

A note from Amy Sweet:

Hello Everyone. My name is Amy Sweet, and I am the current Director of Education on the 2020-21 Board of Trustees. As the Director of Education, I am your connection to the faculty and staff of the TKE Religious School. My role is to partner with our Religious School staff to help our families build a strong connection to our Religious School and to TKE. My focus will be on family engagement and “fun-raising.” While 2020 has definitely changed the way that we can engage, it also gives us some fun new opportunities.

I am no stranger to the TKE Religious School and to school involvement generally. I have three children, two of which are still in the religious school and my oldest was confirmed last year and is still active with TKE as a member of the KEFTY board. I served as a room mom in the public-school system for 10 years as well as serving on the Parents Group board for TKE Religious School and the JCC Sunshine School. I currently substitute teach for the Cobb County School system. I love working with children and I love creating programming that brings our students, our parents, and our school together.

In addition to helping with events TKE events of all kinds, I have been involved with TKE’s Women of Reform Judaism. I held many board positions with WRJ over the years, most recently serving as WRJ President from 2018-2020.

I have been a member of TKE for 21 years. My husband and I were married in the sanctuary and we share three wonderful children, Danny (17), Lainey (14), and Mikey (9). All three of our children have had their life-cycle events here, from consecration to Confirmation and everything in-between. They grew up at TKE and consider it their second home.

I can’t wait to get to know all of you and help you to love TKE as much as I do. If you have any questions about events going on at the religious school or anything TKE please let me know. Feel free to email me at raz001@bellsouth.net if you need anything.
