Vol. 38, No. 3 & 4

Four Cups to Freedom

As we sit down to our seders this year, traditionally, we will raise four cups of wine. One explanation that our sages provide for the four cups is to serve as a reminder of the four ways that God redeemed us from Egypt.

In the book of Exodus, we are told that: (1) God will take us out of Egyptian slavery, (2) God will save us from our labors, (3) God will redeem us with an outstretched arm and (4) God will take us to be God's people.

Rabbi Daniel A. Schwartz

As we also say or sing during our Seder, "Dayenu" ('it would have been enough'). Wouldn't it have been enough for God to have done one of those four actions? Why were all four necessary as part of our exodus?

A modern commentary suggests that it was to teach us a lesson. There we were, facing an incredible challenge, an existential threat. And, instead of being saved all at once in one swooping action, there were four steps taken to deliver us from our bondage.

The lesson? This is the reality of our modern challenges. While we wish that our problems as individuals, as communities, as a nation and even as global citizens could be solved with one swift action, the truth is that it often takes time and numerous steps are required in order to get us to where we want to go. The four cups are to remind us not to be discouraged when we try to make a change and don't see the immediate effects. Few things in life are immediate, especially the changes in our world we need to make a reality. But that doesn't mean they are less significant.

As you participate in your seder this year, whether you are in person or online, whether you have seder for one individual or one community, our hope is that you think of the challenges in our minds, in our homes and in our streets and that, like God with the multiple step plan, whether it take four, or less or even more, you realize the actions you can take to help bring about the experience of freedom for all.

Wishing you a zissen Pesach, a sweet Passover!

From the Executive Director's Desk

Brian D. Fishman
Executive Director

Wow! What a year it has been! As we look back at the last 12 months, we can reflect on the challenges overcome. It has been a time of enormous challenges, medical breakthroughs, tremendous losses and silver linings. Time demanded us to be nimble and think creatively, and our community did not disappoint. Thank you so much for all of the positive feedback that we have received during this time. We are eagerly awaiting the days when we can all join together again in person.

The State's Covid restrictions did not slow down our Purim celebrations and we had something for everyone. Beginning with Purim in a Bag, this program was geared for our youngest members (0-7 years) and featured a project that was picked up at Temple and completed during an online program. Everyone had a blast! Since our traditional carnival wasn't an option this year, we decided to get creative and turned it into our in-person Purim CAR-nival! Designed for our Pre-K through sixth graders, this event was safely held in the parking lot of Temple and families pre-registered for time slots in our drive-thru party. Special thanks to Geoff Kretchmer and Star Trax for donating the photo booth and the games and to Steve Mertz for baking hamentaschen. The Fruman Youth Program's SSTY did a wonderful job running it with the help of Madrichim. Who would have thought that we could pull that off in February in Michigan?

The Purim celebrations continued with Rabbi Mike and Sipping, Study and Shushan. This virtual event for our 21-and-up crowd offered the opportunity to you to learn a little about Purim and make some delicious cocktails with the Rabbi. Interesting connection between mules and Purim.

Finally, what would Purim be without the Purim Shpiel? Cantor Penny did not disappoint with the Not Ready for Prime Time Shpielers performing BOO-Hamian Rhapsody/Another Shpiel Bites the Dust (written by Gary Grossman). It was hilarious, as usual, and big thanks to everyone involved for all their hard work.

Now we get to look ahead to Passover. We will have a congregational seder on the second night as we usually do. Like last year, it will be virtual and we will be able to participate with people near and far. While there are likely going to be opportunities to participate virtually for a long time to come, I can't wait until we can get together again.

Please let me know if there is anything that I can do for you. • brian@shirshalom.org

Tell Me What Are You Missing?

Allison Parr
Marketing

In these strange times, I am finding that our lives are governed by contradictions: I am surely missing being physically together within Shir Shalom's four walls. I am also in awe that in response to the pandemic we have carved out a virtual, perhaps more accessible, togetherness. Within this modern version of Shir Shalom togetherness, our clergy has been able to reach into the homes of members around the globe with old and new traditions. I feel grateful that this adaptability has served us well and will remain an option for those who need it or prefer it.

I have often heard the story of the 30 founding Temple Shir Shalom families, led by Rabbi Dannel Schwartz, who, in the beginning, congregated in a simple office space, and dreamed of creating a temple that reflected their mission and aspirations. I am grateful for their vision and industry. Despite the enormity of the task, this group of visionaries built a brick and mortar synagogue where the growing Shir Shalom family could physically gather together to learn, pray, and celebrate life. In the three decades since that time, we have certainly used our home to connect with Judaism and to each other.

For me personally, the warm familiar setting of our sanctuary will forever be linked to the joy and pride I felt at each of my 3 daughters' bat mitzvahs. Vivid photos on my walls of my girls in front of Shir Shalom's Ark of colorfully dressed Torahs remind me of these happy occasions. While I have enjoyed the games, lectures, musings and services from my comfortable couch, there is a part of me yearning for a return to this physical space that we have all made sacred with our memories.

I know many of you feel similarly and are yearning for the light at the end of this tunnel when we can be in person together again. In the meantime, I'm wondering what you have missed and what you are looking forward to once we can safely return to our beloved synagogue. I invite you to share this with me - because we're making plans for our future and dreaming together of what we will be able to create and celebrate; how we'll build upon our continued success in living our mission every single day.

You can reach me at alparr617@gmail.com. I truly look forward to hearing your thoughts.

Life & The Art of Gardening

TEMPLE SHIR SHALOM'S the learning center preschool

Marsha Mitnick
Early Childhood
Learning Director

To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven: A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to harvest.
-Ecclesiastes

The above biblical quote is one of my favorites. As you go through life consider yourself fortunate to experience all of the above. I know because I have, in all different ways. Most recently my fifth grandchild was born. It was Raya's time to come into the world. Just recently my mom died. She was ninety one years old and it was her time to die.

Most people knew her by her nickname Boo.

She loved coming to The Learning Center and any event at Shir Shalom that involved her great-grandchildren. She found joy in volunteering at the Temple office. She took her volunteer role of being "the shredder" at Temple very seriously. She would joke about it. She didn't want to miss her day. She didn't want to arrive late. "I can't be late. I don't want them to cut my pay."

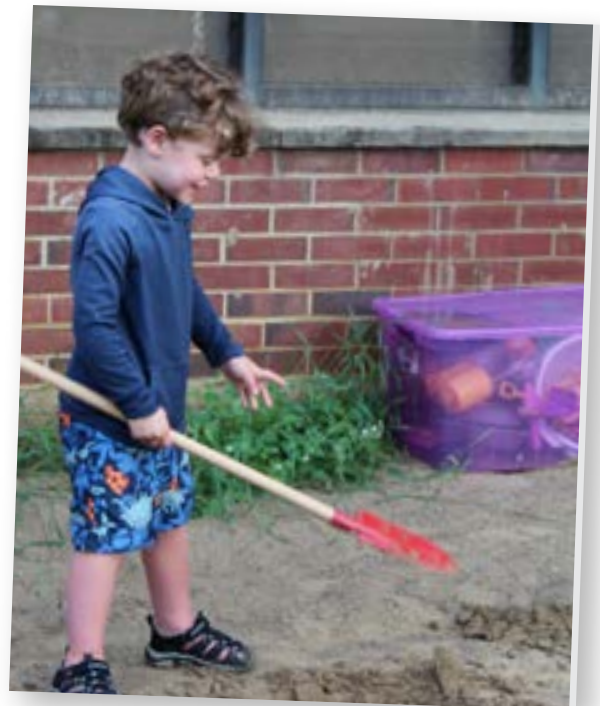

Boo loved to plant and garden. As a child I spent a great deal of time learning from her about gardening. As the years passed she would have my children, her grandchildren, garden with her each spring. As she taught them the art of gardening she would swell with pride. She hardly noticed the role they played in helping her manage the heavy lifting.

When The Learning Center started, I knew that gardening would be a central part of the curriculum. So many concepts can come alive to the preschool-aged child when learning through nature, planting and taking care of a garden. Everything we do at The Learning Center has a reason that builds on the skills of the young child. Gardening would offer the opportunity to foster success in every child.

Boo was thrilled to be a part of this process. She never missed our annual Garden Party. All the kids called her Grandma Boo. As the kids planted and watered their plants she would watch, sitting on the bench, visiting with parents and their children. Although she never quite understood why we would provide such small watering cans. I would fill up a large water trough and the kids would fill their watering cans to water their plants. "Marsha! Come on. By the time they get their water to their plant half the water has spilled out and then they keep going back to the water trough." I smiled and explained: "I know Mom, that is my intention. Look at all the practice they are getting when using their little hands and balancing the water as they walk back and forth to their plant."

As the seasons passed I became a grandmother. My mother became a great-grandmother. The first of this next generation started attending The Learning Center. There were four generations that attended The Learning Center's Garden Party. This year there will be three generations, but if I know Boo, she will still be watching over the kids and the garden. And I will smile every time water spills out of a child's watering can. • marsha@shirshalom.org

How We Doin'?

Andee Liberman
Associate Director

These Scribe articles not only update you on the happenings at Temple and SHORESH. They are also a way to see how you are doing. When you read an article in the Scribe and it moves you, we love hearing how it has affected you. While we teach our students and families, we also learn from the feedback you provide. You share your feelings and suggestions and through those interactions we build emotional connections.

So how are we doing? SHORESH is great! Since Thanksgiving, we have primarily been online with our students and families. However, seventh and eighth grade Madrichim and High School students braved the cold and went sledding last month. And SSTY's Purim CARnival gave families a chance to celebrate Purim in a COVID-safe way.

On February 28, SHORESH classes resumed for our PK-6th grade students. Our In-person learners gathered again at the Jewish Community Center and online learners got back together on Zoom with their classmates and teachers. Our teachers continue to craft creative lessons and programs. Both working outside and over Zoom have stretched them to come up with ways to engage and teach our kids. We look forward to the third grade and PK/K family programs at the JCC in person.

As Spring and Passover approach we will be teaching our students about the holiday. Imagine what fun it will be learning about the parts of the seder (like the plagues) and role playing outside! Our Hebrew studies will include The Four Questions and students will continue to learn about their Judaism.

So, how we doin'? Let us know!! Reach out with a quick email or emoji. Or pick up the phone and call. We look forward to hearing from you!•

Fruman Youth Program-SSTY Update

Alyah Al-Azem
Teen Engagement
Director

The last time I wrote to you all was mid-summer when my best friends were Keith Morrison and Lester Holt from Dateline. I had high hopes of inviting them over for Shabbat dinner, but alas, it is March now and we are still in quarantine so I just don't know when they will be able to make it to West Bloomfield. For many, this past year may have felt like it was 'taken' from them but here at Temple we made sure that no teen felt like they were missing out on SSTY this year.

We started the new school year running by dropping off welcome bags to every incoming freshman at Temple, inviting them to our SSTY kickoff at Temple, leading us to record attendance numbers for Sunday Night School. We were able to provide a COVID-safe environment for our SSTY'ites by programming outside with masks on and physical distancing. Enjoying dinner together, discussing current events through a Jewish lens, bonfires and blow up slides made for a nice "new normal." We even turned our annual trip into a camping trip where every participant had their own tent and group meals were prepared on individual sticks. It may not have been the Chicago trip we anticipated, but it was still a blast filled with nature walks and marshmallows!

Once it got colder and the snow started to fall we moved to Zoom. SSTY has been meeting monthly for SSTY Hangouts, a Chanukah cookie decorating contest, a Tikkun Olam-A-Thon project with no-sew blankets for families at Coleman A Young Elementary in Detroit and volunteering to help with our Purim CAR-nival. It has almost been a year since COVID-19 came to the US but we have not missed a beat. We met the challenge head on and I can honestly say the first half of this school year has been a success. I cannot wait for everyone to come back together when it warms up and we can go back to enjoying the great outdoors! If your teen is still looking for ways to get involved, please don't hesitate to reach out! • alyah@shirshalom.org

A Guide to Passover

Helpful Hints & Seder Tips

The Seder is supposed to be a joyous and inspiring event, but all too often, it ends up complicated and boring. Whether your Seder is traditional or modern, or, as is often the case these days, a bit of both, it can benefit from forethought. Here are some tips that you might like, love or forget...but most of all you should enjoy!

The Boy Scouts are right: you should always “Be Prepared.” This does not mean that a detailed script should be written. It does mean that the Seder can be treated as a major event. Would you prepare a bar or bat mitzvah celebration without hours of planning? Some time spent in family meetings can lend importance to the occasion, as well as help you to put your distinctive imprint on the celebration. We do not merely lease the holiday for an evening, to return it undamaged; we won it and have the right to decorate, expand and shape it to our needs.

Planning can include preparations as well. Have everyone help. The charoset does not have to be phenomenal, but you should make it yourself. Children can help with boiling the eggs and setting the table. Ask friends to bring Passover themed table decorations. The place for hiding the afikomen should be thought out. Plant vague Jewish or Biblical clues along the way. Everybody should be doing something. Invest everybody and make Passover a memory trigger...after all, that’s what it’s all about.

The mix of guests is very important. Some people prefer a small, intimate Seder. Others want a mix which allows for some guests who have special skills, rich memories, good voices, good stories, or for whom an invitation to a well-run Seder will be a learning experience. Do not be afraid to invite non-Jews, or out-of-towners who have no other Seder to go to. Most of all, do not forget that empty chair for Elijah.

Anything you can do in the course of planning and preparing which will evoke questions is a benefit. You can have your own Tish...you will wow ‘em...they will think you are becoming a rabbi. (And if you are not sure of the answer, just ask Siri or any of us rabbis.) Natural questions include: the empty chair for Elijah, or the reason for four cups of wine, four children, four questions--could the four mean something? The kashes (questions) will come naturally and there is no need for long lectures, just short, brilliant answers. Then again, there may be some questions without answers.

The Haggadah tells the story of the four children, one of whom does not know which question to ask. If you need help with the basics, such as how to set a Seder table, how to prepare the Seder plate, or what an appropriate menu item might be, you should know that most Haggadot and Jewish cookbooks include this information. Recordings of the traditional Passover melodies are available at Jewish bookstores and online. There are a lot of “how to” guides, such as Living a Jewish Life, by Anita Diamant with Howard Cooper, The Art of Jewish Living, by Dr. Ron Wolfson and Living Judaism, by Wayne Dosick—all of which include helpful material. Of course, the web can be a great source for information from http://www.myjewishlearning.com/holidays/Jewish\_Holidays/Passover.shtml to games to games and puzzles for children at www.babaganewz.com and www.torahtots.com, a page prepared by an orthodox woman who provides Judaism 101: Pesach at www.jewfaq.org and even a site that gives vegetarian fat-free recipes at <http://euler.ecs.umass.edu/pass-veg>. (Can you really have Passover without fat and cholesterol??!)

A Reform Perspective

As Reform Jews, many of us choose to observe Passover in a variety of ways. Some are very strict in making their home Kosher L'Pesach; others are not. Some choose to follow the laws as they are prescribed in the Torah--no leaven, plain and simple. Others want to follow Jewish tradition according to Orthodox today. Whatever you decide, make your Passover observance special.

Still, every year congregants ask questions regarding the strictest interpretation of the law. Therefore, we have included this traditional guide concerning what can and what cannot be eaten during this holiday. We hope this helps, but if you have any questions in creating your own level of observance, give us rabbis a call or send us an e-mail (mikem@shirshalom.org or daniela@shirshalom.org) – we are always glad to help.

Seder symbols, laws, legends & facts

Select a Haggadah that you like the best which is suited for the participants. Make sure that everyone has the same Haggadah. You can even call the office to purchase Shir Shalom's Haggadah. There is nothing so boring as losing your way before the Seder has begun when everyone is using a different version. The Seder has been characterized as a "hurried trip through Jewish history via the Haggadah." Everybody should be on the trip.

Do not feel that your Seder must be too formal. You may talk in-between, but keep the service moving. Do not feel this has quite the same formality as a synagogue service.

Study the Haggadah before the Seder itself. Decide in advance which parts you can do in Hebrew and which in English. Have as many blessings in unison as possible. Rotate the reading of the parts of the Haggadah among those at the table. Some will read in English, others in Hebrew. Some will sing the songs in one style, others in another...it is part of the pleasure of it. Nonetheless it makes everybody pay attention, simply because they don't know when their turn will come.

Passover Foods

Permitted Foods

Fruits and those vegetables normally permitted for Passover use are also permitted in their frozen state. The following foods are permitted and require no Kosher L'Pesach label: natural coffee, sugar, tea, salt, pepper and vegetables with the exception of peas and beans. String beans are permitted. An even stricter interpretation requires that these foods must be in unopened packages or containers until Pesach begins.

Forbidden Foods

Certain foods are forbidden for use on Passover. They are bread, biscuits, crackers, cereals, wheat, barley, oats, rice, peas and beans, ice cream, syrups and certain candies, the last three because they may contain corn syrup. Foods which require a reliable Kosher for Passover label are candies, milk, butter, cheese, soda water and soft drinks. Some even prohibit the eating of all canned or processed foods because, indirectly, these foods have come in contact with leaven or with utensils that have been used for leaven.

Dishes & Utensils

Only dishes and utensils specially reserved for Passover should be used, with the following exceptions:

Silverware, knives, forks and spoons made wholly of metal, if used during the year, may be used on Passover if thoroughly scoured and immersed in boiling water. All table glassware is permitted after thorough scouring. Fine translucent chinaware, if not previously used for a year, is permitted.

Metal pots and pans used for cooking purposes only, but not for baking, may be used on Passover if made wholly of metal and if first thoroughly scoured and immersed in boiling water.

Remember, the rules in the above section are according to the strictest interpretation of the law. Choose what is going to be meaningful to you.

Social Action

Sallyjo Levine

Committee Chair

Thank you Temple Shir Shalom members for making the recent Tikkun Olam-a-thon such a success. We know we can count on you to come out on Dr. Martin Luther King Sunday. You always sign up and show up and we, as a congregation, make the world a little better place. This year..... again, you signed up and showed up and we let it be known that a quarantine would not stop us.

We made baby blankets for the NICU at Henry Ford Hospital, donated over a hundred sweet-filled containers to essential health care workers. We did not forget our animal friends and dog toys and mats were made and sent to the Detroit Dog Rescue. SSTY made blankets for children at Coleman A. Young Elementary School in Detroit. Lighthouse of Oakland County and Heart 2 Hart Detroit both received packages with socks and toiletries to give to those who needed them. Hazon received 100 jars of soup, ready to go to shelters or soup kitchens. Yad Ezra had people who delivered to regular clients. Jewish Senior Life received centerpieces for their various dining rooms. THANK YOU!!!!

Brotherhood News

Gordon Krainen

Secretary

Dear Temple Family,

The Brotherhood has been the sponsor of planting trees in our Temple for over 20 years.

We use the money raised to support welfare groups in this area as well as Temple members that may need help. During the pandemic, we have given generous donations to Yad Ezra, Jewish Family Services, as well as our Rabbis' discretionary fund. By selling the trees we have been a great supporter of Israel and the Jewish National Fund as well as Temple Shir Shalom.

This year we want to honor the memory of one of our special Brotherhood members, Terry Alpert. He was a fervent supporter of this cause and was at the heart of our tree program along with Art Fishman. We invite all Temple members to purchase trees now and often during the year to make this a successful program. It is a very positive thing to do, so let's keep it going!

You may purchase your trees online: www.shirshalom.org/form/brotherhood-trees.

Respectfully, The Temple Shir Shalom Brotherhood

Have you ever wondered, “Who are these very thoughtful people and why are their names listed in the Scribe?”

In every issue of the Scribe, we recognize individuals who go above and beyond their dues commitment for our Temple’s fiscal year. We appreciate their commitment and generosity. We often get questions about the different categories, so we thought we would take a moment to describe what each one specifically means.

First, it is necessary to know that dues rates vary. At different life stages and situations, we ask different commitments from our members. That being said, we never want finances to be an obstacle to membership and we are always willing to discuss individual circumstances privately.

TZEDAKAH CIRCLE

Tzedakah Circle participants are those who give an additional $500 on top of their specific dues rate, regardless of which rate that is.

VATIKIM

Vatik means “enduring, trusty, or strong”. Vatikim is also sometimes interpreted as “the most spiritually advanced”. This level of participation is for our congregants who are at the senior dues base rate and have chosen to also give above that amount.

CHAI

Chai participants have a dues rate of $3,445.

DOUBLE CHAI

Double Chai participants have a dues rate of $4,345.

TRIPLE CHAI

Triple Chai participants have a dues rate of $6,045+.

Each of these special dues designations helps cover Temple’s operating costs and gives us the ability to help families who need financial assistance. If you are interested in adding your name to one of these groups, please contact Ruth Holcomb at (248) 626-5700.

In addition, there are other ways to give to Temple that you may not be familiar with. Please take a look at the Planned Giving page on our website: www.shirshalom.org/plannedgiving for more information.

Contact Brian Fishman to discuss next steps at (248) 737-8700 or brian@shirshalom.org. Thank you!

A loss within our community is a loss no matter where it occurs, and we wish to extend our support and sympathy during this difficult time. Many of our members have asked to be informed about a death in our congregational family in a more timely fashion than the bimonthly publication in our Scribe.

Here are three ways to sign up for e-mail notifications of Shir Shalom families' funerals sent directly to your inbox:

1. E-mail scribe@shirshalom.org with "Subscribe Death Notice" in the subject line
2. To receive current notification of member family deaths, please visit your membership subscriptions (www.shirshalom.org/member/subscriptions) and select "Obituary Notices."

What's On My Mind...

Mid-winter is a sure sign that springtime is right around the corner. Certainly metaphorically, it has been a long and bleak winter this past year, with the physical/social/emotional/economic havoc wreaked by our invisible enemy. For those of us still in quarantine, it's felt like one eternal hibernation.

And yet, notwithstanding Punxsutawney Phil's prediction, springtime will be here soon. Depending on how quickly the Scribe is delivered and the meteorological vagaries of the jet stream, it may be here already by the time you read this. But even more important than literal springtime, our figurative springtime surely is at hand. Big Pharma, Big Science, Big Healthcare: humanity's medical-industrial complex has proven a worthy successor to its Jenner/Salk/Sabin ancestors, valiantly immunizing the globe one injection at a time.

Keith Lublin
President

Together with a tremendous new federal aid package directly assisting both individuals and businesses, and our governor's plan to reopen our beloved restaurants, high school sports, and other indoor activities, I'm feeling ever more optimistic about our future.

Sure, even post-Covid, the huge challenges we face would list far longer than this page. As always. But life is so much more productive if we face them not with the weight of their burden, but with the determination to improve, to overcome, to fix the world and make it a better place for those who follow after us.

So as we patiently wait for our turn to receive a shot and emerge from hibernation, let's get to work with our friends, neighbors and Temple community, building those communal bridges that will carry us all forward into our bright future.
