The monthly-ish newsletter for Jewish Adults in their 20s and 30s in the Treasure Valley

Passover is March 30th to April 6th this year!

Passover 2018 | Issue # 4

Passover is coming, bring out your bread!

I don't know about you but Passover has some of my craziest memories from childhood; the food, the long service waiting for the food, the wine at 10 years old... good memories! Here in Boise there are tons of options to help you celebrate!

We're here to help if you want to host your own seder or just attend one! Don't miss the chance to make your own new memories.

Who knows what a Seder plate ACTUALLY must have on it anyways? Let's find out!

Passover Events

Friday, March 30th: First Seder

Check out the Passover Connect form to help us create Passover across the valley. You can choose to host or be hosted, either way you'll get a Seder!

Saturday, March 31st-April 1st: Pesach in the Desert

Rabbi Dan is leading an alternative Passover Experience as an overnight Seder at Succor Creek Natural Area in Oregon. Event is free but make sure to RSVP so you have all the information!

Saturday, April 7th: Last Chance Seder for The Table

7 pm | This is my favorite event every year just for Table folks. It's "technically not Passover" so it's a non-traditional Seder incorporating experiences and traditions from a wide range of practices and beliefs! Please plan on RSVPing for this one!

Want to host your own event or meal? Talk to Nemmie to find out how!
