

Crime at businesses neighboring North Springs High School | October 2018

After an Auto Accident on Ga 400, 17 days ago State Farm requested that they tow the car (air bags did not deploy) to one of their approved body shops. They listed Classic Collision on Roswell Rd (which I had previously seen others on Next door recommend). I did not want this car totaled since, I had spent several thousand dollars on it in July.

A couple of days ago, I got hints that it was going to be totaled. Which I did not understand based on what I had previously seen. Today, my daughter and I went to get out property and documents to prove the work I had done to the car out of it. The condition was shocking. The car had a chrome inlay in the bumper that had been torn out on part of it, not what it looked like when we last saw it. Then my daughter noticed that something was wrong with the phone/media jack ports. I couldn't figure out why the areas where the car speakers were had been opened up.

I then went inside and insisted on speaking to someone in management or ownership. They promptly came out. They agreed that they could tell the metal in lay was new you could tell that by dirt (so they knew I was not lying). Of course, the first thing teens look for is their media. They then admitted that within the last couple of weeks while my car has been their they had a break in (scale over of) their rear perimeter fence that abuts North Springs High School (which has 3 rows of barb wire).

They have reported it to Sandy Springs PD. They said they had clear images of three offenders, but missed the damage on my car. It also appears they tried to tear off the Mercedes emblem that was bent over. I just wanted to make everyone aware of this. It is obvious our PD reports are no longer detailed enough to inform us of items like this. The Auto body never sent out anything to every car owner whose car they had, maybe the cars they thought got damaged.
