Most importantly, perhaps, the destruction of this storm ought to remind us once again about how vulnerable we are to unexpected changes in our circumstances, and how vital it is that we strengthen the communal ties that allow us to lend support to each other.

The biblical Passover story is intimately familiar to all of us – whether from the seders of our childhood, or the dramatic enactments of movies and TV, or from our own studies of the Torah’s text, we know its details well. The plagues, the slaves’ hasty escape at midnight, the dough snatched up before it had had time to rise, the thunderous parting of the Red Sea’s waves: we know these things as well as we know our own biographies.

And, in general, the account of the exodus from Egypt endures in our collective memory as a story of joy, triumph and redemption. It was not until this year, though, that I gave any serious thought to just how frightening the first Passover would have been for our mythical ancestors. Needing to flee one’s home quickly in the middle of the night, with barely enough time to prepare provisions for themselves and their families, must surely have been a wrenching experience of terror and panic.

It probably should not be surprising that I arrived at this new view of the Passover story after our community’s experience with the dramatic winter storm just a couple of weeks ago. The shockingly cold weather and the cascading disasters that resulted from the failure of our utility infrastructure plunge me, and many of you, into a new reckoning with the fragility of our everyday lives.

Like our biblical ancestors in the story of the Exodus, hundreds of thousands of families throughout the Houston area found themselves forced to leave their homes unexpectedly, hastening to collect whatever few meager possessions they could carry, hurrying to safety with their children and pets. Like our ancient forebears, many of us found ourselves uncertain about how long the situation would last and whether the few provisions we had gathered would be enough to sustain us and our households.

Obviously, this storm has now passed, and its lingering effects have not turned out to constitute a disaster of biblical proportions. Nevertheless, the suffering it generated in our city and our state and our nation are very real, and we would do well to attend to the spiritual lessons of this experience. Most importantly, perhaps, the destruction of this storm ought to remind us once again about how vulnerable we are to unexpected changes in our circumstances, and how vital it is that we strengthen the communal ties that allow us to lend support to each other.

But like our Israelite ancestors during that first traumatic

Passover in Egypt, we should remember that although fear is an important part of our history, it is not the end of our story. For us — just as for them — redemption always lies just ahead of us, provided that we will keep our eyes trained forward, strengthen each other when we falter, and keep marching forward toward freedom.

CONGREGATION EMANU-EL TO HOST GAIL RUBIN FOR BEFORE I DIE WEEKEND

Do you plan to live forever? Do you ever plan to move? Depending on where you’re going, you can’t take it with you. This talk focuses on practical ways to downsize excess goods without being overwhelmed by the job, what you need to know to organize your information for your executor, and how to plan for end-of-life issues.

The weekend concludes on Sunday afternoon, March 21 as Rubin presents Death Cafe Conversations at 4:00 p.m.

Come join the conversation at the Death Cafe! The goal is “to increase awareness of death with a view to helping people make the most of their (finite) lives.” Grab a snack, some coffee or tea, and an interesting, unstructured conversation about mortality issues. Rubin is one of the U.S. pioneers of the worldwide Death Cafe movement.

To help us plan, we are asking for RSVPs for both Friday night and Sunday afternoon programming so plans can be made accordingly.

To RSVP, visit emanuelhouston.org or call 713.529.5771.

A Notice About Bereavement Communications

Bereavement notices for our Temple family are distributed with the permission of the deceased’s family, and the timing of these notices is dictated by the family’s request. Of course, each family grieves in its own way, and we are grateful for our congregation’s patience and understanding with different families’ preferences about how their loss is publicized.

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Arctic storm (or was it two storms?), my family was cold, cranky and in the dark. Spotty cell service made it difficult to check in with others. We had little water pressure, then came the boil notice. When would the power come back? Are my pipes frozen . . . will they burst? How low will the mercury dip tonight? We didn’t know when things would get better. The uncertainty made everything worse.

We filled pitchers of water. We charged our devices when and where we could. When cell service was available, we checked on friends and family. Once again, we were adapting to a new set of circumstances.

Synagogues are adapting, too. In January, Rabbi Hayon, Rabbi Silk, David Lamden, and I had the privilege of participating in the URJ’s conference “Leading Change: A URJ Accelerator Network Gathering for Large Congregations.” It was no surprise to learn that every congregation throughout North America is grappling with the same challenges and uncertainties triggered or amplified by the pandemic. The conference reminded us that the disruption of the pandemic also provides us with an opportunity to reflect on what we have learned over the last year and how we can shape our future. For example, Emanu El is learning the advantages and

I hope you will mark your calendars and join me for an online concert experience entitled The Man Upstairs? Through the magic of technology, these talented pairs will be joining us from their respective homes in New York to present a unique genre-defying program.

Musical collaboration is one of the most inspiring parts of my work. Over the coming weeks, my concert team will connect as musicians, colleagues and friends to develop our concert program together. I know that you will be able to feel the warmth of our relationships come through in the performance of the music.

There is something about singing with friends – even through the airwaves – that is different than singing with strangers. Our Emanu El community has already developed relationships with Elana Arian and Noah Aronson at community milestones: my installation in 2017 and our 75th anniversary welcome concert in 2019.

I look forward to welcoming Elana and Noah back and to introducing you to some new friends who bring depth of talent and soul. This concert will leave you thinking, questioning and wondering about your own connection to God. I look forward to sharing this special evening with you!

Warmly,
Cantor Rollin Simmons

(EDITOR’S NOTE: The concert will be broadcast on the Barish Sanctuary channel of our streaming video page of the Emanu El website, in addition to our Facebook page, YouTube and Roku channels. An archived copy of the concert will be available in similar locations. Additional publicity will be shared in the coming weeks.)

Film Discussion:
They Ain’t Ready for Me
Thursday, April 15, 7:00 p.m.

Join Rabbi Silk as she discusses the documentary film entitled They Ain’t Ready for Me alongside the film’s director Brad Rothschild.

They Ain’t Ready for Me is the story of Tamar Manasseh, an African American rabbinical student who is leading the fight against senseless killings on the south side of Chicago.

The film explores the challenges and motivations of this fearless community leader as she works to prevent more people from being killed by gun violence. Tamar’s complex identity and magnetic personality combine to make her a force to be reckoned with, and she hasn’t even hit her stride yet.

Tamar and the organization she founded, MASK (Mothers and Men Against Senseless Killings) are proving all of the naysayers wrong; something can be done, the situation is not hopeless. Tamar is trying to restore the traditional role of the family back into the community. With just her presence on the block, talking, joking, and hanging out, she is making the forgotten people of the neighborhood believe that there are people who care whether they live or die in the Englewood section of Chicago.

Please register by Thursday, April 8 to receive a password protected link to view the film in the days leading up to the program. A subsequent Zoom link for the discussion will also be sent to registrants.

For more information about this program, contact Jason Plotkin at 713.535.6414 or jasonp@emanuelhouston.org.

A summary of our March book, The Dressmaker of Khair Khana, by Gayle Tzemach Lemmon:

Kamila Sidiqui’s life changed overnight when the Taliban seized control of Afghanistan. After her father and brother were forced to flee, she became the sole financial support of her five siblings. Banned from school, confined to her home, and armed only with determination, she picked up a needle and thread to create a thriving business that saved their lives. This book encourages a reader to consider the role of women regarding self, family and community – under the most stressful and impossibly-aligned circumstances.

To help us plan and/or to receive communications about future book reviews, we ask that you kindly RSVP by Wednesday, March 10, either online or by contacting the Sisterhood at sishood@emanuelhouston.org or 713.529.5771, ext. 233.

Judaism through the Arts Delves into Art Nouveau

Thursday, March 18, 1:00 p.m.

Join Sisterhood for a virtual Judaism Through the Arts program as we explore the ornamental style of Art Nouveau that flourished from 1890 to 1910. This style was embodied by the Eiffel Tower, the epitome of technology!

The Museum of Fine Arts Houston’s Helga Aurisch, curator of European art, and Christine Gervais, curator of decorative arts, will present a Gustav Klimt inspired painting by Hermen Camarasa and stained glass windows by Louis Comfort Tiffany. They’ll also explore the wonderful sculptures, paintings, silver art pieces, and furniture in the newly installed Art Nouveau gallery in the MFAH Beck Building. There will be much more, including the role that Siegfried Bing played in putting Art Nouveau on the map.

There is no charge for this Zoom event, but please register by Friday, March 12, so that our traditional JTTA desserts can be hand delivered to your home before the program. Register RSVP online at emanuelhouston.org or to the Sisterhood office at 713.529.5771, ext. 233 or sishood@emanuelhouston.org. Zoom information will be sent prior to the program.

Fun with Scarves at Becker Music

While our music teacher Ms. Alex is not in the classroom this year due to COVID measures, our Becker students are still able to engage with her via video. Here’s one of our Becker School friends having fun with a scarf during Becker Music time.

Helfman Makes Donation to Undies for Everyone

Director of Congregational Learning Stefani Carlson recently stopped by Undies for Everyone to drop off the collection of underwear donated during a Helfman drive-thru event held around Chanukah time in the winter. Thanks to all our Helfman families for their contributions.

Shushan Night Live

Rabbi Fixler, Cantor Simmons and Rabbi Hayon in a scene from the Purim Schpiel entitled “Shushan Night Live” that aired in late February across all Emanu El’s digital platforms. Miss the schpiel and megillah reading? Tune in to the Emanu El YouTube channel to catch what you missed!
EVER OPEN Viewing Party & Talk Back Available for Viewing

EVER OPEN was produced for the congregation's 75th anniversary in 2019.

The documentary was written and directed by congregant Steven Fenberg and produced by Carrithers Studio with the participation of the synagogue's Senior Rabbi, Oren Hayon. The film debuted during “EE75 Ever Forward,” a celebration held in November 2019 to commemorate the milestone anniversary. In addition to Rabbi Hayon, the film includes interviews with Rabbi Roy Walter, Dolores Wilkenfeld (pictured), Susan Farb Morris, Dawn Blitz, Madeline Canfield, Al Kahn, Amanda & Marc Eichenbaum, and Evyn Rudin.

On February 7, Rabbi Hayon moderated a conversation with Fenberg, during which guests had an opportunity to ask questions about the film, as well as Fenberg's observations and association with Emanu El as a lifelong member. The program is available on our YouTube channel.

Congregation Emanu El Moves Back Into Phase 3

February 9, 2021
Dear Congregants,

We are writing to provide you with an update in Emanu El’s response to COVID-19 and our congregational reopening plan. As you may be aware, our community has seen downward trends for several weeks in the three public health measures we are monitoring to determine moving from one reopening phase to another:

- Test Positivity Rates for TMC Hospital Systems
- Effective Reproduction Rate for the Greater Houston Metropolitan Statistical Area
- TMC Daily New COVID-19 Hospitalizations

If the downward trends continue, and if we receive positive affirmation from public health agencies and our medical advisors, Emanu El will move to Phase 3 of our Reopening Plan on February 15.

While complete details of Phase 3 are on our website, this Phase allows for limited in-person attendance for Friday night Shabbat worship and an increase in the number of guests that Bar/Bat Mitzvah families may invite to the Saturday morning service. In addition, life cycle events, meetings and the gift shop will be available for more in person attendance than under Phase 2.

Finally, the website has been updated to recognize that a number of our congregants have received COVID-19 immunizations and may now wish to worship or attend other functions. Based on guidance from public health agencies and our medical advisors, these congregants will still be required to wear face coverings and spread apart following social distancing standards.

Regards,
David Lamden

In Person Programming Note

Over the coming weeks, we will begin increasing the amount of in-person programming offerings at Emanu El beyond worship.

These events will be limited in participation and follow the guidelines set forth by the congregation's COVID-19 Task Force.

As of the print deadline, we are excited to share that our Confirmation class will host a havdalah program and that we will be welcoming Work of Our Hands back into the building.

A small group of lay leaders recently came together to begin exploring other possibilities.

Please stay tuned to the weekly Coming Events email for more opportunities. If you have a suggestion for a program, please contact program director Jason Plotkin at jasonp@emanuelhouston.org or 713.535.6414.

NOTE: The following note was sent to the congregation on February 9 with an update on Emanu El's phased reopening from COVID-19. As of the press date of this communication, the synagogue remained in Phase 3 and provided limited spaces on a week-to-week basis with pre-registration for in-person Friday night Shabbat worship in the Barish Sanctuary. For more information, our current status and to register for Shabbat worship, visit our website or call the synagogue at 713.529.5771.
We appreciate the thoughtfulness of those who remember and honor their friends and loved ones through their generous contributions through February 14, 2021.

the limits of an online platform. Livestreamed worship services work for many people. In fact, remote services and programming are engaging congregants who we did not see before. Online learning, including Helfman’s small group Hebrew, has been very successful. And Committee and board meetings over Zoom are well-attended since no one has to commute.

Comparing notes with other presidents at the conference, I was certain of one thing: our members are incredible. During a year of unprecedented challenges, our members have eased the strain on our sacred congregation by sharing their time, talent and philanthropy. To date, over 340 members, including 100% of the Board of Trustees and Executive Committee, have contributed to our Covid Relief Fund, providing critical support for our future financial stability.

The turmoil and uncertainty of the past year also highlighted what we already knew: Belonging to a community matters. Connection matters. And while connecting virtually is safe, and even meaningful, in-person fellowship is sorely missed. We long for a return to connecting safely in the halls and sacred spaces of 1500 Sunset. As temple leadership begins to unpack what we’ve learned over the past year and plan for the future, our beautiful campus will be front and center. We’re looking forward to the spontaneous encounter with another congregant or staff in the rotunda, the joyful energy of a crowded chapel on a Friday night, the pulse of the cantor’s music in the sanctuary, a quick pop-in to the New Traditions.

The news about vaccines is encouraging, and it looks like we are at the beginning of the end of the pandemic. It’s not certain, but the power is back on and there is light at the end of the tunnel.
