Tutoring Policies

Tutoring is treated like a Bet Sefer class. If a student misses a session, the tutor does not do a make-up session. Because of the complex tutoring schedule, tutors are paid even if the student does not come, so Bet Sefer cannot pay tutors to do make-ups. There are often opportunities to do make-ups on Sundays; please check with Rabbi Laurie if this is of interest.

Students receive a total of 26 tutoring sessions over the year. There are some extra dates listed, so this leaves extra sessions if dates need to be rescheduled. Dates are rescheduled if (1) a tutor has to miss a session, or (2) several parents in the group have a conflict. It's also okay for tutoring to occur at the beginning of January or at the end of May if that works for the group. Your tutor will be in touch with you to confirm this schedule. All changes should be made directly with the tutor and other parents and not go through Rabbi Laurie. Good communication is key to making this work!
