FASCINATING FACTS IN JEWISH HISTORY

Reprinted from August 2018

A Modern-Day Story....

Not all Fascinating Facts of Jewish History are in the distant past. In the early '90's, Rabbi Binyomin Friedman, as part of his outreach duties for the Atlanta Scholars Kollel, established a Dunwoody Torah class that met in different homes twice a month. The main recruiter and host was past President of Beth Jacob, Louis Taratoot a"h.

A few successful Shabbatons were held in empty storefronts on Jett Ferry Road, hosted by Rabbi and Rebbetzin Friedman. There was talk of making something more. In 1992 Rabbi Menachem Deutsch, Rosh Kollel of ASK, went on a Federation mission to Israel. He became friendly with successful physician and Dunwoody resident Dr. Sam Eden a"h and his wife Terry.

Back in Atlanta, the Edens introduced Rabbi Deutsch to their dear friends Lester and Linda Czuper. The Edens were considering a change of synagogue. Rabbi Deutsch called a meeting of interested parties, including Terry and Jan Tenenbaum who had recently moved to Dunwoody, and Murray Siegel and his wife Iris a"h, and proposed the formation of a new synagogue in Dunwoody. His idea was greeted with much enthusiasm.

To start, the new shul would need a location. A small group chipped in money to make a down payment on a property. Rabbi Deutsch put his share on his credit card! A home was purchased on Sandell Drive. Louis Taratoot a"h assumed the duties of President of the new shul.

Now the new shul needed a Rabbi. Rabbi Binyomin Friedman declined the initial offer (it's a long story!). Other candidates were interviewed, but none of them worked out. At that point Rabbi Deutsch was referred to Rabbi Shmuel Weinbaum, who was single at the time and didn't have the conflict of relocating a family to a neighborhood where there were, as yet, no observant Jews. The group met with Rabbi Weinbaum, who agreed to serve as first Rabbi of the new synagogue.

Next, the new shul needed a name. That was chosen by Rabbi Weinbaum. The Temple in Jerusalem is referred to as Ariel - Lion of G-d, because an aerial view of the Temple gives the shape of a crouching lion. The new congregation would be named Ariel because all synagogues are considered miniature substitutes for the Temple in Jerusalem.

The new shul was ready to hold services, and that they did – in late August 1993, Parshas Eikev – 25 years ago! From that day on, the Jewish world has been steadily changed for the better, one Jew at a time.

A year after the founding of the shul, Rabbi Weinbaum chose to return to New York to marry and start his own family. Congregation Ariel asked Rabbi and Mrs. Friedman if they would reconsider and become the Rabbi and Rebbetzin of Ariel. They agreed, and that was the beginning of a long (and Blessed) story.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

THIS SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 10TH CELEBRATING ARIEL'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY

IN HONOR OF ARIEL'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY

By Ilene and Jonathan Miller

*You Founders have seichel in your heads, and mitzvahs to guide your feet,
You supported bringing Torah to Dunwoody with all your beat.*

*Rabbi Deutsch, you guided these Founders to jump on board,
Followed by a faithful group that found the Lord.*

*From Mile Post, Mr. T walked and walked the miles,
With Hashem and Shacharis on his mind, he was full of smiles.*

*You founders came along and bought houses in the hood,
You kept walking, all that you could.*

*Now on Tilly Mill, but before, on a Drive called Sandell,
You walked with the Northern guys, you walked with the Southern belles.*

*Fast forward comes our Rabbi Friedman, bringing Mora Dena, their kids and her infinity pot,
Along with their leadership, love and learning—to be sure, their seudah was always hot.*

*For all through the years their delicious hospitality was forever open and warm,
On Shabbos and Yomim Tovim the place to be still is at The Westover Dorm!*

ARIEL MATZAH FACTORY VIGNETTE

A fun memory by Miriam Seidband Cole

In the spring of 1994, our fledgling congregation was anxious to attract new people. One of the rabbis had the novel idea of sponsoring a matza factory. We invited the entire community – and boy, did we call attention to ourselves!

The Rabbi's house on Sandell Drive was converted into a temporary bakery using a pizza oven to bake the handmade matza. Each person was given instructions how to make their personal matza, according to Halachic rules. Of course, no one could recognize their handiwork once it emerged from the oven.

Needless to say, it was a huge success, and put Ariel on the Dunwoody map. The local streets were lined with cars; people came from all over Atlanta to participate in this unique experience.

How did the neighbors feel about this? They were totally puzzled by the commotion caused by the constant stream of people coming and going, but I think they were even more worried as they watched and smelled the smoke coming out of Rabbi Weinbaum's garage!

It took us less than 18 minutes to figure out that this would be the first and last attempt at baking matza and we would need other creative programming ideas!
