MESSENGER FUNDED BY THE PAUL AND LOIS KATZMAN ENDOWMENT

Happy Chanukah

MAY THIS FESTIVAL OF LIGHTS BRING PEACE TO ALL

I NEED A HAPPY LAMP

It's dark out. Really dark out. Really early. I don't know about you, but when it's dark at 5 pm in the summer, I am wondering where dinner, dessert, and our evening activity will be because we have 5 more hours of daylight. In the winter, when it's 5 pm, I am wondering why I am not in bed already. The dark is, well, dark, and it seems to make everything a bit more difficult.

This year, I am investing in one of those happy lamps, the ones that make you feel like you are in actual sunlight. It is supposed to lift your spirits and trick your mind and body into thinking you're not actually in the darkest, coldest, gloomiest time of year. Here's to hoping it works!

What's comforting to know, though, is that the truth is, I already have a happy lamp. I have a whole bunch of them actually. One was my Bubbie Bessie's; my daughter's namesake. Two others were gifts from a beloved friend when my children were born. Then there are those that my children made themselves. Of course, I am talking about our channukiot; the lamps we light every year on Chanukah. Each one is a happy lamp, not just for the memories they invoke, but for the light they bring.

It's really no coincidence that Chanukah happens in the darkest time of the year. Of course there are historical reasons; the story of the Maccabees revolt and triumph, and the rededication of the Temple are told to us in the books of Maccabees. But neither of these books are in our bible. Did you know that? (If not, I know a bunch of rabbis who are more than happy to have a sit down chat about what is and is not included in our bible!) The ancient rabbis could have created a simple ritual of commemoration on the 25th of Kislev. Instead, we have a weeklong holiday of light in the middle of winter when we need it most. When our spirits and our souls need a lift, a boost, a spark.

Over and over, our tradition understands that in the midst of darkness, our people always created light. It is simply who we were, who we are, and who we will be. In the face of fear, we chose hope. In the face of destruction, we shore up our strength, and our faith, and defend our tradition that teaches tolerance, love, and justice. We choose light. Always light.

We use light to welcome every Sabbath, and then to end it and welcome a new week. We light candles to remember the people in our lives who have died. And when we need light perhaps the most, we light our channukiot, our Jewish happy lamps. In our house, we all light our own channukiah, and then we shut off the house lights in order to fill the house with the special glow that only comes at this time of year.

I will still get one of those phototherapy lamps I think, but I can guarantee you there will be one week that I won't need it. The week when we celebrate Chanukah.

I pray the light we kindle on those nights carries us into the year that is about to begin.

May 2019 bring brightness and happiness, health, joy, and please God, peace.

FUNDS IN ACTION

HAROLD GOTTLIEB CAMP TAMARACK SCHOLARSHIP FUND

NEW FUND: Provides need-based scholarships for Temple Israel children attending Camp Tamarack

After Sarah Gottlieb's husband Harold passed away last year, she knew she wanted to create a fund in his memory that would help Temple Israel families send their children to camp. Harold often spoke about how he and his siblings were granted scholarships to a Jewish camp in Detroit because his parents could not afford the fees. He never forgot the wonderful experiences he had, the friends he made and how grateful his family was for the assistance. Sarah is hoping that the fund will help more children develop their love of Judaism and discover the incredible magic of camp.

JACKIE UNATIN MEMORIAL CHANUKAH FUND

Provides holiday celebrations for those in need

Arlene and Richard Agree treasure the beautiful traditions and memory-making opportunities that surround the holidays. With this in mind, they started a fund in memory of Rick's sister Jackie to help members provide meaningful holiday celebrations for their families. The fund co-sponsors Temple Israel's No Temple Family without Chanukah program, organizing a team of volunteers and donors who "adopt" families in need of assistance. Although originally intended for Chanukah, this amazing fund also helps families celebrate other holidays throughout the year.

GOODMAN FAMILY JUDAICA MUSEUM FUND

Provides funding for the Temple Israel Judaica Museum and its programs

For the past few decades, Teri and Mark Goodman and Enid and Gary Goodman have been deeply committed to the importance of collecting and preserving Jewish artifacts. They wanted Temple members to enjoy and learn about Judaica as well, so they created a fund in memory of their parents, Mary and Albert Goodman, that supports Temple Israel's museum. It educates visitors on Jewish customs, beliefs and art through dynamic traveling exhibits and guest speakers. The remarkable Goodman Family Judaic & Archival Museum beautifully displays articles from antiquity to modern times, representing the historical and cultural development of the Jewish people.

MARILYN & WALTER WOLPIN YOUNG ADULT PROGRAMMING FUND

Supports young adult programming

Marilyn and Walter Wolpin believe in the importance of connecting with young adults and understand the significance this group of members holds in building and maintaining a thriving congregation. For this reason, they created a fund that would reach young adults and their families with dynamic programming and engaging events. Some of these include Mother/Daughter Book Club, Shabbat for Tots, Girls' Night Out, Shabbat at the Zoo and PJs, Pancakes & Prayers. These events have been very successful in linking busy young families with each other and providing fun opportunities for adults and children.

These are only a few of more than 150 special funds that help Temple Israel achieve its mission. The funds engage our members and connect with the community through creative outreach, compassionate assistance and meaningful celebration. The impact from these funds is remarkable, allowing children to learn, families to heal and people to grow. Many thanks to our fund grantors who recognized a need - and to our donors who continually support Temple's efforts to reach those in need.

Goodman Family Judaic & Archival MUSEUM at Temple Israel

Temple Israel's Goodman Family Judaic & Archival is pleased to highlight one of the newest additions to our permanent collection.

Birkat Cohanim - The Priestly Blessing by: Emil Shenfeld

This work is a corollary of an outdoor patio sculpture for a house in Jerusalem. The incipient idea for this piece was to develop a sculpture built of three modules, representing the children of the family. The chosen design motif – explosion of typography in space – needed a text that would convey the link between generations. The theme, Birkat Cohanim (Priestly Blessing) came as a revelation when pondering about parents and children. The discovery of the blessing by carefully juxtaposing the cutouts with its correspondent reflections is the conceptual motif of the work.

A Gift of:

Susan and Rabbi Harold Loss,
Wendy and Rabbi Paul Yedwab, and
Dr. Jen Green & Cantor Michael Smolash*

Are you looking for a special way to honor someone you love? Consider dedicating a beautiful piece of Judaic artwork. By making a gift to the Museum in honor or in memory of a loved one, or in honor of a life cycle event, you will be part of the continuing legacy of a permanent Judaic collection, which will be enjoyed by Temple Israel for generations to come.

A FAMILY-FIRST APPROACH TO GIVING

Naming Temple Israel as a beneficiary in your will is a simple yet powerful way to strengthen our future. We understand that the value of your assets is likely to rise and fall, and you may not want to risk that your charitable gift could outweigh your family's well-being.

One solution is to give a percentage of your estate so that gifts to loved ones and organizations such as Temple Israel remain proportional—no matter how your estate fluctuates.

Here are three simple ways to provide support:

1. Gift a percentage of your estate to us in your will.
2. Leave Temple a percentage of your residual estate (the portion of your estate that remains after all gifts have been made and all claims of the estate are satisfied).
3. Name us as a beneficiary of a percentage of your life insurance policy or retirement account.

Visit temple-israel.planmygift.org to learn more about supporting Temple Israel while putting family first. For a personal and confidential conversation, call David Tisdale at (248) 661-5700, or email him at dtisdale@temple-israel.org.
