ATC High Holiday Services Broadcast World-Wide!

For the very first time, Ahavath Torah Congregation live-streamed High Holiday services on the internet. It was a great success! We heard from many of you, and you expressed your delight with how smoothly the services and technology went. We know from the devices logged in, that we brought in viewers not only in Stoughton and the South Shore, but also across Massachusetts and New England, Arizona, New Mexico, California, Illinois, Virginia, New York, New Jersey, Texas, Maryland....and even Tel Aviv! The live-streams brought in many viewers, with a peak of 212 unique viewers (devices) at any one time and more than 7,250 views across the five streaming sessions. It was a huge success!!!

ATC recently sent out a High Holiday survey to all members, and we are compiling the results. As successful as these services were, we know that there are things that can be improved upon, and that's why we've sought your feedback. We're sure that there will be more live-streamed events in our future, and we want to maximize your satisfaction with ATC, its programs and services.

Did you know you can watch archives of all of the services, including those from Sukkot, on the ATC YouTube channel? You can find it at <http://bit.ly/ATC-YT>

President's Message

An encore of my High Holiday message for those who may not have been in front of your screen, or for those without computer access for our services.

Thank you

L'Shana Tova.

Welcome to Ahavath Torah Congregation.

It has been a while, but this is your President...
Robert Bornstein.

So, this is year 2 of my presidency. A year ago, I thought this was going to be a breeze. ATC was cruising right along. This building was busy, we had wonderful fund-raising events, Bingo was Binging, and we were even having a dress-up Purim service. This president stuff is easy. And then came the March 17th's "bump in the road". You must close your building for 2 weeks. Boy, how many times have I heard that.... never. I want everyone to know that this was not in the terms and conditions of a synagogue president.

But then, a small group of members began to Zoom. Zoom meetings were frequent, and more frequent, and slowly we began to create a new version of Ahavath Torah Congregation... virtually. Virtual online became 2 new words in our language, and we began to work together... virtually. First, religious school became a virtual classroom. With no experience, no history, no materials sitting on a shelf, a new format was invented. And we did it, the programming worked, and we did it with happy students and parents.

Then daily events began to fill a void to keep members involved; book club, daily exercise, as I've been told, a

From the Rabbi's Desk

It is the end of October as I compose this message. Yet, I have already received several emails from individuals and organizations writing about the December Dilemma. Every year, we Jews encounter this complication in our lives. When we collide with the colossus of Christmas celebration, how should we maintain our Jewish identity?

We survive and thrive in an undeniably Christian society. Our America is not an officially Christian country, but it is predominantly Christian in population and inspiration. Christian values and mores saturate our surroundings. In December, especially, holiday trappings can be exciting, enchanting and captivating. How easy it would be for us to be drawn into the impressive dynamics of our majority culture.

We Jews can revel in the celebrations of our Christian neighbors and friends take in the Lorelei lures that enticingly encircle them. We can enjoy the lights, sights and sounds of Rudolph and Jolly Old St. Nick. We can take advantage of the sales and smells of the delectable, as much of Christmas has become almost generic in its commercial nature. But, it is not a Jewish holiday and does not affect our religious outlook.

For Christians, Christmas celebrates the birth of the messiah in terms of Christian theology and understanding. There is no Jewish aspect of that observance. This is an affront to Christians who are sincere in their Christianity. In doing so, we, who as Jews, clearly do not believe that Jesus was divine, would be signifying that we in no way take seriously the true meaning of Christmas for the Christian.

Too many Jews do not appreciate or connect with the wonder and significance of our own calendar. It is not surprising that they yearn to fill an unnatural and unnecessary void with Christmas pomp and ceremony.

The Jew who builds a Sukkah, the Jew who is found in the synagogue on Shabbat, the Jew who sings with the Torah on Simchat Torah, and comes in costume on Purim, is strong and resolute and resistant. Strong Jewish identities render us less uncomfortable with the celebrations of our friends and neighbors, especially if we are attentive to the celebratory nuances of our calendar.

Christmas is not for us, though we can bring a bit of Christmas to those who are less fortunate...as we have for the past 5 years. But, we do so as Jews, resolute in our unique corporate identity to which previous generations adhered for millennia. We shall rejoice in the beauty of our own traditions and heritage. In so doing, there will be no December Dilemma.

Rabbi J.

The Fast of 10 Tevet

Tenth of Tevet (Asarah BeTevet), the tenth day of the Hebrew month of Tevet, is a fast day in Judaism. It is one of the minor fasts observed from before dawn to nightfall. The fasting is in mourning of the siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar II of Babylonia - an event that began on that date and ultimately culminated in the destruction of the First Temple and the conquest of the Kingdom of Judah (today Jerusalem and the southern West Bank).

The day has no relationship to Hanukkah, but it happens to follow that festival by a week. Whether the 10th of Tevet falls 7 or 8 days after Hanukkah depends on whether the preceding Hebrew month of Kislev has 29 or 30 days in the relevant year.

Recently, our ATC Administration Office has been renamed in honor of Past President Jerald Savage

Annalise Becomes a Bat Mitzvah

Ahavath Torah Congregation marked an important occasion on October 17th, when Rabbi J called 12-year-old member Annalise Hait to the bimah as a Bat Mitzvah. Annalise is the middle daughter of members Nancy and Michael Hait.

"Rabbi Hausman and the entire ATC community have embraced our family and have provided us all with a place that we like to call our home away from home," Nancy remarked to the congregation. "And now we stand here today celebrating our second bat mitzvah in this beautiful beit kneset. We are so grateful to Rabbi Hausman for teaching Annalise nearly every week since she was 10 and for routinely welcoming her to the bimah to help lead services on Shabbat and holidays."

For those who watched Annalise shine in her Bat Mitzvah services, either in person, or by live-stream, it was clear that those many hours more than prepared her for this event.

ATC members who attended the services on Friday night and Saturday morning noted Annalise's comfort at the bimah and her facility in chanting Haftorah and other prayers. Others exclaimed how proud they were of her. Many in attendance remarked on how smoothly and safely the services were conducted. It is remarkable to note that the family, Rabbi J, and ATC members would not allow a pandemic to rob this talented and determined young woman of the opportunity to mark this vital lifecycle event.

Exciting News

Our very own Bob Bornstein has been chosen as a Congregation Hero by the Synagogue Council of Massachusetts. Here is why he was chosen as a congregation hero: "Robert's commitment and compassion has kept Ahavath Torah Congregation thriving and growing. Thanks to him, we have a virtual daily Minyan, Kabbalat Shabbat and Havdalah every week! We live-streamed hybrid services for the High Holidays that made our congregation feel safe and connected through his dedication and leadership." Bob will be honored, along with other award recipients, at a virtual gala in early December.

challah bake that I can relate to, and even religious services... as I've been told, and I am only mentioning just a few.

Before cooking shows were being Zoomed, ATC was the first with Rob Yunich and Elana Milstein's Pre-Passover Tasting. This was to have been a wonderfully planned live cooking social event. Within hours it became our first virtual event, and I still remember those slow roasted apricot chicken thighs.

By the time we knew that two weeks was only the start, Minyan and Kabbalat Shabbat and Havdalah services became available. In order to provide a "kosher" Minyan, the synagogue was opened for 1 evening to hold and record a Minyan service. Rabbi J, myself and group of intrepid prayers, opened the door to a dormant building, donned protective clothing, attached a mask to our faces, measured each seat to be farrrrrrr enough away, then sprayed gallons of sanitizer to provide a Minyan to be seen and heard each night on Zoom. And, since that first Minyan, April 29, we have never missed a Minyan. For this we are all glad to provide services for those observing Yartzheit.

Adult Ed classes began shortly after, and continue, with a response like no other. And now, we are broadcasting live to you, to your living room, kitchen, man cave, she shed ... to your home, hopefully making these days seem as it was and will be.

And let me not forget our callers. Each month our group of members phoned everyone, every member in every state, to be sure everyone was healthy or if they needed assistance. We helped many members in the early days and thank you for making over 1,100 calls.

It has been quite an experience "keeping the doors open" as one may say at Ahavath Torah. But only with the help of many, ATC is alive, and more alive in so many ways.

So many members have thanked me, and provided positive words, and it is quite humbling. However, I am only 1 Lego piece in a very large kit.

And this year, this is the right year to take the time and give thanks.

I wished to thank all that help personally, but I need to thank those who have provided guidance, assistance, and just listen to my griving and worries.

David Schulze has been involved in each aspect of our closure and re-opening. The shutdown, our re-opening TEAM, and today's hardware and software just needed for this production.

If you attend any event, webinar, evening Minyan, enjoy those daily exercise classes, virtual religious school, and that is 4 classes each week, or a myriad of zoom sessions, then we all thank Madeline Lewis.

For picking up checks at my home and working on our finances to be sure ATC will exist, thank you Wendy Schulze. Wendy must be doing something right as the electricity is still on.

Thank you, David Steinberg, for helping with the ShulCloud transition, and to be that extra pair of hands, especially with finances, along with handling our statements and Bulletins.

A loud shout out to our Communications Team consisting of Emily Prigot and Rob Yunich. They do a priceless amount of work to keep everyone informed with twice a week E-mailings and press releases, and change those letters in our marquee, to let all on Central street and beyond know we are here! And there is social media..... Just as Zoom has become a vital portion of our lives, so has Facebook, You Tube, Me Tube, Instagram, and a bunch of letters I do not understand. And a new website which was only a dream, but we have one, and one to rival any major synagogue.

Our membership has grown, in these times, yes it has. So, I extend an ATC welcome to our new family members. Let me tell you this building is much more than a couple lecterns and an ark that you see today. I've seen this building, and you will too. So... Thank you, Bob Cohn.

The membership receivables has been the lowest, not the lowest in recent memory, but in memory, and thank you Howard Levenson.

Our reopening Team and our High Holidays Team have spent months of Zoom meetings organizing to bring ATC back to live action. Thank you, with a special thank you to Larry Barbell to head up our honors team.

Thank you to the two gentlemen behind me. Hazan Dan Bauman and Rabbi J. Dan gives this little shul a sound that resonates throughout this building and now the Jewish community. Rabbi J has been the corn starch in the roux. He is our leader, and folks should ONLY know the work it takes to keep our lights on. Those lights are computer screens, with services, educational guests, and a variety of events. Now, when it comes to Rabbi J - I would say more, but I am not in the mood for a lecture later today, tomorrow, and next month.

As we enter Yizkor, may I take a moment to acknowledge family, friends, acquaintances who we have lost this year, whether the loss was attributed to the pandemic or not. And I would be remiss, even though she was not a member, to mention Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, first Jewish female Justice of the Supreme court.

And in my list of personal "thank you"s.... my family.

I would not want to have any group of people endure what my family has in these past months. Those who know me, know at times I am no walk in the park, but having this synagogue and building alive and well, became more than a goal, it became an obsession, not only to keep ATC alive NOW, but for years to come. There will never be enough words to ever thank Lesley for just being there, during the first months of uncertainty. And the time and efforts she has placed in ATC, helping wherever she may be needed. Trust me when I say I have been apologizing to her since March.

And finally - my personal thank you to our membership... to you. For being with us. Being part of the ATC Family. For continually being a member, when questions arose early, "What do we have to offer our members? Our building is closed".

But everyone had patience and stuck with us. Patience when we started a new computer system. Taking part in our fundraising opportunities - counting your blessings, who knew the success this would be, attending virtual services, missing the social interaction between friends and members, and just listening to me today.

Each year the synagogue president would stand at the Rabbi's shtender, and look out to a hopefully packed room of about 500 people. The president hesitates a bit, but strives to give a message that hopefully embraces the membership to want to contribute to the annual pledge, to help this synagogue or any synagogue survive another year.

I am not saying I'm not asking, but your generosity is more than just appreciated this year. For this, we have, on our website, a conveniently placed donation button to press after sundown. We have also provided self-addressed stamped envelopes to help the mailing process.

This is what the President is here for, but as Robert Bornstein, I am humbled to be the one talking to everyone today.

Hope for all that this is an easy fast, and from my annual hors d'oeuvres tie, my family, the leadership both clergy and lay, and our staff at Ahavath Torah Congregation a wonderful, sweet, and healthy new year to all,

At Passover we say "at Passover...next year in Jerusalem". Today we say "next year in my seat at 1179 Central Street".

Thank you,

Robert Bornstein

Rabbi Gerson South Area Religious School News

Shalom!

Religious School is progressing nicely.

I am so proud of our students. Attendance has been very good, almost perfect every time.

The students are responding well, participating in the lessons, and now have begun interacting with each other. They are dealing so well with a very difficult situation.

I am quite proud of the way our third graders have begun to read Hebrew and participate in our prayers. They have learned all about our High Holidays. Our parshah study has included Beresheit and Noach. We will continue, learning about the Tower of Babel and go on to learn all about Abraham and his family. In November we will study Shabbat and after that go on to study about many Mitzvot.

The older children are of course continuing to improve their reading and prayer skills. We have studied the Shema and V'Ahavta in depth and will soon go on to study Aleinu through our "Hebrew in Harmony program". We continue learning about history, studying Joshua, Deborah, Samson, and Ruth. We discuss our Jewish heroes and through studying the wisdom of our ancestors, learn Jewish values. We have discussed the value of attending Religious School and how what they learn will help them achieve their goals in life. I was really impressed with their answers when we talked about this.

Our Virtual Kabbalat Shabbat School Service will be held on November 20th. Please support our children by attending.

Please help us by giving me the names of anyone who might be interested in joining our School.

Stay well and safe.
