

Each Person Has A Name

Zelda

Each person has a name, given him by
God, and given him by his father and mother.
Each person has a name given to her by her stature and her way of smiling, and given him by her clothes.
Each person has a name given to him by the Mountains and given him by his walls.
Each person has a name given given her by the Planets and given her by her neighbors.
Each person has a name given him by his sins and Given him by his longing.
Each person has a name given him by his enemies
And by his love. Each person has a name by his feast days and given him by his craft.
Each man has a name given him by the seasons of the year and Given by his blindness. Each person has a name given him by the sea and given by his death.
