A PUBLICATION OF BETH HILLEL B'NAI EMUNAH

On the night before Passover, we are encouraged to perform bedikat hametz, a search by candlelight, with spoon and feather in hand, for any leavened bread that might still be in the recesses of the home. Customarily ten pieces of bread are hidden around the house so that the search is not in vain. My wife Rachel and I hide the pieces for our daughters, and as a team we play a game of family "hametz hide-and-seek."

What makes this task so challenging, and fun, is that the search is done by candlelight with all of the house lights turned off. So we ask, if we were really interested in removing every possible piece of hametz, shouldn't we turn on the lights? Or even better, search during the day with all of the windows open? But tradition deliberately teaches that we search by a dim light. If we have done the search, we have fulfilled our duty.

The great symbolism of Passover is often connected to the holiday's primary delicacy, namely matzah. Or, Ha Lachma Anya - the bread of our affliction as the Haggadah names this religious classification of food. Throughout the popular familial and communal ritual observance of the seder, we relive imaginatively the experience of the servitude and Exodus that the Israelites in Egypt experienced as an agonizing reality.

Our ancestors' reality finds its symbol in our unleavened bread. The Torah teaches that eating of the matzah is not only a practical teaching tool, it is a commandment.

This day shall be one of remembrance; you shall celebrate it as a festival to the Lord throughout the ages; you shall celebrate it as an institution for all times. Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread; on the very first day you shall remove leaven from your houses for whoever eats leavened bread from the first day to the seventh day, that person shall be cut off from Israel - Exodus 12:14-15

Why is it that eating this food and ridding all hametz in our homes is so essential to our worship and Jewish identity?

According to Rabbi Jacob Halevy, the 20th century American rabbi:

Jewish tradition has developed an explanation for the act of ridding our homes at Passover of hametz and substituting it with unleavened bread – matzo [outside of leaving in haste from Egyptian slavery]...foods that ferment are equated morally with the objectionable traits of vain pride and inhuman, swollen greed. We should search out such traits and turn instead to the simple virtues in which all can share equally, symbolized by the lowly matzo.

That is to say, in addition to reenacting the fleeing-Israelite diet, we purge hametz and substitute with matzah because that ritual encourages us to surpass ourselves as moral beings. Which in and of itself is an abstract thought, but we can be made to understand a thought when this is expressed in terms of a symbolic act in connection with simple objects.

To once again quote Halevy:

At Passover time, hametz and matzo are not merely things— they are things with a symbolic meaning. Through suppressing hametz and elevating matzo to a place of prominence...s/he expresses to him/herself and to the world the type of character we should try to develop: humility instead of swollen pride, simple purity of purpose instead of bloated desire. The stage for the enactment of this thought is every Jewish home. Both the players and the audience are one and the same—the Jewish people.

Our Passover symbols invite us to search out hametz far beyond the remnants of bread in our pantries, and instead to illuminate and find the hametz contained in the recesses of our hearts. May we all enjoy a Chag Kasher v'Sameach.

Several years ago, BHBE started the tradition of holding a synagogue retreat on an annual or bi-annual basis. This year's retreat, the first in two years, will be held April 24-26 at the Pearlstein Retreat Center, Camp Chi, in Lake Delton, Wisconsin.

There are many things a retreat manages to be: it is a respite from our daily lives, a weekend in which we can be fully devoted to our community, time spend offline with family and good friends. If the past few retreats are any indication, it is also a time of karaoke, songs by the campfire, good cheer, outdoor services, games, and perhaps even some learning. All of this takes place against the backdrop of lovely Wisconsin scenery, affording us an intimation of Spring in the Midwest.

There are few things on the BHBE calendar that regularly inspire such devotion. The High Holidays hold a central place on our calendars, of course; lighting candles on Friday evenings offers us a regular reminder of the end of the workweek; there are the latkes and sufganiyot of Hanukkah, the hamantaschen of Purim, the matzo of Pesach. But for anyone who hopes for immersion in a vibrant Shabbat community, full of good conversation and extended time for recharging; and for those who want to experience the joys of congregation and fellowship; for those who yearn for a taste of what many of our children love about their Jewish summer camp experience; and for those whose idea of a restful Shabbat includes a long contemplative walk along a glistening lake; for those who rejoice watching their children engrossed in games with friends new and old; or for those who like to daven under the moonlight; for those for whom singing along with a guitar-playing friend while drinking wine brings back pleasant college memories; and yes, for those who get a kick out of hearing fellow BHBE members belt out Queen's "Bohemian Rhapsody" (the B-52s "Love Shack"; Carrie Underwood's "Before He Cheats"; Johnny Cash's "Folsom Prison Blues") on karaoke, there is no better place than the BHBE Retreat. (Full disclosure: I remain disappointed that no one at the previous retreat recognized my rendition of the Beatles' "Blackbird". I insist that this was not for its lack of loveliness.)

Registration is now open online, or contact the office for more details. The last one out of Wilmette, please turn off the lights. I hope to see you in Lake Delton in April.

Academy Video Blog

As a regular part of the Academy program, approximately three times per year our students have been putting on presentations based on school themes. These presentations have incorporated drama performances, shadow puppets, art exhibits, Israeli dance, circus acrobatics, and songs in Yiddish and Ladino! There was our multidimensional model Passover seder a couple of years ago. Last year presentations covered the Shtetl and Purim. So far this year we had a Hanukkah presentation that included two plays, an Israeli dance, a great song by our younger kids, plus circus representations of the cleansing of Temple and the lighting of the Menorah.

The one downside to the presentation model is that it only happens once! This means that if you're not there to see it, you don't see it! With that in mind, we are going to begin featuring video blogs in lieu of some of the live performances. The theme of our first Video Blog will be "gratitude." It will incorporate videos by our two drama groups, a linked tale told in five parts by our circus group, an art montage from our art group, and songs and dances by the younger kids! One of the advantages to the video model, is that students have the opportunity to craft projects that are more intricate, ones that can be molded gradually like a fine ceramic vase! Our theater specialist, Anne Fogarty, is assisted by two excellent madrakhim, both named Jacob! One of these Jacob's, Jacob Baim, wrote the script for one of the Hanukkah plays which was presented this fall. The other, Jacob Shternberg, is highly adept at video editing, and has been working hard to assemble the video components that the students have created, incorporating green screen, special effects and more! Stay tuned!

Singing Students on Shabbat

If you've been to Shabbat services over the last month or so, you might have been present to witness some significant participation by our BHBE kids! This past Saturday for Shabbat Shira, our first and second graders sang a great song with the cantor during the Torah service which he had practiced with them on Sunday mornings, and also earlier that day! Immediately following, several of our fourth through seventh graders led the Ashrei flawlessly. You also would have noticed the growing crowd of kids leading the Ein Keloheinu. We are aiming to have more of these concentrated Shabbat kid participation days going forward. The energy created in the sanctuary by the presence and involvement of all these kids is, well, energizing!

Our Tu B'Shevat Youth Group Day -- the third youth group day for the year -- was planted firmly in the youth group ground, as twenty kids in kindergarten and up planted microgreens, transplanted succulents, decorated pots, ate pizza and watched the Lorax! Thanks to Brenda Cole for putting together and running this great program! Our next Youth Group Day will be on April 19, right after Pesach. As always, all kids invited! Aaron

On behalf of the BHBE Inclusion Committee I visited Anshe Emet synagogue's Inclusive Sunday School program. The students were truly engaged. Everyone with challenges as well as classmates without challenges are in the same classroom at ease with one another. Extra support for students with special needs was provided by Madrakhim assistants. The Madrakhim are teens who help in the classroom. The teens are woven into the fabric of the class as easily as the students. Training for teachers as well as the Madrakhim happens before the school year begins and continues at intervals throughout the year.

One message that was evident was that kids who are given encouragement understand, tolerate and accept other kids. Our Jewish values encourage bringing people together. I saw this for myself as I visited 5 classrooms. This program is a fine example of a way we here at BHBE can be Inclusive.

Our committee looks forward to taking action to support everyone with all sorts of needs. For example, for senior congregants, Harris Miller and others are working with the Building and Grounds committee on plans for emergency support for people with walkers, hearing challenges, and cognitive challenges. By the time you read this we will have attended the meeting. Look forward to updates about this initiative.

Our Tuesday, April 28 meeting is at 6:30pm in the Library. Come and find out the details of what we are doing. Your input is welcome.

If you have ideas or comments email me at anitaivymiller@gmail.com or leave your name and phone number with Jackie or Hilary at the synagogue. Let us know how we can bring inclusion to you.

Midrash on a Midrash with Rabbi Barry Friedman
 In preparation for Pesach, Rabbi Barry R. Friedman will lead us in study of midrashim on the core story of the Haggadah. What tales do the rabbis weave about the Ten Plagues? What folklore surrounds "My Father, A Wandering Aramean?" What traditional stories surround our most cherished Biblical narrative? And—why is this course called "Midrash on a Midrash?" Monday mornings, 10:30am, March 2, 9, 16, 23, 30

Introduction to Talmud with Rabbi Crane. The Talmud comprises over 2700 pages of conversation, law, legend and history. In this weekly class, we will explore the Babylonian Talmud as a literary work, a historical phenomenon, and the foundation of rabbinic Judaism. All texts will be provided with English translations. Wednesday mornings, 10am.

Bible BaBoker. Join Rabbi Crane for a weekly discussion of Parashat HaShavua (the Torah portion of the week). Filled with lively exploration and debate of the Torah's many wonderful - and often challenging - stories and themes, this is a great way to begin Shabbat morning. Study every week or whenever you can make it. Please feel free to join us regardless of background! Shabbat Morning, 8:30am.

Yom HaShoah Commemoration. Yom HaShoah is Monday evening, April 20, 2020. If you are interested in being on the committee to help plan the program, please contact me. We are always looking for new meaningful ways to make sure we Never Forget.

Please look for Adult Education announcements and flyers throughout the year for updates on dates and times and for additional classes and events. You can also find Adult Ed information on the BHBE website. And feel free to contact the Committee at adulthood@bhbe.org with any suggestions, comments, or questions.

The Tikva Frymer-Kensky Adult Education Fund helps support all of BHBE's adult education programming, and thanks to the many congregants who have contributed to this fund over the years. Each January, the Association of Jewish Libraries announces the winners of the Sydney Taylor Book Award (for the best Jewish children's literature) and the Jewish Fiction Award. Also announced in January are the National Jewish Book Awards. Here are a few of the recent winners of these awards:

On Division by Goldie Goldbloom (AJL Jewish Fiction Award) In On Division, Goldbloom writes about Surie, a newly-pregnant fifty-seven year old mother, grandmother, and almost great-grandmother living in the Chasidic community of Williamsburg, Brooklyn.

Haunted by the death of her son Lipa, Surie finds herself keeping this pregnancy a secret from everyone, including her beloved husband. The author, a member of the Chasidic community, writes with accuracy, authenticity, and respect – celebrating the positive aspects of the community with beauty, warmth, and love while also exposing negative, harmful, and shameful practices. The result is a multi-layered story of how secrets can shake even the most secure and close-knit families that is accessible to readers both familiar and unfamiliar with the insular world of ultra-Orthodox Jews. (Award Committee)

Fly Already: Stories by Etgar Keret, translated from the Hebrew (NJBA, Fiction) There's no one like Etgar Keret. His stories take place at the crossroads of the fantastical, searing, and hilarious. His characters grapple with parenthood and family, war and games, marijuana and cake, memory and love. These stories never go to the expected place, but always surprise, entertain, and move. The thread that weaves these pieces together is our inability to communicate, to see so little of the world around us and to understand each other even less. Yet somehow, in these pages, through Etgar's deep love for humanity and our hapless existence, a bright light shines through and our universal connection to each other sparks alive. (from the publisher)

Someday We Will Fly by Rachel DeWoskin (STBA, Teen Readers Category, and National Jewish Book Award, Young Adult Literature) In this lushly written historical novel, Lillia and her father and sister flee Warsaw during the Holocaust and take refuge in Shanghai,

China. There, Lillia's need to support her family, her relationships with others, and her awareness of her privilege even as a refugee all contribute to her growth. (STBA Committee)

White Bird: A Wonder Story by R. J. Palacio (STBA, Older Readers Category)

This beautifully illustrated graphic novel connects the Holocaust to familiar contemporary characters, as Julian from the Wonder series learns his grandmother's powerful story of rescue in Vichy-occupied France. (STBA Committee)

The Book Rescuer: How a Mensch from Massachusetts Saved Yiddish Literature for Generations to Come by Sue Macy, illustrated by Stacy Innerst (STBA, Younger Readers Category) The Book Rescuer celebrates the power of an individual to preserve history and culture, while also exploring timely themes of identity and immigration. In a folksy voice, this biography tells the story of Yiddish Book Center founder Aaron Lansky's commitment to rescuing Yiddish language books and ensuring that despite all odds, Yiddish language and culture will stay alive for future generations. (STBA Committee)

Gittel's Journey: An Ellis Island Story by Lesléa Newman, illustrated by Amy June Bates (NJBA, Children's Literature, and STBA Honor Book) Gittel and her mother were supposed to immigrate to America together, but when her mother is stopped by the health inspector, Gittel must make the journey alone. Her mother writes her cousin's address in New York on a piece of paper. However, when Gittel arrives at Ellis Island, she discovers the ink has run and the address is illegible! How will she find her family? Both a heart-wrenching and heartwarming story, Gittel's Journey offers a fresh perspective on the immigration journey to Ellis Island. The book includes an author's note explaining how Gittel's story is based on the journey to America taken by Lesléa Newman's grandmother and family friend. (from the publisher)

Shalom Chaverim!

After a relatively quiet January, our Sisterhood was off and rolling with some great programs in February!

In February we had a beautiful concert by Listen Up! an a capella group which includes BHBE's member Freddie Feldman. Thank you to Marsha Lyons and Eunice Hershman for coordinating this fundraiser. BHBE Sisterhood fundraisers are what enables us to make a significant contribution to BHBE each year. Thank you to the many people who helped support this program.

Thank you to Sheila Gideon for coordinating the Yom Yarak program for the Academy. Sisterhood members had the opportunity to share a story or play a game with the students, and celebrate Tu B'Shevat. Thank you to all the participants who helped make a special program for our students.

We also had a very successful Rummage sale in February thanks to our amazing chairmen, Adrienne Schaye, Ida Ioffe, Nancy Nazari and Scott Sandler. Their direction was invaluable as so many of our sisterhood members worked to sort, price, and sell the items that our generous congregation donated to the sale. Thank you to all of you who contributed to the financial success of this Ways and Means program.

Our gift shop has been very busy with their super bowl sale and lots of new items arriving constantly. Thank you to Joan Meyers and Robin Smulson for always having something fun to look at or buy and for coordinating the many volunteers who help run the shop during academy hours.

We had some great educational programs as well! On February 5th Howard Reich was our speaker discussing his book about Eli Wiesel. Many thanks to Gail Swerdlik, Cynthia Lerner, and Elaine Pollack for coordinating this program.

We are looking forward to our next Daytime Series Program on Thursday, March 5 when Rabbi Nate Crane and Rachel Crane will be our featured speakers for a "Getting to Know You" conversation. Please see the flyer in the bulletin.

I would like to take time to thank all the kugel bakers and kugel deliverers who unfortunately were called on many times these last months. Sisterhood delivers kugels with love to our members who are sitting shiva in town. Thank you to Carla Banoff for coordinating this effort.

March 21 is the date for Sisterhood Shabbat. It is always such a special day to see our Sisterhood members leading the service as well as participating in the Torah reading and aliyot. We look forward to welcoming officers from our Central Great Lakes Region of the WLCJ, President Fran Hildebrandt, Membership Chairman Cynthia Lerner and Parliamentarian Edna Schrank. Helen Stopek is our Sisterhood honoree for this special day. We will also be honoring two daughters of Sisterhood members - Sophia Kurzman and Ellie Ousley.

Thursday, March 26 we will be going to the Holocaust Museum to see the new Ruth Bader Ginsberg exhibit. Your check is due by March 17. Day-of walk ins unfortunately can not be accommodated. Please see the flyer in the bulletin.

A "heads up" on our upcoming Culminating Dinner on May 13. We will be having a fun evening with dinner, amazing raffles, and entertainment by Meghan Sands Ungar singing a collection of Barbra Streisand songs accompanied by Andy Bossov. Please see the flyer on page 17 of this bulletin.

Wishing all of you a happy Pesach as we celebrate the holiday of freedom and spring rebirth. Have a wonderful seder in the company of family, friends, and loved ones.

“Notorious RBG, The Life and Times of Ruth Bader Ginsburg”

Join us for a vibrant, comprehensive showcase of the life and times of Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg. She is America's most widely celebrated Supreme Court justice. Features of the exhibition include a justice robe, home videos, actual RBG kitchen utensils and Ginsburg-inspired art. The exhibition relates her story using a dynamic array of gallery interactives, listening stations, archival photographs and documents, and historical artifacts. This will be a docent lead tour and promises to be a very exciting and informative program.

Listen-Up

Our thanks goes to MARSHA LYONS for bringing a fabulous experience into the synagogue on February 8.

Listen-Up, a four person a cappella group, presented a sing-a-long of Jewish History. With each song came an explanation of how and when it fit into our lives. They even had a song by the Beatles. As they related the Beatles to Israel, our congregant Freddie Friedman, who was part of the quartet, sang the song in Yiddish. We had over 150 people in cabaret style seating.
