Issue 9

Our sages said that when the Hebrew month of Adar arrives, our joy increases for it is in the month of Adar that Purim, the quintessential holiday of joy, is celebrated. This emphasis on joy fits in perfectly with our Religious school philosophy where we strive to create a year round atmosphere of enthusiasm and elation.

There was much to celebrate this past month as we celebrated Purim in a large way.

Throughout the month Chazzan Kalver taught the children (hand gestures and all) many of the lively songs associated with Purim. In the week leading up to the holiday all of the kids baked their own hamantashen under the direction of our fifth and sixth grade teacher and chef extraordinaire Andrew Dorsch. Afterwards we fulfilled two of the mitzvot associated with Purim - Mishloach Manot and Matanot L'evyonim - making Purim baskets filled with candies and hamantashen for our friends and for the poor and homeless.

The celebration continued the following week (on Purim day) as many of the children came to school dressed in costume, winning prizes from Rabbi Schechter in the process. The students also participated in and listened to a humorous rap version of the Purim story created by our Chazzan.

Finally, immediately after Religious school students attended the annual CBI Purim carnival. It was lots of fun as the social hall was filled with carnival games, a hamantashen baking station, food, prizes and other activities. As an extra treat a Video Games on Wheels truck was parked outside the synagogue for the children's usage.

The rabbis said that when we reach the time of the messianic era all holidays will be abolished except for Purim. After watching our children celebrating Purim – at the synagogue carnival, listening to and participating in the reading of the Megillah, sharing Mishloach Manot food packages with one another, and giving Tzedakah to the poor, I can see why. For while it is sometimes true that “it is hard to be a Jew,” it is equally true that it is a blessing to be Jewish and Purim reminds us of the elation we can feel and the joy we can experience when we involve ourselves in our heritage.

IF YOU CAN'T READ THIS,
YOU NEED...
CLASSES

So, I consider myself to be something of a Jacob-of-all-trades when it comes to Judaism. I spent five years at the Academy for Jewish Religion learning to be a cantor. On top of music and chanting, there were many additional Jewish topics taught.

Let me back up a few months. When I signed on to be your cantor last September, I was looking forward to running adult education programs. Not only was I excited to teach programs that involved singing, instrumental music or learning about the rich and varied world of Jewish music, but I was excited to share all the additional knowledge I gained. (And let this be an advertisement to anyone in the congregation who would be interested a music program with several participants, or one on one: Call me and we can make beautiful music together.) So far, a few people took me up on my offer for one-on-one learning; I've been helping several congregants with torah readings, and have worked on duets for prayer services. Over the winter I started running two evening programs for adults: the Adult Hebrew Reading Class on Wednesday nights, and the Torah Study Group every other Thursday night.

Torah Study Group: A saying in Pirkei Avot (5:22) goes: “Turn it (the Torah) and turn it, for everything is in it. Reflect on it and grow old and gray with it.” That’s a pretty good saying. Makes you want to study Torah, no?

The CBI Torah Study Group, as I have been told, has a history that dates back a few cantors. Yet, I feel like I’ve been given the chance to put my own stamp on it. We have only met three times so far, so any one who wants to join it is not too late!

It works like this. Each session starts with me giving a pithy synopsis of the chapters we are planning to cover, and me sharing some features that are particularly interesting. We take turns reading, a few psukim at a time, followed by a discussion of what we have read, during which we share our individual impressions of the text and how it relates to our ideas about Judaism, religion and God.

The folks who have been coming to the Torah Study Group all have a strong interest in learning about the Torah, and each seems to look at the topic from a different perspective. In the discussions, everyone has the chance to say what they find interesting, or just to listen to the discussions, as they wish.

In the next session (as of this writing) we will be reading the story of Noah (or part of it – it’s a long story) as we work our way from the beginning of Sefer B’reishit (the Book of Genesis) towards the end of Sefer D’varim (the Book of Deuteronomy.) There’s more than enough room at the table, and I am extending a standing offer to meet separately with anyone who wants to go off in a different direction with their Torah study.

Adult Hebrew Reading. A few months ago, I took this over the Adult Hebrew Reading class from the Rabbi. The class is divided about 60/40 between focused drilling of reading Hebrew words from a lesson book and selections from the Siddur, and schmoozing (I won’t say which is the 60 and which is the 40). I always try to add some song-versions of the selections from the siddur.

If anyone would like to improve their Hebrew reading or Hebrew understanding, I would be very happy to work with you one-on-one or in groups of any size.

I’ll close with this Talmudic sounding saying that I just made up: Barukh she’amar. Blessed is the One who spoke (and so created the world). Ma hu “amar” dikhtiv “Vayomer HaShem, ‘y’hi or, vay’hi or’ ” Af atah emor b’ivrit. This is a lame play on words from the Talmud (Sota 14a). Come to a Torah Study Group Session or a Hebrew lesson and I’ll tell you what it is supposed to mean.

Upcoming Special Service

Our Shabbat morning service on May 13, 2107 will be a special service celebrating Jewish Women at CBI. All women are invited to take a special part in the service, either by doing one or several of the things on the following list, or in some other way that moves you.

Reading from the torah – let us know how many p’sukim you think you can handle.
The longest aliyah is 9 p’sukim.

Reading the haftarah – let us know if there is a limit on the number of p’sukim you can handle.

Offering a short d’var torah, teaching or inspirational statement.

Sharing a kavana* or an original (English or Hebrew) prayer, or an original (English or Hebrew) version of a traditional prayer, that you find or compose yourself that speaks to the role of women or of a particular woman in Judaism.

Leading in Hebrew all or part of the prayer service in the siddur – let us know if there is a particular prayer you can lead (e.g., the Sh’ma or the Amida) or if you can lead a broader part of the service (e.g., Shacharit or the Torah Service).

Serving as a gabbai

Leading one of the English songs or prayer settings by Debbie Friedman that we are planning on including in the service (And You Shall Love, Miriam’s Song, Oseh Shalom).

Lead an English prayer, such as Prayer for Our Country, Prayer for Peach or Prayer for the Women of the Wall (see <http://www.womenofthewall.org.il/prayer-for-women-of-the-wall/>).

Taking an Aliya

Carrying, lifting or wrapping the Torah

Helping us prepare a written program and handouts

Helping us tie the service to donations to a food bank, women’s shelter or other good cause

Helping with promotion or organization

This Women’s Service started as a project of Marjorie Davison and Hazzan Kalver. If you have suggestions on how to make it a meaningful service, please contact Hazzan Kalver.

*In the context of prayer, the Hebrew word “kavana” (pl. “kavanot”) is typically translated as “intention,” and the Heblish phrase “a kavana” means a meditation or idea that is set in one’s mind just before starting a line of prayer or a part of a service so that the prayer is performed with a particular, focused intention. In many modern prayer services, suggestions for kavanot are offered just before the prayer is recited, and can take the form of the description of an image or a phrase, story or a poem to be held in the mind during the prayer.

WILD PEACE

Suddenly...

Like Wildflowers

Date: Sunday, April 2, 2017 at 4 PM

Place: Oheb Shalom Congregation

170 Scotland Road

South Orange, NJ 07079

www.ohebshalom.org

Underwritten by the Oheb Shalom Jonah Solkoff Eskin Memorial Fund

You are warmly invited to a significant, large, whole community concert of Israeli and Arab music at 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon, April 2nd, at Cantor Riki Lippitz's congregation, Oheb Shalom, in South Orange. Featuring both Israeli and Palestinian musicians, it will also feature the Kol Dodi choir of the MetroWest JCC.

The program will be narrated by Professor Joshua Jacobson, the former chair and senior professor of music at Northeastern University, who is also one of the world's experts on Jewish chorale music and the cantillation of Jewish texts.

The concert is sponsored by Marcia and Barnet Eskin who are dual members of our CBI congregation and Oheb Shalom of South Orange.

There is no fee for attending the concert, but seating is limited to 500 - so arrive early. Children are welcome!

Calling all CBI kids age 4 to 11

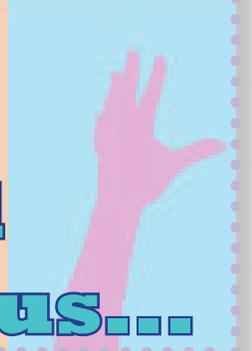

On Sunday, April 30, 2017 from 4 pm to 8 pm there will be a big, four-county Festival at the JCC in Bridgewater celebrating Israel Independence Day (Yom Ha'atzma'ut). Hazzan Brian needs kids to represent CBI Basking Ridge and join kids from other synagogues in the area in singing a song for Israel at the Festival. This is a great chance for our kids to learn about Israel, experience pride in the Jewish Homeland, and show our love and support for Israel. And to have lots of fun with other Jewish kids.

Contact Hazzan Brian.

Shalach Manot Notes

CBI's 20th Year!

This year marks the 20th time shalach manot baskets were created for CBI members and staff. We are thankful to the 30 families participating in this social tradition-slash-fundraiser, allowing us to continue this important mitzvah. We are also grateful to the continued support from Chuck, Diane and Jackie Newman from World of Coffee who donated the coffee to drink with our hamentashen and other goodies!

And this year, we made some changes!

First, in addition to our members Jini Hahn, Susan Rider and Dorit Kransdorf, we had help packing the bags from some of the students from OHI, the organization leasing our idle space. These gentlemen quickly filled the bags with all the prepackaged goodies and their staff was grateful to be able to help us and help forge more of a connection. We welcomed their help and now have a better idea of how to allow them to help more in the future!

Second, we upped the game on presentation! Thanks so much to Sara Farber for assembling the lovely table with decorations that made people sit up and take notice!

Thanks to everyone involved for their support and help in netting a profit of over $3800!

Congregation Oran Israel,

I am the first cousin of your cantor, Brian Kalver. His mother and my mother were sisters.

While Brian's mother passed away several years ago, my mom died this past January 9th. Brian drove down to Virginia for the funeral. My rabbis (Rabbi David Kalender + Rabbi Evan Roski of Congregation Olam Tikvah, Fairfax, Virginia) and I were honored that Brian conducted the entire Hebrew portion of the funeral service. Brian also then conducted the first minyan of my shiva, held that evening at my home. The rabbis and all of my friends and family were honored by Brian's graciousness and by his beautiful voice.

Please accept the enclosed donation to your synagogue in honor of your cantor, Brian Kalver, my first cousin. Please use the donation where it is most needed & can do the most good. An acknowledgement sent to Brian and a confirmation of receipt sent to me would be appreciated. Thank you. Sincerely,

Please Help Spread The Word!

David Salomon, from Temple Beth-El Mevor Chayim in Cranford, has End Stage Kidney Disease and desperately needs a life saving donor kidney, blood type O. David is a caring and generous person with a loving family who has given so much to the community. He now needs the community's help!

The family/synagogue are working with Renewal, a remarkable non-profit organization, to help find a living donor.

For more information about kidney donation, please call (718) 431-9831 or email R1140@renewal.org

Renewal's website is www.renewal.org

Update as of April 1, 2017:

I just wanted to let the CBI community know that David Salomon, from Temple Beth-El Mevor Chayim in Cranford did indeed receive a donor kidney a few weeks ago! He is recuperating from the transplant and is doing very well. I do not know if the kidney donation was a direct result of this story being shared in the CBI newsletter-but your sharing & caring regarding this plea for a kidney donation is very much appreciated... Religious School Director

Dear Parents,

Many wonderful things have been happening at CBI Religious school this year. Below, please find brief summaries from your child's teacher. In some cases, the teacher provided an overview of the school year and in others they were more specific to the past month or so. In addition to the learning described below the children met regularly with Chazzen Brian learning to sing prayers and songs related to the upcoming holidays. Additionally, our shlichah from Israel, Roni, met with the kids on a monthly basis to share her love for Israel with the children. Our morning all school sessions included a short morning service and story telling. We finished our day by participating in experiential activities ranging from cooking and games to a Tu B'Shvat seder and making food care packages for the homeless. We have had a great year of learning and fun. As Judah HaNasi said: "Only learning that is enjoyed is learned well."

1st and 2nd Grade

The first and second graders have been very busy in Religious School! We have nearly completed our workbooks, learning all the letters and vowels. The second graders are blending sounds and words at this point. We continue to explore areas of Israel and learn about Jewish holidays (Purim and Passover). Aligning with Passover, we've read and discussed bible stories, depicting our time in Egypt. It's been a pleasure working together and getting to know one another this year.

Jan Wasserman

3rd and 4th Grade

Mi-sheniknas adar marbim be-simhah.

With the beginning of the month of Adar we greatly increase joy and celebration.

March has been a busy month for the 3rd and 4th Grades. We have concentrated on the next two holidays, Purim and Passover. For Purim, students read the story, acted it out and filled in packets containing puzzles and worksheets designed to reinforce the facts of the story. For Passover, the class is working on mastering The Four Questions, learning the story of the Exodus and the meaning of the various symbols of the Seder. Of course, students are always working on improving their Hebrew reading skills. I don't want to conclude until I tell you how cooperative, smart, and mench-like I have found these students to be and what a joy it is to work with them.

Rabbi Suzanne Kassel

5th Grade

Our 5th grade class had a busy month of March. Besides spending 25 minutes each session working individually on their Hebrew reading skills, the students explored the meaning of two of our central prayers - Oseh Shalom and the Aleynu. We also explored the meanings of the individual words in the prayers.

In celebration of Purim we reviewed the Purim story and acted the story out in an "improv" way. We began to discuss the story of Passover, reviewed the four questions, and discussed the process of baking matzot.

Mr. Dorsch spoke with the kids about Jewish heroes including: Hannah Senesh, Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Albert Einstein and Sandy Koufax. He also explored aspects of the Purim story with the children.

Haim Deutsch

6th Grade

In 6th Grade Tropes Class we learned the basic tropes for chanting Torah – how they sound and how they work. Students also learned about the traditional Jewish prayer services and we worked on leading the Torah Service and various prayers that will come in handy when they stand in front of the congregation, as they will when they celebrate their bar/bat mitzvahs next year, bsd (b'syata dishmaya – with the help of Heaven).

Chazzan Brian

This year we studied people who inspire us to do what is righteous. These positive role models will, I hope, help guide the children in their lives. Amongst those we studied include:

- The Sharanky's fighting the USSR for the right to be Jews.
- A young girl named Anne Frank who changes the world with a pen and paper.
- A guy from Brooklyn named Koufax reminding the rest of us that our faith matters.

But it's not all classroom and book learning; this year the Rabbi asked me to teach the kids how to cook. Amongst the projects we made, the ones that stand out are knishes, noodle and potato kugel, hamantaschen, and rugelach.

I have really enjoyed teaching your wonderful children, and I hope they have enjoyed the class.
