TORAH INSIGHTS

Parshat Bechukotai records both the various blessings bestowed upon the nation for observing the laws of the Torah and the misfortunes that result from an abandonment of the Torah. Within the text, thirteen verses are dedicated to enumerating the blessings, while thirty verses are devoted to describing the calamities. This disparity seems to indicate that G-d's curses outnumber G-d's blessings; however, the Ibn Ezra remarked that is not the case. Rather, the blessings are simply mentioned in a general fashion, while the curses are recorded in detail in order to frighten and deter the listeners.
