Rabbinic Reflections

Dear friends,

This Shabbat, just after receiving this newsletter, we will read the story of Noah and his ark in the Torah. The parshah begins with the words, "eileh toldot Noach, Noach ish tzadik tamim haytah b'dorotav. This is the generation of Noah, Noah was a righteous man, blameless in his generation." The Torah very clearly says that he was righteous. But the Torah qualifies this statement by saying that Noah was righteous b'dorotav, in his generation. What does this mean? Could it mean that he was the most righteous in his generation? This would make sense, since the rest of the world was decimated by the flood. But perhaps it means that, among his generation, he was righteous, but, compared to others, from other time periods, we cannot use this designation of a tzadik to speak of Noah.

The midrash teaches us that after the flood, Noah opened the ark and looked out. He saw the earth desolate, forests and gardens uprooted, corpses visible everywhere. There was no grass, no vegetation: the world was a wasteland. In pain and dismay, he cried out to God: Sovereign of all creation, in six days you made the earth and all that grows in it, like a table prepared for a feast, now You Yourself have brought the work of Your own hands to nought, uprooting all that You have planted, tearing down all that You have built. Why did You not show compassion for Your creatures? God then replied: O faithless shepherd! Now after the destruction, You come to Me and complain. But when I said to you: Make an ark for yourself, for I am going to flood the earth to destroy all flesh, you did not plead for your neighbors! How differently Abraham will act; he will pray on behalf of the people of Sodom and Gomorah. And Moses, when his people anger Me with their calf of gold, will offer his life for them. But you—when you saw that judgment was about to strike the world—you thought only of yourself and your household, while all else perished by fire and water! Then Noah understood he had sinned.

By making the comparison between Noah and Abraham, we can see the clear difference between Noah, who was a tzadik b'dorotav, righteous in his generation, and Abraham, who was righteous l'kol dorot, for all generations. Noah was concerned for himself and for his family. Abraham was concerned for others around him, including the stranger and the sinner.

So, this week, as we read the story of Noah, and next week as we are introduced to Abraham, we are challenged by our Torah. Should we be righteous only among those we encounter? Or should we work to make sure that our good actions and good deeds are not only righteous for our time, but are sustainable for all generations. This is our challenge to be the descendants and followers of Abraham, rather than Noah--to do mitzvot and the work of tikkun olam—the repair of the world, so that the world is a righteous place for us and also for the generations that come after us.

B'ahava, Rabbi Jordan

President's Message

October was quite a month at CDT! Both from a congregational perspective and a personal one, October 2019 had many standout moments which are now wonderful memories. We started the month with our High Holy Days. The CDT clergy, staff and Board of Directors were very excited to offer a choice of service formats to kick off the new year for the first time ever. Many of us enjoyed the terrific new Ruach service on Rosh Hashanah day. It was both lively and inspiring with a modern flare. It mixed traditional prayers with music, singing, and even a little dancing in the aisles! Thank you to Mike Zuspan and the musicians for their time and talent to make this a large success. I've received very positive feedback about it from many congregants who attended the new service. Rabbi Jordan and Mike are already talking about how to make next year's Ruach service even better. While this format may not be for everyone, we'll continue to hold the more traditional Rosh Hashanah service as well.

On a personal note, for my wife Wendy and me, October was filled with overwhelming happiness and pride as our daughter, Ellie, became a Bat Mitzvah at CDT – our spiritual home since she was just one year old. She did an outstanding job on the bimah last Saturday. This was in no small part due to the efforts of all those at CDT who work hard to prepare our youth for this milestone event in their lives. I continue to be amazed at the transition between 6th grade and 7th grade in their abilities to chant from the Torah and lead an entire service. The foundation of years of religious school education at CDT and incredible tutoring from Mike and Susan Grossman clearly paid out in dividends for Ellie last weekend. If you are now in the mix for your child's Bar/Bat Mitzvah preparations, I hope my words give you a sense of calm.

Speaking about dividends, it is not too late to contribute to CDT's High Holy Day Appeal. Like Steven Kushins mentioned from the bimah on Yom Kippur, CDT relies quite heavily on donations made throughout the year. Without donations, we are challenged to keep our budget healthy in order to offer the amazing range of programs and events to our community. If you haven't already donated for this year's appeal, I would encourage you to do so now.

November is looking like a busy month at CDT. With multiple B'nai Mitzvah, numerous social events, committee meetings, and religious school classes, I hope to see you around CDT. It's never too late to join a new committee, attend Torah study, or even enroll your child in CDT's religious school.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at president@dortamid.com or call me at 404.909.0675.

B'Shalom,

Dan

Cantorial Soloist's Message

Shalom Chaveirim – Hello my friends!

As the chagim, our holy days, are over and everyone is getting back to a more regular daily rhythm, I find myself feeling (as I do at this time every year) both emptied and empty — emptied of much of the spiritual restlessness that our Days of Awe bring out and empty in that there is now a spiritual void that needs filling up!

This is the beauty and the joy of our New Year traditions. We both get to and are compelled to start anew! I wonder how many of you are both a little exhausted and yet, at the same time, ready to go.

If you are like me, then you are feeling the momentum of our holy days pushing and pulling you forward to build on the spiritual growth you have begun.

If you are like me, then you also struggle to keep that momentum going as the holy days recede further and further into the past and our daily struggles take over.

How, then, can we keep growing? How, then, can we keep our sights true?

I think, this is why we have Shabbat. We each need a little time to stop and check in. Are we heading in the right direction? Where are we with ourselves? Where are with our family and friends? Where are we with God?

This year, I challenge you to put Shabbat down on your calendar – not just as an obligation, but as a tool to build on the momentum of the High Holy Days and to help guide you forward to a year of spiritual growth and renewal.

. . and since this is being sent to you just hours before Shabbat, I wish you and your family a Shabbat Shalom.

Mike Zuspan

Education Director's Message

I love my CDT Family! They are always at CDT rain or shine whenever you need them!

Thanks to everyone who came to build our sukkah. We built it in record time this year!

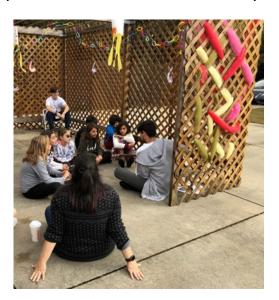

I had so much fun with the kids who came to help. We also got to make a huge Caesar salad together for Pizza in the Hut later that night!

Because of your help, our religious school got to enjoy having classes in the Sukkah with our shinshin, Zohar. Zohar taught each class a part to a song and during Shira it all came together as one. It was beautiful and fun! We are so lucky to have Zohar in our community!

Simchat Torah was beautiful. I think it is my favorite holiday. It made it even better because we consecrated 27 new students this year! Isn't that AMAZING! During the service, each new student received a certificate and mini Torah to remind them of the beginning of their Jewish studies at Dor Tamid. We welcome them to our family!

Our first and second graders are working hard preparing for their Shabbat dinner on November 15th. They will be participating in the Shabbat service, so please join us and watch our amazing kids in action!

Many thanks — תודה רבה

Our B'nai Mitzvah

Whitney Ricks — November 2

Whitney is a 7th grader at River Trail Middle School. She is very active, playing lacrosse for both the Junior Titans and the Lady Outlaws travel team. She also loves to travel, enjoys her pets, and loves spending time with her friends and family. In her down time, you might find her watching episodes of one of her favorite shows, Friends.

One of Whitney's best qualities is caring about the people and world around her, as those who are close to her know. For her tikkun olam/social action project, Whitney divided her time between two causes close to her heart. She volunteers at animal shelters, working with those lovable creatures waiting for their forever homes. She's also organizing a team for next year's Multiple Sclerosis Walk in Atlanta. This disease affects someone very close to her, and she wants nothing more than to participate in fundraising to eradicate the disease forever. Whitney truly believes she'll participate in changing the world for the better!

Jacqueline Britan — November 9

Jacqueline is in the 7th grade at Autrey Mill Middle School where she's an active member of the AMMS chorus. She has been a student at the CDT religious school since the 4th grade. Jacqueline has always loved music, and she enjoys singing and performing. She also enjoys creative writing.

Jacqueline loves to talk to people and learn about them, which naturally led to her tikkun olam/social action project during which she interviewed residents at The Cohen Home about their life experiences. After the interviews, she compiled a book with a bio of each person and presented the book to them as a gift. Through this project, Jacqueline learned lessons about life, hard work, and family from each one of the residents she interviewed. More than that, Jacqueline found her time with the residents worthwhile, even if she made them smile just a little bit that day and made them feel important.

Danielle Cohen — November 16

Danielle is a 7th grader at Twin Rivers Middle School where she takes accelerated classes and plays the flute in the school band. Her favorite classes are social studies and math. When Danielle is not in school, she is usually found on some sort of social media, whether it is in the middle of a group chat with her Red Thread Sisters, Instagram, video chatting, or watching Netflix or YouTube videos. Danielle's favorite summer place is Camp Barney Medintz, which she has attended for the past three years. She has enjoyed making new friends and embracing her Jewish values.

After being a competitive gymnast for over five years, Danielle decided to try horseback riding. She rides weekly and cares for the horses. She is a lover of all animals, as she is often tending to our dog, rabbit, fish, chickens and ducks. For her tikkun olam/social project, Danielle volunteered at the Azalea Stables in Lawrenceville. Here she took care of rescue horses as well as those with special needs. Danielle found this opportunity very rewarding and plans to continue volunteering after her Bat Mitzvah.

2019 Pinch Hitter Program

organized by Achim/Gate City B'nai B'rith #0144 and the B'nai B'rith Center for Community Action

BE A 'PINCH HITTER' VOLUNTEER ON DECEMBER 25th!

The Pinch Hitter Program, which is organized by B'nai B'rith and chaired by Harry Lutz, provides volunteers to work in non-medical positions in area hospitals on Christmas Day to give employees the day off to spend with their families. We will work in (approximately) four-hour shifts at eleven hospitals and assisted living facilities this year. You can sign up on line at www.pinchhitters.org.

Call Harry at 678-485-8179 for more information.
