MakomDC’s theme for March is Courage & Cowardice. How prescient of our rabbis and committee members to have selected a theme as timely as this. As I look at the challenges facing us as Americans and Jews, it seems apparent that our values and identities as Jews call upon us to find the courage to stand up for what we believe is right. I believe that our synagogue community has many chances to explore this, not just in how we respond to the challenges facing us in the broader regional, national, and world arenas, but also internally, within our own Jewish community. Here at Adas Israel, we celebrate diversity and provide myriad experiences and opportunities to express our Judaism. We are proud of our pluralistic religious expression and we are actively engaged in tikkun olam. These are reflections of our Judaism and the values by which we choose to live our lives.

As the largest Conservative congregation in Washington, DC, we are proud to be the spiritual home to a broad array of people. We work in business, government, politics, foreign affairs, and greet visitors passing through, as well as students, interns, and others who are looking for a spiritual home. We welcome all who seek to join us and value the opportunity to learn about what we share in common as well as ways in which we differ.

In the spirit of all that Adas Israel members are doing to create a better place, we have the chance to be courageous in our efforts to be open to hearing and engaging with one another. Whether it is in one of our committees or task forces like Israel Engagement, Bylaws, Board of Directors, Religious Practices,

Rabbi Lauren Holtzblatt

My kids have this great book, called Higher and Higher, which is an old Yiddish folktale that I love. It is the story of a rabbi who disappears every Yom Kippur. His congregants believe that he is going to meet God to confess the sins of the community. A certain skeptical someone comes along and questions whether the rabbi is really meeting God on Yom Kippur. So Mr. Skeptical and the rest of the community set out to follow the rabbi. (Don’t get any ideas.)

Several members of the community secretly watch on Yom Kippur morning as the rabbi exits his home in a disguise. The community members watching barely recognize their rabbi. Then they watch as all Yom Kippur day the rabbi delivers food to the poor, sticks for making fires for the poorest in the community, blankets, and clothing.

Mr. Skeptical, feeling quite proud of himself for catching the rabbi, says to the others, “See! He was not meeting God, he was serving the needs of the community and on Yom Kippur!!” The others look at him and say, “Indeed, he was communing with God.”

I love this story because it is a constant reminder to me that not only are acts of hesed among the most holy in our tradition, but, when they are done for someone we do not even know, then we are breaking through boundaries where love is sometimes kept hidden in a fortress.

Recently, I visited a congregant who was healing from a surgical procedure. We spoke about many things, but the most prominent topic in the conversation was how moved she was by the Hesed team’s response to her needs. She was overwhelmed by how many people stepped forward to cook for her, to deliver food, even people she had never met.

A similar conversation occurred when I was sitting with a family who had lost a loved one. They were feeling that they were in the midst of emotional chaos from loss, but one of the most grounding pieces of their healing was knowing that the community at Adas was a caring presence. They were nurtured throughout the entire funeral by the Bereavement Committee and, after shiva, were received with loving arms by the morning minyan.

Throughout my time at Adas, the piece of my work that has been most moving is watching volunteers give hours of their time and expertise to make the lives of other congregants better. Many times the volunteers in our community are helping people they have never met before, forging new bonds that can last a lifetime. This is how a community grows—by individuals realizing that they are a part of a greater whole that is endlessly affected by acts of hesed. And when one is on the receiving end of an act of kindness, she only wants to give back so that the next person or family is

Special Guest Speaker Anat Hoffman on Women of the Wall
Wednesday, March 22, at 7:30 pm

Please join us on Wednesday, March 22, at 7:30 pm, as we welcome guest speaker Anat Hoffman, who will discuss her experiences working with Israel's Women of the Wall organization. Anat has committed her life to social justice as a founding member of Women of the Wall, which seeks to obtain equal rights for women to pray at the Western Wall. This special one-night discussion will offer insight into Anat's experiences as she shares personal accounts of her advocacy work.

Anat Hoffman became Executive Director of the Israel Religious Action Center in April 2002. She guides IRAC in promoting Jewish pluralism, tolerance, and equality and in combating racism, corruption, and religious coercion. During her tenure at IRAC, she has also expanded the organization's mission to go beyond the courts and the Knesset, and to engage in helping people directly through social action.

She represented the Civil Rights and Peace Movement on the Jerusalem City Council and specialized in attending to the details of municipal administration, where big decisions are often hidden away in the fine print. In doing so, she became a familiar figure in the Israel Supreme Court.

Anat was born in Jerusalem and in her teens was an Israeli swimming champion. After her army service, she received her BSc in psychology at the University of California, Los Angeles, and then pursued graduate studies at Bar Ilan University. She was a founding member of Women of the Wall, and she served on the boards of the Israel Women's Network, the Association for Civil Rights in Israel, and many other Israeli organizations for social change.

In recent years, Anat has become a sought-after lecturer, addressing audiences in Israel and in the United States on subjects close to her heart: social justice, religious pluralism, Jewish-Arab coexistence, and equal rights for women and minorities.

Garden of the Righteous
Honoring the Veseli Family from Albania
Sunday, April 23, 10:30 am–12:00 pm

We hope the ENTIRE Adas Israel community will join us for this annual Adas Israel event.

On Sunday April 23, the congregation will honor the memories of the Veseli family from Albania: Vesel and Fatima and their sons, Refik, Hamid, and Xhemal Veseli. The Veseli family sheltered the families of Moshe Mandil and Josef Ben Joseph from Yugoslavia.

Albania was the only country in Nazi-occupied Europe that ended World War II with more Jews than before the war started. For the Veseli family, and for all Albanians, protecting Jews during the Holocaust was part of besa, which literally means “to keep the promise.” This Albanian code of honor requires that individuals protect anyone in danger regardless of their religious or political affiliation, to extend hospitality, and to treat them as part of their family. According to the International School for Holocaust Studies, every one of the 200 Jews living in Albania before the war was saved by Albanian citizens, and 2,000 Jewish refugees were hidden, housed, and provided for by Albanians.

The Adas Israel Garden of the Righteous is a beautiful reminder of numerous acts of decency and daring performed by many non-Jews in the midst of one of the most tragic moments in human history. The entire community is cordially invited for this moving event.

This program, initiated in 1992 by Rabbi Jeffrey A. Wohlberg to honor non-Jews who risked their lives to save Jews during the Holocaust, is supported in part by the Peter Dreyer Memorial Fund, the Scott Dreyer Fund, and the Ryna & Melvin Cohen Senior Rabbi Program Fund. We look forward to seeing you there.

New Member Oneg
Friday, March 10 at 5:30pm
Please join us in the Biran Beit Midrash on Friday, March 10, at 5:30 pm, for a new member reception. This is an invitation to all our wonderful new members to join us for a relaxed meet and greet with the Adas Israel clergy, lay leaders, and community members! Long-standing members of the community are also encouraged to attend to welcome our new friends to Adas Israel! Join us for services after the reception, choose from Return Again to Shabbat or our Traditional Lay-Led service, both of which begin at 6:30 pm.
Eat Drink and Be Holy: The Holiday of Purim

On its surface, the holiday of Purim is fairly straightforward, characterized by an atmosphere of joy and celebration. We are required to eat and to drink; we parade around in outlandish costumes; and we make loud noises that can hardly be described as dignified. Not only are children expected to wear costumes; adults as well are encouraged to wear costumes and participate in the joyous celebration. Still, beneath its almost too obvious guise of merriment, Purim is marked by a seriousness of purpose equal to that of the most solemn holiday. We are required to perform a variety of mitzvot—and from each, we learn an important lesson.

One of the most important things we learn from Purim is that no person can exist alone. We share with others not only our daily lives, but our hopes and dreams as well. Hillel taught: “Al tifrosh min ha’tziibbur—Do not separate yourself from the community.” In each of the mitzvot we perform on Purim, we learn something new about the concept of sharing.

Reading the Megillah

Each year, we are required to listen to the complete reading of Megillat Esther. We are instructed to listen to every word and to do this twice—evening and evening.
morning. Perhaps, in attending these public readings, we are learning the value of sharing with the entire community recognition of, and appreciation for, our collective triumph over adversity.

Defeating Haman was a shared enterprise. Mordecai and Esther led the way, supported by the prayers of the entire Jewish people. In every generation, there are those like Haman who prey on people’s basest fears in order to maximize their own power. Confronting such evil must be a shared responsibility. While one group may be singled out for harsh treatment, it is the responsibility of all good people to fight against this kind of tyranny.

Mishloach Manot

Each year, increasing numbers of Jews are discovering the wonderful Purim custom of sharing food with friends and neighbors, giving at least two types of food to at least two recipients. The mitzvah of mishloach manot is based on the verse in the Megillah instructing us to “send portions one to another” (9:22). Some people bake hamentaschen and other goodies, while others send food packages through their synagogue. Use this opportunity to spread Purim cheer to those who might not otherwise receive such gifts. Consider bringing some brightly decorated baskets to seniors, the homebound, or newcomers.

Matanot L’Evyonim

Based on the injunction in the Megillah that we must “send gifts to the poor” (9:22), the holiday affords us a special opportunity to share our good fortune with those in need. Gifts can be given directly, for example, bringing food and clothing to a homeless shelter, or indirectly, through an organized charity. It is important to keep in mind that whatever additional tzedakah we give throughout the year, donations must still be given on Purim. How important is this mitzvah? As Maimonides writes in his Mishneh Torah (Hilkhot Megillah 2:17): “It is better for a person to increase gifts to the poor than to increase his feast or the mishloach manot to his neighbors.”

Seudat Purim

Few things are more pleasurable than sharing a celebratory meal with our families. Happily, the Megillah tells us that Purim should be a time for feasting. This year, approach the Purim seudah with the commitment we bring to preparing the Passover seder. Wear special clothing (off-beat costumes are definitely permitted), prepare special foods, and learn Purim songs.

Erev Purim is on Saturday evening March 11; Purim is on Sunday, March 12. Chag Purim Sameach!!
Siddur Lev Shalem for Shabbat and Festivals, published by the Conservative Movement Rabbinical Assembly, will soon join the successful High Holy Day Mahzor Lev Shalem in all of our prayer spaces and bookshelves at Adas Israel. Like our wonderful High Holy Day mahzor, it features a four-column format; new translations in contemporary language; commentary providing historical context; and a variety of kavanot, poetry, and prose that expand and enrich our relationship to the text.

The Adas Israel Religious Practices Committee (Steve Kleinrock, chair) worked tirelessly with clergy and community members to carefully review the selection, and Cantor Arianne Brown hosted a learning session to explore the new siddur over the summer. The committee recommended the selection, and the Board of Directors voted unanimously to approve it.

We are very excited about the selection. The adoption of a new siddur, a truly momentous occasion, will offer us an enriched and shared tool for accessing our Jewish prayer experience as community. A formal opportunity to introduce and celebrate our treasured new siddurim will take place during Shabbat services on May 6, 2017.

To acquire these magnificent new siddurim, we are seeking the support of the entire community. Members and friends are invited to dedicate one or more of these new books in honor or memory of a loved one or a special event in your life. With your contribution of $36 per siddur (or 10 for $350), you may select the wording for the dedication plate to be placed in the front of each book.

To dedicate a siddur, which will be a permanent part of our Adas community worship, please use the form on this page; contact the synagogue front desk at 202-362-4433; or visit our website at adasiswa.org/siddur. A list of all dedications will have an individual bookplate and will appear in a future Chronicle.

This siddur draws from the geographic and historical expanse of Jewish life. For use in both the home and the synagogue, it includes all the traditional prayers, psalms, and songs that are familiar from previous Conservative siddurim, but is also a treasured anthology, offering a wide array of readings that can be used to celebrate Shabbat as well as material for study about Shabbat: poems both ancient and modern, Hasidic wisdom, rabbinic midrashim, and commentary on the history and diversity of the liturgy. In addition to modern translations, most of the key blessings, psalms, and songs are transliterated to enable Jews from all backgrounds to participate fully in welcoming Shabbat, and the extensive commentary is geared to both the novice and the learned, offering historical insight and spiritual meaning. We look forward to sharing it with all of you.

Siddur Lev Shalem
A Personal Letter from Cantor Arianne Brown

I remember my excitement at receiving my first siddur. Our aleph class stood on the bima on a Friday night as our cantor led us in singing the Aleph Bet song. My mom had decorated it with red fluffy paint and stenciled my name in Hebrew letters, along with some hearts. Her note to me is in the back, and the synagogue’s note in the front, telling me to love and cherish my Jewish tradition.

Though it has been a long time since the Silverman prayer book was in use, I still feel a rush of warmth when I take my siddur off the shelf. I hug it to my body and give the cover a kiss. Without even opening the cover, I see parts of my childhood in it—the worn, darkened pages along the side that delineate Kabbalat Shabbat and Musaf, the ripped and taped Ashrei page from when my sister was a toddler, the tattered binding in the front.

As the Jewish people, we’re “the people of the Book.” Some think of that Book as the Torah, while others insist that it is the siddur—the prayers that we recite over and over again. The prayers that we recite over and over again are the window to our future, the Torah, while others insist that it is the acknowledgments of life in our places of worship. We see this in our siddur in so many ways, including:

- Egalitarian translations that do not address God in a gendered form
- A misheberach (blessing) celebrating the adoption of a child
- A general misheberach for any life transition
- Various singular/plural, and male/female conjugations in both Hebrew and English, making it easier to acknowledge all forms of relationships and parents in blessings prior to weddings and celebrating children’s birthdays
- A misheberach of comfort for someone who will not recover from an illness
- A Yizkor reading of remembrance for a parent who was hurtful in life

I hope you will mark your calendars to join us on Shabbat morning, May 6, as we lovingly bid farewell to our Siddur Sim Shalom, and we dedicate our new Siddur Lev Shalem.

See the previous page for a siddur dedication form. I encourage you to dedicate a siddur to Adas Israel, and hope that you will also purchase one for yourself—a siddur you can have as your own, one you can hug tight, write your own thoughts and prayers in the margins, and us to create new memories.

MakomDC March Learning:

‘Open Beit Midrash’ Night in the Biran Beit Midrash
TUESDAY, MARCH 7 @ 7:30 PM
A place to sit across the table from fellow seekers and explore the rich, sophisticated, sacred texts that have animated our people for so many years.

We’ll question together, grapple together, and passionately talk through the uplifting and challenging ideas these ancient and modern texts provide. Jewish learning has the potential to create an unmatched soulful energy. The “Open Beit Midrash” is where that energy is found.

Scholar: Rabbi Dr. Shai Held
TUESDAY, MARCH 14 @ 7:30 PM
Join us as our March scholar, Rabbi Dr. Shai Held, teaches on this month’s topic, Courage & Cowardice. Rabbi Held is an awarded theologian, scholar, and Jewish educator, who has been named multiple times to Newsweek’s list of the 50 most influential rabbis.

*This event will be livestreamed: adasisrael.org/adaslive

The Text
TUESDAY, MARCH 21 @ 7:30 PM
Explore transformative Jewish texts in their original Aramaic and Hebrew. That means we will break our teeth together and study with no translations but with lots of support from your peers and teachers.

Post-Kiddush Halakhah Class
SATURDAY, MARCH 25 @ 1:00 PM
Rabbi Alexander will give a text-based class, after kiddush, using halakhah (Jewish life and living) as a prism with which to access our monthly topic. We’ll explore the unique intersection of courage and cowardice as it appears in Jewish legal texts, with serious attention to how it has evolved over the centuries.

Ongoing Learning:

Jewish Values: Israel & Palestine
“iEngage” Series with Rabbi Gil Steinlauf, Curriculum from the Shalom Hartman Institute
SUNDAY, MARCH 5 @ 10:00 AM, BIRAN BEIT MIDRASH
Through the careful study of Jewish narratives about Israel, and the unpacking of the complex meanings of peace in Jewish tradition, Rabbi Steinlauf invites you to encounter the ideas and values that animate different attitudes toward the conflict and how these values shape their own political understandings. Brought to you by the Israel Engagement Committee at Adas Israel.

Boker Or Shabbat Study
SATURDAY MORNINGS @ 8:30 AM
MARCH 4, Rabbi Alexander
MARCH 11, Rabbi Steinlauf
MARCH 18, Guest Rabbi Elianna Yolkut
MARCH 25, Rabbi Alexander
Boker Or meets Saturday mornings in the Biran Beit Midrash with the weekly portion as its focus.

Friday Parsha Study with Rabbi Lauren Holtzblatt or Rabbi Aaron Alexander
FRIDAY MORNINGS @ 10:00 AM
First and second Friday study a piece of the weekly parsha through the eyes of the Hasidic masters, guided by Rabbi Holtzblatt. On the third and fourth Friday explore a verse or two of the weekly parsha in its rabbinic context, with attention to modern messages and meanings, guided by Rabbi Alexander.

Livestreaming in the Biran Beit Midrash
Adas Israel Congregation is pleased to offer livestreaming of many of our events in the Biran Beit Midrash, including our monthly featured MakomDC scholars. What is livestreaming? If you can’t make it to Adas, you’ll still be able to connect to a live feed through any computer, laptop or mobile device! Visit adasisrael.org/adaslive to view upcoming broadcast times and recently archived videos.

Courage & Cowardice
Moral Strength & Emotional Weakness
“One should strengthen herself to wake up like a lion to serve her creator in the morning so that it is she who awakens the dawn” (Orach Chayim 1:1). Courage is cultivated by a lifetime of awakening and finding the light, the good, the just. We rise up with moral strength, not only from turning toward the good again and again, but by falling too. The fear in us that wants us to hide and run away is a teacher, too. It shows us the dark spaces that need the dawn. In this month’s learning, we’ll look at moral courage and what it takes to face the darkness. Register online or by calling Melissa Adler, 202-362-4433, ext. 146.
From the Director of Education

By Rabbi Kerrith Rosenbaum

“Upside down” and “inside out” are often terms that go together, describing disorder, chaos, or something that is topsy-turvy. But “inside out” can also be seen as an invitation to invite the outside world in, and share our inside world with those around us—fostering better understanding and developing deeper relationships. One wonderful example of this is the Pixar movie Inside Out, which became an immediate fan favorite upon its release in 2015. In the movie, we, the audience, are invited inside the emotional world of Riley, an 11-year-old girl. We meet Joy, Sadness, Anger, Fear, and Disgust, and we have a front-row seat to the complicated internal dynamics that affect Riley’s day-to-day existence.

This behind-the-scenes glimpse allows us insight into her experience that her parents and those around her are not privy to. Our understanding of the many pieces that determine her actions enables us to tap into our empathy and compassion as we watch her journey. Purim is an invitation to experience our world as being upside down and inside out. As we imagine what that could look like, we engage in revelry and silliness, and take a stark look at this moment in our shared history. At the same time, let’s remember that we can also use this as an opportunity to share what we might not normally share, to invite others in and, in return, to be sensitive to the “insides” that they share with us.

Purim

By Yoni Buckman, Youth & Family Educator

A salient theme of Purim is discovering that which is hidden. Megillah Esther, the Book of Esther, is known for not including the name or any explicit mention of God. A cornerstone of Jewish religious life is transforming the mundane by introducing the sacred, searching for and infusing sparks of the Divine in moments that seem devoid of the remarkable—taking time to recite blessings when we eat or drink, adding intention to our transitions from one space to the next by affixing mezuzot on our doorposts, and reciting prayers before bed and after arising. Opportunities to enhance and uplift our lives are not confined to the walls of sacred spaces or to periodic extraordinary moments. One of the joys of the holiday of Purim is celebrating our ability to mix the sacred and the secular, to challenge what is absurd and what is proper, and to confuse the mundane with the spectacular. Though Purim is just one day, it can shake up our year and awaken us to many beautiful truths in our world that lie just below our conscious perception.

Religious School Curriculum: Hakarat HaTov

Hakarat HaTov: gratitude; recognition of the good; appreciation. Like most other mature human virtues, being grateful is not a natural state. Developing a sense of appreciation is a learned behavior for everything from the gift of life to physical “things.” We learn through direct instruction, storytelling, modeled behavior, and experiences that practice the desired behavior.

Hakarat HaTov serves as an antidote to the all-too-human impulse to take things for granted. Judaism refers to the Biblical creation story as a confirmation that the entire world really belongs to God. We are but caretakers of all we possess, including our bodies and souls. That understanding should free us from jealousy and avarice, empower us to share what we have with those in need, and encourage us to use our resources to perfect creation.

The translation of Hakarat HaTov, “recognizing the good,” can also be stated as “recognizing the דְּרוֹאָה” where דְּרוֹאָה is one of the names of God. Cultivating feelings of Hakarat HaTov may be the “gateway skill” for prayer, recognizing the needs of others, as well as other virtues that are eclipsed by human ego. In young people, especially in adolescents, recognizing the good in people and situations may counter feelings of depression or cynicism. Living an appreciative life reduces anxiety and heightens joy. With satisfaction come relaxation and calm.

Personnel, Social Action, Budget or Investment committees, we are deeply committed to working on behalf of Klal Yisrael as well as Adas Israel. Our synagogue members can rely upon our leadership’s commitment to follow our Jewish values as we courteously and civilly work together to make decisions. We also strive for transparency. Therefore, we have held listening sessions to assist us in updating the bylaws, committees regularly submit reports of their activities to the Board, and we are pleased to have so many broadly engaged members. Whether we represent Hillel or Shammai, I am proud to see our congregants displaying respect for each other as we work toward achieving common goals. ✨

B’nai Mitzvah

Jacob Strouse, March 4
Jacob, son of David and Mimi Strouse, is a seventh grader at The Field School. He began his Jewish education at Gan HaYeled and is a student at the Estelle & Melvin Gelman Religious School. He shares this simcha with his younger sister, Isabelle, as well as both maternal and paternal grandparents and other family and friends.

Eve Muller, March 4 (TEM)
Eve, daughter of Kathy O’Neill and Dan Muller, is a seventh grader at Holton-Arms School. She began her Jewish education at the Gan and has been a student at the Adas religious school since kindergarten. Eve enjoys helping people in need, especially the elderly, and plans on incorporating this interest into her mitzvah project. She shares this simcha with her family; her brother Sam; her parents; and many aunts, uncles, and cousins.

Hershel Samson “Sammy” Rabinowitz, March 11 (TEM)
Sammy, the son of Laurie Moskowitz and Steve Rabinowitz, is a seventh grader at Charles E. Smith Jewish Day School. Sammy is a proud graduate of Gan HaYeled and the Jewish Primary Day School of the Nation’s Capital and spends part of each summer at Camp Ramah in New England. Sammy looks forward to celebrating his simcha in the Traditional Egalitarian Minyan, where he has grown up, along with his older brother Jake, his parents, grandparents Dara and Jerry Moskowitz, and friends and family from near and far. At this time we remember with love Sammy’s grandfather and namesake, Harold Rabinowitz, as well as his grandmother Dorothy Rabinowitz (both z’l).

Lucy Geffen, March 18
Lucy, daughter of Roxana and Danny Geffen, is a seventh grader at Sheridan School and in the Estelle & Melvin Gelman Religious School. She celebrates her bat mitzvah with her grandparents, brothers Felix and Simon, and lots of extended family and friends.

Mikvah Guide Training
April 19 and 20
Mikvah Guides support people through profound moments of personal and spiritual transition and facilitate a connection to the Holy through Jewish ritual. They offer themselves as witnesses to both quiet moments and joyous celebrations. Mikvah Guides can attest to the beauty of Jewish tradition in addressing the sanctity of the body. This spring, the Adas Israel Community Mikvah is looking to train a fourth cadre of volunteers. This opportunity is open to women and men of all ages, from all levels of Jewish observance. The training dates are Wednesday, April 19, 6:00–7:30 pm, or Thursday, April 20, 12:00–1:30 pm (choose one of these times). No experience is necessary. A background in social work, therapy, or health care may be useful, but anyone with the right amount of sensitivity to others can be a good guide. This is a great opportunity for learning, growth and connection.

Some occasions when your guidance might be called upon:
Life-Cycle Events, In/Fertility, Healing, Aging, Conversions, Welcoming Interfaith Families, Monthly Cycles
Again, you don’t have to be a mikvah user to continue on page 14
Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel said: “To be spiritual is to be amazed.” But how do we find our spiritual center when we feel despair? How can we see through darkness to find a spark of amazement? Perhaps it’s when we join together in song on Shabbat. Or when we can take our own few minutes of “Shabbat” during the week to escape the noise of the hours that seem louder and busier than ever. Maybe it’s when we can sit quietly in meditation or move our bodies in rhythm with our breath and find a little extra space to open our eyes to “the beautiful, mysterious, and holy things” happening all around us.

Even in darkness, whether personal or communal, mystery and wonder are there to be seen. Please join JMCW as together we sing, sit, breathe, and move to connect with ourselves, each other, and the Jewish tradition of amazement.

‘Return Again’ Service with Rabbi Holtzblatt and Elie Greenberg
Friday, March 10, 6:30 pm
This monthly service is a favorite of all generations in our congregation! In the style of our innovative outdoor Kol Nidre service, join our reflective journey into the power of Shabbat with seasoned musicians and a spiritual excursion into prayer and song. A festive Israeli tapas-style feast follows.

Weekly Tuesday Evening Meditation, 7:30–8:45 pm
Led by one of four rabbis, the sessions include a teaching, an exploration of Jewish meditation techniques, and a silent meditation sit. Beginners and experienced meditators alike are most welcome!

Yoga & Kabbalah: Two Traditions, One Path with Rabbi Benjamin Shalva
Five-week mini-series, Sundays: March 5, 19, 26, and April 2, 11:00 am–12:15 pm
Online registration required: see the JMCW web page (www.adasisrael.org/jmcw/). Yoga provides us a path to wholeness through the connection of body, mind and soul. Kabbalah, Jewish mysticism, also points us toward wholeness. Join Rabbi Benjamin Shalva for an engaging and embodied exploration of these two ancient traditions. Participants will become familiar with key Kabbalistic ideas and will discover, through integrated Yogic and Kabbalistic practices, the benefits of melding these two traditions. No prior knowledge of Yoga or Kabbalah necessary.

Our goal should be to live life in radical amazement. . . . get up in the morning and look at the world in a way that takes nothing for granted. Everything is phenomenal; everything is incredible; never treat life casually. To be spiritual is to be amazed.

JMCW Recommends . . .
I Asked For Wonder: A Spiritual Anthology, by Abraham Joshua Heschel
Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel is considered one of the most influential Jewish thinkers of the 20th century through his writing, social activism, and many teachings, including those addressing the interdependence of God and humanity. This volume contains beautiful essays on wonder and radical amazement. This book is available in the Adas Library, along with other books on Jewish spirituality, meditation, and mindfulness. Some of these can be found under call number 175.01, or speak with Adas Librarian Robin Jacobson (librarian@adasisrael.org) for more information.

The Jewish Mindfulness Center of Washington @ Adas (JMCW) offers services, programs, and workshops that help deepen contemplative practices as part of our individual and communal religious and spiritual lives. Along with our joyous monthly Return Again Services, the JMCW offers weekly meditation, yoga, Shacharit, and Shabbat Awakening services. Watch this space each month to follow these JMCW offerings, along with additional special programming. Happy Purim from Sisterhood Co-Presidents Marcy Feuerstein and Miriam Rosenthal

On behalf of the Board and Officers of Adas Israel Sisterhood, we wish everyone a freilichin Purim—a very happy Purim. We hope it is a day when we see meaning and purpose behind everyday details and we glimpse unimagined hope and truth behind what is usually masked from view.

Celebrating Last Month’s Sisterhood Shabbat

Thank you to the following people for a successful Sisterhood Shabbat: the rabbis, synagogue staff, students in the Ma’alot program, volunteer instructors, and Shabbat service participants; Donald Saltz for underwriting Sisterhood Shabbat; Dr. Amy Kalmanofsky of the Jewish Theological Seminary, Mozelle Saltz Sisterhood Speaker; the Honorable David S. Tatel, U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, the Honorable Beryl A. Howell, Chief Judge of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, and the Honorable Judith Bartnoff of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, who presided over Miriam’s Appeal; Ed Hoffman and Hoffman Caterers for a delicious kiddush; and the Sisterhood Shabbat Committee: June Kress (chair), Marcy Feuerstein, Miriam Rosenthal, Leah Hadad, April Rubin, Betsy Strauss, Julie Weisman, and Kinney Zalesne.

Weekday Torah with Sisterhood

Tuesday, March 21 at 10:00 am

Please join Weekday Torah with Sisterhood at 10:00 am on Tuesday, March 21, in the Biran Beit Midrash. Community leader and scholar Norman Shore will lead a discussion on Jewish answers to the age-old question: When is it okay to lie? The class will examine biblical sources, rabbinic stories, and legal texts on lying, white lies, and evasions in situations, including personal relations, job interviews, promoting peace, preventing others from taking advantage of you, and thwarting the government. And no worries—some texts will encourage truth-telling!

Weekday Torah with Sisterhood is an engaging approach to traditional Hebrew text study that offers participants the opportunity to study and discuss challenging texts and ideas. This class is open to the entire Adas Israel community. Classes are monthly, except in the summer, and usually meet on the second or third Tuesday of the month. Students of all levels and backgrounds are welcome.

To RSVP and for more information, please contact Marilyn Cooper at MarilynCCooper70@gmail.com.

Weekday Torah with Sisterhood will meet on the following dates: March 21, April 25, May 16, and June 20.

Special Event: Max Ticktin Memorial Latke-Hamentasch Debate!

March 8, 7:00–9:00 pm

The Jewish Study Center and Adas Israel are pleased to host this annual comic symposium delving into the eternal question: Which is better, the latke or the hamentasch? As always, scholars and celebrities will weigh the academic, political and religious aspects of this important and controversial question!

After the hour (or so) debate, the audience is invited to conduct their own tasty research with the latkes and hamentaschen that are included in the price of admission. We’ve renamed the debate this year in loving memory of our founder, Max Ticktin (z”l), who brought the debate to Washington from the University of Chicago. Adas, JSC members $12, others $15.

Celebrating Our Members!

We at Adas Israel Congregation would like to wish a mazal tov to all of our members who are celebrating an amazing milestone; 65+ years as an Adas Israel member!

We are so grateful that you have continued to be a part of our wonderful Adas community, and feel truly blessed to have you as members.

Our fondest wish is that you come to be a part of something beautiful that will not only enrich your life, but will make this world a better place as well. We hope that as a member you have shared many moments of simcha (joy) and kedusha (holiness), and we look forward to many more.

Social Action Team Updates

Refugee Team News:
Welcome Project
Volunteers Furnish a New Home for Iraqi Family

In less than one week, with much compassion, generous donations, and the enormous muscle power of many of our volunteers, we created a warm and welcoming home for a refugee family to be settled in Riverside, MD. Less than a week before (at the MLK Shabbat Dinner no less), Lutheran Social Services (LSS) asked if we could furnish an apartment for an Iraqi family of three (a couple and their 11-year-old daughter) arriving on January 20. It seemed a bit crazy at the moment, but with over 80 volunteers signed up and ready to get involved, there was nothing to do but swing into action.

Our notice went out late on Sunday evening. Offers of furniture and other items came flooding in, and by Wednesday evening, the apartment had gone from bare to beautiful. If we learn more about this family, including other ways we can help them settle into our area, we will let everyone know. We have offered to assist LSS in other apartment set-ups while we wait and see if we will be assigned a refugee family to co-sponsor fully.

Many thanks to all who contributed to this apartment! Thanks to our schleppers and move-in specialists: Toni and David Bickart, Alex Levy, and Eliav and Adiv Brooks-Rubin. A special thanks to Amy Golen and Liana Brooks-Rubin, who lead the Adas Welcome Project, for making this happen. And we thank those who have already donated financially to the Refugee Response Team. Please note that donations can be sent by check to Adas Israel with “Refugee Fund” in the memo line or online via the Adas website. If you donate online, please select “Other Fund Not Listed” and write in “Refugee Fund.”

Adas Israel Hesed Calls Team

The joy of hesed is manifested through many types of outreach activities at Adas. One of the special ways Adas members are touched by Hesed is through phone calls. The Hesed Committee offers two types of phone calls to Adas members.

Shabbat Calls: Thanks to team leader Kathie Hoppe, she and eight wonderful volunteers form the Hesed Caring Phone Line. Every Friday they call Adas Israel congregants who are chronologically gifted (seniors), have been members of Adas for many years, and are unable to attend services on Shabbat. They make 14 Shabbat calls each week!

Their message is simple but important. The callers say, “Hello! I am calling from Adas Israel Congregation to let you know we are thinking about you and also to wish you Shabbat Shalom. How are you? Take care and I will call you again next week. Shabbat Shalom.” The callers provide weekly updates to Rabbi Lauren about anything new with these special individuals.

Clergy visits and additional contacts with the individual (sometimes by the callers) have resulted from these Shabbat calls. Congregants tell us they love getting them; the contact makes them feel included in the Adas Israel caring community.

Misheberach Calls: Have you or a loved one been hospitalized or faced a serious illness? Then you understand these can be isolating, overwhelming and scary times. Enter the Adas Hesed Misheberach Phone Team under the leadership of team leader Harriet Isack. The Misheberach calls bring “connection” and a message that you are not alone . . . that your Adas community cares and we are here to help. (This program is continued on page 18) call for justice in America. Held at Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Church, the People’s Prayer Service was a time of prayer and relationship-building with congregations and organizations committed to ensuring love and justice for all people in all communities. With prayers and prophetic witness, Christian and Jewish leaders offered calls for unity and words of exhortation to love one another as we love ourselves and to continue the struggle for justice. Rabbi Holtzblatt was among the clergy who spoke powerful words of Torah to all those assembled.

Anne Frank House Update

It was wonderful that two of our residents attended the Martin Luther King Jr. dinner and service at Adas Israel in January and had the chance to share a special evening with Adas congregants. Since we’re often asked about our residents, we thought you’d appreciate learning more about one of our residents, George Siletti, who has participated in the MLK events several times in the past.

George’s Siletti’s Story

George Siletti is one of Anne Frank House’s longest residents, having lived in one of our apartments since 2004. Before coming to AFH, George had been homeless for much of the past 30 years. His mother had died when he was 3, after which he was sent to live with relatives, and later to a “boy’s home.” When George was thrown out of the home at 16, he began moving from place to place, often homeless, frequently unable to land a job because of a lack of formal education. George eventually made his way to Washington, DC, and contacted Friendship Place for help.

He was given a bed at St. Luke’s Shelter, where he lived for six months. When one of AFH’s apartments became available, Friendship Place case managers, who also work with AFH residents, recommended George for that vacancy. Since becoming an Anne Frank resident, George has remained active in Friendship Place, speaking on many occasions about homelessness and telling his story to adults and children.

In the last year, something wonderful has happened to George: he has been reunited with brothers and sisters he had not heard from since childhood. (See the photo of George with his sister, next page.) George calls that “the best birthday

Ma Tovu: Bo and Marky Kirsch
HONORING OUR LEADERS AND VOLUNTEERS
Interviewed by Marcy Spiro, Director of Membership Engagement

You both have an extraordinary history with Adas Israel dating back to when we were still operating out of 6th & I. Can you bring us back to the beginning of your time at Adas Israel?

Marky: My parents were members of a different synagogue located at 14th and Euclid streets, NW. The shul had no classrooms and no religious school. When it was time for me to begin my religious education, they joined Adas Israel, then located at 6th & I streets NW. Having no classrooms, Adas used the Jewish Community Center at 16th and Q streets, NW, which is where I attended Sunday School. At the time there was no mid-week religious school. Shalom Pomeranz was hired as Education Director, and he instituted Saturday School, which was held at 6th & I, so I attended school on both Saturday and Sunday. In Saturday School we learned Hebrew and conducted our own Shabbat services in the small chapel. I was confirmed in 1949 with Rabbi Solomon Metz and Cantor Jacob Barkin. I was a part of the first class to have boys included in the Confirmation Class.

When the present building was constructed, Bo and I were the second wedding (1953) to take place in the Main Sanctuary with Rabbi Metz, Rabbi David Panitz, and Cantor Barkin officiating. Our marriage was the beginning of Bo’s involvement at Adas. Bo married into my family and into Adas. Bo, you were instrumental in the start of our Gan HaYeled, which is now thriving with over 150 children. Why did you think it was important for our community to open a Jewish pre-school?

I joined the Board a few years after our marriage (and I’m still on it!). I served on the Personnel and Finance committees and was a trustee for four years. Donald Wolpe (president at the time) asked me to chair the Education Committee in the early 1970s. It was during this time that Rabbi Rabinowitz came up with the idea of having a nursery school. Rabbi Rabinowitz was very forward-thinking; he always felt that we should be the major conservative synagogue in town, and this was a way of growing the synagogue. As chairman, I became very involved in carrying out his idea. The best thing we did as a committee, was hiring our first-time director, Charlotte Muchnick. She was the driving force of the nursery school for many years.

And today it’s great to see so many families with young children at Adas. Everything is a little bit different now. There are newer services, different spaces, etc. But the younger generation is very active, which bodes well for the future of the synagogue.

Marky, you have seen Adas during several building transitions. What are some of your favorite aspects of our current building?

Previous renovations were primarily decorative. The current building has completely changed the spaces. It took some getting used to, but the Charles E. Smith Sanctuary is eye-catching and beautiful. I like the large open Quebec Street lobby, the lovely expanded gift shop, the improved restrooms, the multi-purpose Biran Beit Midrash, and the redone Kay auditorium.

What has kept you in Washington, DC, all these years?
Family and friends and Bo’s work. At 91, Bo, an attorney, is still working as general counsel for a real estate development company. Our parents lived in DC until their deaths. Two of our three sons with their wives and family live here. And now one of our grandsons, his wife, and their new daughter live in DC. We became great grandparents three months ago.

What are some of your favorite family memories at Adas?
Life-cycle occasions. In addition to our wedding, our three boys (Stephen, Mark, and Neal) became bar mitzvah and were confirmed here, one was married here, and two granddaughters had their baby namings here. All at Adas. Marky’s father, Samuel Lebowitz, was a leader in the congregation, including serving as president, 1964-66, and receiving the Shem Tov Award in 1972. Many of our proudest memories are events related to his leadership and honors.

Purim is coming up! If you could create your ultimate hamentaschen (and you’re not required to make it), what would it be?

Marky: Hard question. In all modesty, though I’m an excellent cook, famous for my matzah balls and brisket, I’ve never made hamentaschen. I like mun (poppyseed), prune, and apricot. And I’m happy to eat whatever someone else makes!
A Modern Queen Esther:
Remembering Ruth Gruber
By Robin Jacobson, Library & Literary Programs Director

Although it was a sweltering Shabbat night in August, it felt like Purim. Around a dining room table in Baltimore, our hostess Flora and her brother Simon were recounting their personal Queen Esther story. In 1944, a brave American journalist named Ruth Gruber risked her life to rescue Flora, Simon, and their parents, Yugoslavian Jews. The family was part of a group of nearly 1,000 European refugees—mostly Jews—whom Gruber shepherded on a perilous voyage from Naples, Italy, to the United States. This group, lamentably, was the only large contingent of Jews permitted into America during World War II. And even these refugees were deemed temporary “guests” and restricted to Fort Ontario, a former army camp in Oswego, NY. After the war, Gruber rescued the refugees yet again; she and others successfully lobbied for them to be allowed to remain in the United States, rather than returned to Europe.

Ruth Gruber died this past November, at age 105, sparking numerous tributes. Gruber’s wartime mission was the first of many she undertook to aid the Jewish people. Nonetheless, she called her encounter with the refugees “the defining moment” of her life. She told their story in Haven: The Dramatic Story of 1000 World War II Refugees (dramatized in the film, Haven, starring Natasha Richardson) and in the documentary, Ahead of Time: The Extraordinary Journey of Ruth Gruber. Here are some highlights.

From Brooklyn to a U.S. Troop Ship
Born in Brooklyn, Ruth Gruber (1911–2016) first won fame by earning a Ph.D. in literature at the precocious age of 20 from a German university. Within a few years, she was reporting from the Soviet Arctic for the New York Herald Tribune, a feat that caught the attention of Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes. He hired Gruber, initially for a fact-finding mission in Alaska.

In June 1944, President Roosevelt decided to bring 1,000 European refugees to the United States for the duration of the war, outside of regular immigration quotas. Secretary Ickes sent Gruber, who spoke German and Yiddish, to escort the refugees from Italy to Fort Ontario. To protect her, Ickes granted Gruber the honorary rank of general. If Gruber were captured, Ickes insisted that the refugees return to Europe, in accordance with agreements that narrowly eluded Nazi bombers and submarines. On the ship’s deck, Gruber set up a blackboard and taught English. She convinced the refugees to tell their war stories, however horrible, so that American readers could learn the truth about the Nazi regime.

When the war ended, the departments of State, Justice, and Treasury insisted that the refugees return to Europe, in accordance with agreements that these desperate people had signed in Italy. But Gruber and others worked tenaciously to raise public support for the refugees. To the joy and relief of many, President Truman granted them immigrant status; they left Fort Ontario in January and February 1946.

Flora and Simon were young, vulnerable children when Ruth Gruber brought them to the United States. Unlike millions of Jewish children in wartime Europe, they lived to lead full lives. On that Friday night in August when they remembered Gruber’s courage and commitment, their children and grandchildren sat round the Shabbat table.
