Message from the Rabbi

We're now in the month of Adar, a holiday we are to fill with revelry. Happiness is the name of the game. So the Talmud says - "Mishenichnas Adar marbin b'simchah," "When Adar enters, we increase joy." (B. Ta'anit 29a)

Purim is very different from all the other holidays. Passover is a time to learn about all the customs that teach about the exodus in Egypt. There is so much to learn that the week before Rabbis traditionally give a major sermon on how to perform all the rituals. Even the happy holiday of Chanukah demands a rudimentary knowledge of Hebrew in order to be able to light the Chanukah candles. But Purim is pure fun. No one needs to learn how to boo the villain and cheer the hero when the Megillah is read. There is no special way to eat a hamantashen. No one is going to ask if the greggor is turned from right to left or from left to right. Purim is one big smile from beginning to end.

Maybe that's why the Sages said that Purim would be the only holiday to exist after the coming of the Messiah. They knew that the people reveled in the joy of the holiday.

And isn't it so? There is a fairy tale feeling to the story.... with a great party that lasts six months, a beauty contest for all the women in the kingdom and a little girl who gets to be queen. Esther is frightened but ends up saving her people. The bad guys lose; the good guys win. It is all "once upon a time."

This is Purim. It is delightful and fanciful. So woe be to the Rabbi who would deliver a serious sermon about anti-Semitism on this holiday! That is NOT what this holiday is about. Rather this holiday is about catharsis and community, costumes and carnivals.

And for us...you'll want to be at CDT on Saturday night, March 11. Fred Green and Steve Kushins are facing off in a Great Debate - Which is superior, the hamentaschen or the latke?! Click https://youtu.be/YVwt\_TfuC-E for a pre-view! And the schpiel is Billy Joel all the way! The tradition is to get so drunk you can't tell the difference between Haman and Mordechai. Bring a designated driver.

Hundreds of people show up every year on Purim. Why? Because Jews know how to have a good time.

Be there or be square,

L'shalom,

Brock Weinsier
February 4, 2017

Brock is a 7th grade honor student and Junior Beta Club member at Autrey Mill Middle School. At the age of three years old, Brock began playing baseball and has been actively involved in sports ever since. In addition to baseball, he plays flag football and basketball and has earned a black belt in Tae Kwon Do. When Brock is not playing sports, his Saturdays and Sundays are spent watching football and rooting for the Florida Gators and Atlanta Falcons. For five summers, Brock has attended his "favorite summer place" Camp Barney Mendintz. Brock's other loves include skiing, chess, and hanging out with his friends.

Brock's passion for sports and his desire to help others were the driving force behind his tikkun olam/social action project. Brock decided to volunteer at the Marcus Jewish Community Center with SOAR, a program where adults with special needs have an opportunity to participate in team sports. For three months, Brock spent one afternoon per week helping adults with disabilities play kickball. Whether he was helping someone catch, run to a base, or just cheering them on, Brock loved being part of this inspiring group. He plans to return to volunteering with SOAR after his Bar Mitzvah service is complete. This experience taught Brock how someone can make a difference in the lives of others.

part of St. Baldrick's Foundation fundraiser to raise money for children's cancer research. Bryce is a multi-year participant and has raised thousands of dollars for this important cause. He will once again be participating next month with a goal of raising another $2,500 this year.

Zachary Kurtz
February 11, 2017

Zachary is a 7th grader at Webb Bridge Middle School in Alpharetta. He's an avid sports fan and plays basketball nearly year-round for the Hoops and Sand team out of Cumming. Zachary is a true Texas Longhorn fan and can often be seen wearing his burnt orange and white apparel.

For his tikkun olam/social action project, Zachary worked at the Marcus Jewish Community Center in a program called SOAR. His role was to coach adults with disabilities in various sports. He was able to share his love of sports with the participants and learn about the day-to-day lives of people with disabilities.

Charlotte Lichtenfeld
February 11, 2017

Charlotte is a 7th grade honor student, Junior Beta Club member and Thespian at Autrey Mill Middle School. She has a passion for musical theater and chorus and has been a cast member of many musicals throughout the past several years. In addition to theater, Charlotte loves participating in sports, specifically, basketball, soccer and figure skating. She has especially enjoyed having her father coach all of her soccer teams since she was three years old. Charlotte has a special place in her heart for Camp Wicosuta located in New Hampshire. Charlotte's love of musical theater, singing and helping others gave Charlotte the inspiration for her tikkun olam/social action project. She decided to volunteer at The Cohen Home. She wanted to share her love of music, and her companionship, by performing musical numbers from shows she has acted in. She also spent time explaining the origins of each song and got to know the residents who attended.

Zachary Starkman
February 18, 2017

Zac is a 7th-grade student at South Forsyth Middle School where his favorite subjects are science and social studies. Zac relaxes by spending time with friends gaming on the computer. He also enjoys scuba diving with his dad and is currently working toward his PADI Junior Advanced Open Water Diver qualifications. During the summer, Zac attends camp at ID Tech and Andretti's. He also travels to Canada where he visits with his Canadian relatives and goes fishing with his Uncle Dan.

For Zac's tikkun olam/social action project, he collected toys and raised funds for toys to be purchased for the children affected by the Gatlinburg, Tennessee wildfires. In late November, the tourist town of Gatlinburg was devastated by wildfires, which damaged and destroyed hundreds of homes. Many children lost all of their toys and personal possessions. Zac wanted to give these children some hope and brighten their holiday season. We delivered the toys to the police department in Conyers, Georgia, so they could add them to their toy drive. With Zac's help, they were able to send 86 boxes of toys to Gatlinburg.

Ethan Bronfman
February 25, 2017

Ethan is an animal lover and has a dog named Rosie, a cat named Sir Douglas, and two rabbits named Chloe and Blackie. He has played recreation league basketball for the past three seasons, and he was a Cub Scout and Webelos Scout for four years. Ethan loves to read and is a fan of super heroes, both in movies and comic book form.

For his tikkun olam/social action project, Ethan has been volunteering at the Furkids Animal Shelter in Alpharetta over the past six months. He really enjoyed the experience of being with the animals and encourages everyone to volunteer their time or to donate financially to shelters like Furkids.

This year Passover falls in the beginning of April. During the month of March, some of our congregants struggle to find a means in which to celebrate Passover with their families. We at CDT are looking for donations of gift cards to Kroger, Publix, Target and Walmart, to help those members who just need a little help to get through the holidays. If you can, please consider dropping by a gift card. You can also make donations to Chesed Tamid online through the donations link on the CDT website and the money is used to purchase gift cards.

Wishing you all a smooth transition from Winter to Springtime!

Ask a Professional

Carly Reisman is a professional in Intellectual & Developmental Disabilities Services. She works with adults with disabilities who would like to gain employment. Carly has a bachelor's degree in Child and Family Development and a Masters in Special Education from the University of Georgia. She joined JF&CS as a direct support professional in 2015 and became the Employment Services Coordinator in 2016.

Q: My daughter has disabilities and has just graduated from high school. She really wants to work and has had great support all through school. But now that she is graduating, I don't know how to help her find work. What is the next step?

A: JF&CS offers supported employment for adults with disabilities who are able and ready to work. We help with job development, resumes, mock interviews and private coaching on what to wear, appropriate work behaviors, social cues and policies at work. We go through a discovery process to find out what each person enjoys doing and then use our connections in the community to help find a situation that will fit his or her interests, strengths and abilities. We also continue to support the individual and employer as needed. If your daughter wants to work and can maintain employment after receiving training and support from the job coach, we will work to find her the right job that will make her happy.
