kids in the same places we grew up. Adas has been "in the family" for a long time and we're happy to continue the tradition.

You both spend a lot of time and energy volunteering at Adas. What types of projects have you worked on, and why do you think it's so important to volunteer?

Aaron: Let's get this straight: ERIN volunteers. She has been a Gan room parent, chaired teacher appreciation luncheons, fancy Shabbat dinners, and is now in her second year as GPA co-president. I'm the owner and operator of a busy hair salon in Bethesda, and the only volunteering I can do right now is to drive Charlie to school every day. Hey, it helps!

Erin: I truly believe that in volunteering you will find community. In the time I've spent working on GPA events, I've bonded with many Gan and Adas staff members, I've partnered with members of our clergy, and my children and I have developed some very cherished friendships. My time with the GPA has also inspired me to reach out in my neighborhood. It's important that I show my children how important our community is—large and small.

When you're not working or volunteering, how do you like to spend time with your family?

We have a boat in Edgewater, MD, on the South River and Chesapeake Bay. Being together on the water is always relaxing for us. Memories are certainly made catching fish and cannonballing into the water. We also have family movie nights, which we call our "P. Five" parties. We get in our Pajamas, eat Pizza, Peppers, and Popcorn, and watch a Picture show.

What are some of your favorite Jewish holidays, and how do you celebrate them with your family?

We look forward to Shabbat dinner every week. It's very meaningful to light the candles and talk about all the week's events. We play a game called "High/Low" during Shabbat dinner that gives all of us the opportunity to talk about the best parts, and the not-so-best parts, of our busy week. These evenings together will allow us to continue to "stay in touch" as our children grow and change.

Pesach is always a great time for us. Every year we host around 25 friends and family for the second night seder. We recline, we sing, we eat (a lot), and we laugh as the kids scramble to find the afikomen. And while AC always leads, we look forward to his father, Rick, underscoring the importance of everyone thinking of themselves of having personally left Egypt.

What are some of your favorite places to go in DC for family fun? What about for date night?

We love the National Zoo. AC and Maeve go almost every Thursday morning. The kids love the seal feedings and the small mammal house "look and learn." We're avid Washington Capitals fans (we've had season tickets for years), so you can find us at the Verizon Center during hockey season. We have three kids under age 9 . . . what is this "date night" you speak of?

Erin, you've admitted to being a wonderful Adas recruiter. If you had to describe Adas Israel in six words to a potential member, what would those words be?

Tradition. Sanctity. Community. Belonging. Love. Home. You're answering these questions during Sukkot, and people will be reading this before Thanksgiving. On both of these holidays we give thanks. What are some of the things that you are most thankful for?

We're so thankful for the health and happiness of our children, our family and friends, and the blessing of our growing business. We're very thankful that we live in a time and place that offers so much—something not everyone in this world has. We're thankful for Adas Israel Congregation, and we are proud of the legacy our family has created there. **

A Culinary Love Affair Born from Tragedy

By Jeremy Steindecker, Adas member

Steven Cook

Michael Solomonov

2014, Eater named him "National Chef of the Year." Now, in their just-published cookbook, Zahav: A World of Israeli Cooking, Solomonov and Cook reveal how home cooks can prepare the simple-to-make dishes that critics have called "beguiling," "inspired," "seductive," and even "profound."

Modern Israeli cooking was still new in the United States and business partner Steven

Cook opened their restaurant,

Zahav, in Philadelphia in 2008.

Rave reviews quickly followed.

In 2011, Solomonov won "Best Chef: Mid-Atlantic" from the

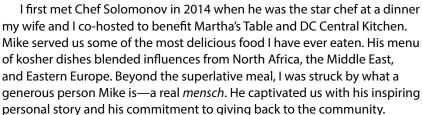

James Beard Foundation, and in

when Chef Michael Solomonov

Later this month, the Adas community will have the opportunity to hear from the celebrated Zahav team in person. On Sunday, November 22, at 10:00

Nathan will explore with Solomonov and Cook the surprising journey that led to cooking stardom. A book signing will follow the program.

Chef Solomonov was born in G'nei Yehuda, Israel, in 1978, but was raised in Pittsburgh. At age 19, with no Hebrew language skills, he returned to Israel and took the only job he could get—working in a bakery. But that job sparked his culinary fire, leading to culinary school and, later, to jobs at famed Philadelphia restaurants.

Then tragedy struck. In 2003, Solomonov's younger brother, David, an Israeli soldier, was killed by snipers near the Lebanese border on Yom Kippur. Days away from being discharged, David had volunteered to take the watch shift of a more religious soldier.

In the orchard where his brother was killed, Solomonov held a memorial dinner that he says changed the direction of his life. Although he would stay in Philadelphia, he realized that his roots were in Israel. "Until I visited that place," he said, "I had no intention of cooking Israeli food. But, after my brother's death, the path I was going to take became clear."

Following the success of Zahav, Solomonov and Cook opened other Philadelphia restaurants: Percy Street Barbecue, Federal Donuts, Abe Fisher, and Dizengoff, an Israeli-style hummusyia. A new restaurant, Rooster Soup Company, scheduled to open this winter, will donate its profits to the Broad Street Ministry, which provides meals for the homeless and other needed community services.

Come hear more of Chef Solomonov's inspiring story on Sunday, November 22!

From our B'nai Mitzvah

We express our sincerest thanks to Joseph and Ellen Goldstein for providing the books we give as gifts to our b'nai mitzvah from the Paul Goldstein-Lillian Goldstein Lande B'nai Mitzvah Book Fund. Through this fund, the children received Siddur Sim Shalom, which will be worthwhile and useful to them in the coming years. Last year's b'nai mitzvah also received Jewish Washington: Scrapbook of an American Community, underwritten in part by the Jewish Historical Society of Greater Washington.

These gifts are in addition to the kiddush Cups given by the Sisterhood and the Men's Club. We know these gifts are used because we hear from previous b'nai mitzvah and their parents that they use them in high school and take them when they go off to college. We are grateful for the opportunity to provide these special gifts. *

Ezra Pantry

Kol Hakavod! Yom Kippur Food Drive a Success!

Many thanks to all who contributed food to our annual Kol Nidre Food drive, enabling us to send hundreds and hundreds of pounds of food to S.O.M.E (So Others Might Eat). The Ezra Pantry project continues all year long (in addition to the special food drives during High Holy Days and Pesach), so please remember to "bring one more" when you come to synagogue. Todah rabah!

Winter Coat Drive

The Ezra Pantry begins its annual Winter Coat Drive to benefit S.O.M.E. (So Others Might Eat). Now that you're digging out your winter clothes, please consider donating your outgrown coats or ones that your family members will not wear again to Ezra Pantry. You'll see a large wardrobe box in the coat room dedicated to winter coats. Let's fill it! Bring in winter coats by Thanksgiving, and they will be donated to someone in need. Thank you!

A Mitzvah for Thanksgiving—Dinner for Luther Place Shelter/N Street Village

It is Adas Israel's privilege to provide Thanksgiving dinner for homeless or low-income women at the Luther Place Night Shelter of N Street Village. Our mitzvah date is Thanksgiving, Thursday, November 26. We prepare and deliver a traditional Thanksgiving meal for 25–30 people. Volunteers bring food that is fully prepared, ready to reheat and be enjoyed, and delivered in disposable containers.

Better yet, join the cadre of Adas congregants who help provide food for this transition shelter the fourth Thursday of every month. Adas Israel members have been providing dinners to Luther Place Women's Shelter, one of the earliest N Street Village programs, for more than 20 years. Each month Laura Epstein organizes 10 or so volunteers to contribute a meal, and Roger Nehrer delivers the food. Volunteers, who can participate once in a while or every month, contribute something simple like 30 apples or an entrée for 10.

We can always use more volunteers. Located in the Logan Circle area, N Street Village has as its formal mission statement: "N Street Village empowers homeless and low-income women to claim their highest quality of life by offering a broad spectrum of services and advocacy in an atmosphere of dignity and respect. The Village also provides affordable rental housing for low- and moderate-income individuals and families."

The Village began in 1973 as an outgrowth of ProJeCt (Protestant-Jewish-Catholic), an interfaith response to the suffering in our nation's capital. According to a 2012 District count, N Street Village was serving over 60% of DC's adult female homeless population (those unaccompanied by minor children). Adas Israel is proud to be an N Street Village partner.

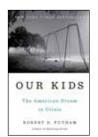

To help with Thanksgiving and monthly dinners for N Street Village, contact Laura Epstein, laura_epstein@hotmail.com. *

Our Kids: The American Dream, Dec. 1

Adas's lay leadership and clergy have supported social action projects and advocacy on the critical DC issues of housing, homelessness, and poverty. As the Social Action Council continues to explore ways in which the congregation can buttress its already robust communal involvement to have even more impact, we'd like to invite the congregation to a book discussion that will give all of us a chance to reflect on where we are and begin—together— to together chart a path forward.

The book is Our Kids: The American Dream in Crisis by Robert Putnam. Rabbi Alexander and members of the Social Action Committee will lead the discussion. We encourage everyone to read as much as you can (we'll focus on chapters 1,2,4, and 5) and join us December 1after kiddush for a lively discussion. $\mathbb{\psi}$

Attention: Class of 5779 Bar/Bat Mitzvah Candidates

We are in the process of organizing the b'nai mitzvah class of 5779, which includes children who will be celebrating this milestone between August 2018 and June 2019. Below is a list of children of our members who, according to our records, should celebrate becoming b'nai mitzvah with the class of 5779 (which means they were born between July 2005 and July 2006).

Bar/bat mitzvah dates are assigned to members in good standing with children enrolled in our Estelle & Melvin Gelman Religious School or in a Jewish Day School. Members delinquent in their synagogue account or not enrolled in school will delay assignment of their child's date.

If your child is missing from this list and you believe he or she should be included with this bar/bat mitzvah group and celebrate between August 2018 and June 2019,

OR if your child is in the 4th grade and you would like him or her to be included,

OR if you have any questions,

Please contact Beryl Saltman in the rabbis' office, 202-362-4433, ext. 121, or beryl.saltman@adasisrael.org, so we can add your child to the list below.

Mark your calendars for Sunday, January 10, for the 5779 B'nai Mitzvah Parents' Meeting with Rabbi Gil Steinlauf, Cantor Arianne Brown, Rabbi Kerrith Rosenbaum, Hazzan Rachel Goldsmith, and Naomi Malka (coffee at 9:30 am, meeting at 10 am) to assign bar/bat mitzvah dates.

Panel: Where Do You Go for News You Can Trust About Israel?

A discussion moderated by

Robert Satloff

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 11, 7:00 PM

"You are entitled to your own opinion," Daniel Patrick Moynihan is supposed to have said, "but not to your own facts." Do people who disagree politically on Israel sometimes seem to be working from different sets of facts? With so many possible sources of news and insight, how do we learn what we know about Israel and, more generally, about the Middle East? If you're confused, where should you look for guidance? What should you read? Whose Twitter should you follow? In this panel discussion, journalists, scholars, and advocates with different perspectives on Israeli politics will discuss how they stay informed. Robert Satloff is executive director of the Washington Institute for Near East Policy. Tamara Coffman Wittes is director of the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at the Brookings Institution. From 2009 through 2012 she was a Deputy Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs at the U.S. State Department.

Paul Scham is executive director of the Joseph and Alma Gildenhorn Institute for Israel Studies at the University of Maryland. Josh Block is president and CEO of The Israel Project and a former director of strategic communications for AIPAC. Cost: Adas, JSC members $15, others $2.0
