FASCINATING FACTS IN JEWISH HISTORY

From approximately the year 500 to 1000, the primary center of Judaism was located in Babylon, current day Iraq. The people were led by Geonim, great sages who were heads of the different Talmudical Academies. As the economic fortunes of Babylon waned, Jews began migrating westward and Jewish communities sprang up across North Africa and into Spain.

The younger, more prosperous communities increasingly were called upon to support the declining communities in Babylon. At this time, one of the great sages of Babylon, Rav Chushiel Gaon, set out from Babylon to collect funds for a needy bride and was seized by pirates. He was sold as a slave in Africa, but was later redeemed by the members of the Jewish community. From Africa, he headed to Kairouan, a city in Tunisia with a large Jewish population. Rav Chushiel settled in Kairouan and his son Chanael was born there. Rabbainu Chanael established a great Yeshiva in Kairouan and wrote an extensive commentary to the Talmud. The establishment of the Academy in Kairouan helped seal the fate of Babylon. Now that there was a Torah center in the west, people stopped looking back to Babylon for leadership.

A young student from the Algerian city of Kal'a asked to be admitted to Rav Chananel's Yeshiva. His name was Yitzchok HaKohen. As Rav Yitzchok advanced in his studies, he became keenly aware of the fact that many people were unable to elucidate the halacha from the Gemora due to the vast amount of material it contains, and because many students are not able to identify the conclusions of the lengthy Talmudic debates. As a result, he conceived of the idea of compiling a comprehensive and extensive halachic work that would present all the halachos and the practical conclusions of the Gemora in a clear, definitive manner.

To achieve this goal, he retreated to his father-in-law's attic, where he worked on his sefer for ten consecutive years. During this period, however, a Moslem tyrant gained control of Tunisia, and persecuted all those who did not accept his faith, especially the Jews of Kairouan. As a result, all the city's Jewish residents fled to places more tolerant of the Jews.

Among the fugitives was Rav Yitzchok, who, with his wife and two children, moved to the Moroccan city of Fez. Rav Yitzchok remained in Fez for forty years, during which time he completed his Sefer HaHalachos, which is considered the first fundamental work in halachic literature. The Sefer Halachos is one of the three pillars that the Shulchan Aruch, the Jewish Code of Law, is based upon. Sefer Halachos became so popular that it became a standard feature printed in the back of all editions of the Talmud.

Eventually, Rav Yitzchok from Fez became known as Alfasi, or the one from Fez. Later generations use the acronym Rabbi Yitzchok Fez or RIF. As an old man, RIF was slandered to the local government and was forced to relocate to Spain where he spent his final years. Rav Yitzchok passed away on Iyar 10 at the age of ninety, in the year 1103.
