OCTOBER 27: Vayera
Rabbi Chanoch Henich of Alexander, a prominent Polish rabbi who lived during the 1800’s, was fond of telling this story:

There was once a fellow who was very forgetful. Indeed, his memory was so short that when he awoke each morning he could not remember where he had laid his clothes the night before. Things got so bad for him that he could not fall asleep, so great was his nervousness about finding his things upon waking.

One evening, however, he hit on a great idea. Taking pencil and paper, he wrote down exactly where he had placed each item of clothing. Placing his notes on the nightstand, by his bed, he quickly fell asleep, confident that he would find everything just perfectly in the morning.

And indeed, he did. He woke up, took the note from his night stand, and read each item in turn: ‘pants—on chair back’; and there they were. He put them on. ‘Shirt—on bed post’; and there it was. He put it on. ‘Hat—on desk’; and there it sat. He placed it on his head. In a few minutes the fellow was completely dressed. But suddenly a great dread came upon him.

“Yes, yes,” he said aloud. ‘Here are my pants, my shirt, and my cap’ but where am I?’ He looked everywhere but could not find himself. Rabbi Chanoch Henich paused for a moment and then concluded, “And that is how it is with each of us as well.”

Rabbi Chanoch Henich’s question “Where am I?” is the single most important Jewish question passed down throughout the ages. Our big question has never been “Who am I?” but rather “Where am I?” The difference between the two questions is significant. To answer the question “Who am I,” one must turn inward and isolate him or herself from the rest of the world. But, to answer “Where am I?” one must turn both inward and outward.

During this month, we will read in Torah the Garden of Eden story from Genesis. In the story, Adam comes out of hiding because he is afraid. Adam admits to God his feelings and his actions: I heard the sound of You in the Garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself. (Genesis 3:10). Adam is clearly aware of where he is both physically and emotionally, so he is able to come out of hiding.

We learn from Adam and Rabbi Henich that each and every one of us can step out of our own hiding without changing a single thing in our lives. Often, we imagine that we must radically change our lives before we can present ourselves before God. The truth is that—even with our fears and shame—and even with the mistakes we make—we can and we should come out of our hiding places. Come out, come out, wherever you are....

Expungement Summit

Monday, November 12 • 12:00-4:00pm

The Temple, with the leadership of former Chairman of Fulton County, Temple member, and RSJI Racial Justice group leader John Eaves, the clergy, and the RSJI Racial Justice group, has created The Temple’s first Expungement Summit. The Expungement Summit will be a one-stop shop for people with records, specifically those charged with non-violent offenses that resulted in arrests that never went to trial, to get their records restricted within the bounds of the law. In our city of just over 480,000 people, there are over 1.5 million outstanding charges that have never gone to trial but are marring the records of the citizens of the city of Atlanta, preventing them from getting or keeping jobs, getting access to colleges and universities, and disqualifying them from public housing, not to mention the collateral damage to families, communities, and our public services that support these communities. The Summit, which coordinates faith and justice partners from City of Atlanta and Fulton county, will offer access to these candidates to a free, one-day process that is within their legal rights but which usually takes over 120 days, a great deal of complexity, and a fee that can be prohibitive.

For more info and to sign up to volunteer, visit www.the-temple.org/summit or contact Rabbi Lydia Medwin at lmedwin@the-temple.org or call 404-873-1731.

RSJI: Racial Justice Small Group

The Racial Justice small group was the first group formed among the ten groups that comprise the Rothschild Social Justice Institute. This active group completed a “Reading Race” series and hosted a viewing and panel discussion of the documentary Thirteenth. Under the leadership of Temple member and former Fulton County Chairman John Eaves, the group is currently planning The Temple’s first Expungement Summit.

The Expungement Summit will be a one-stop shop for people with criminal records, specifically those arrested for non-violent offenses that never went to trial. At the Summit, these participants will have the opportunity to pursue getting their records restricted within the bounds of the law. In our city of just over 480,000 people, there are over 1.5 million outstanding charges that have never gone to trial. These charges mar the records of Atlanta citizens, preventing them from getting or keeping jobs, getting access to colleges and universities, and disqualifying them from public housing. As a result of these charges, there is collateral damage to families, communities, and our supportive public services. The Summit, which coordinates justice partners from City of Atlanta and Fulton county, will offer these candidates access to a free, one-day process that is within their legal rights but which usually takes over 120 days, a great deal of complexity, and a fee that can be prohibitive.

Caring at The Temple
Our Caring at The Temple program reaches out to fellow congregants during times of hardship or pastoral need, providing homemade chicken soup and challah to members who are bereaved, ill, recently discharged from the hospital, or are celebrating the arrival of a new child. We have delivered more than 500 soups, and nearly every step of the program—from soup preparation, to delivery (within your zip code), to letting us know about fellow congregants in need—is led by members of our congregation.

Thank you to our Caring at The Temple volunteers who delivered soup this month: Nancy Apatov, Sheri Baker, Scott Chalk, Lara Geller Church, Kim Gnatt, Susan Jacobson, Lindsay Kamin, Robbie Levin, Denny Marcus, Ellen & Scott Rafshoon, Susan Shapiro, and Debbie Shelton.

To be a part of this program and to fulfill the mitzvah of bikkur cholim (visiting the sick) or to let us know who needs soup, please contact Rabbi Lydia Medwin at lmedwin@the-temple.org or 404-873-1731.
