Rabbi's Message

Cultivating Attention - The Reconstructionist Enterprise

Jewish blessings are dear to me but sometimes I find myself saying the blessings out of habit, often forgetting the practice of truly pausing to reflect on the miraculousness of the small details: how amazing it is that we can have bread that nourishes us from the soil, appreciating the complexity of our bodies, or how we can connect to the Shabbat candle lighting as our ancestors thousands of years ago did as well.

That is why I particularly appreciate creative and contemporary liturgy that connect us to our ancient structures while at the same time opens us to new possibilities. For example, Marcia Falk in The Book of Blessings re-writes the Shabbat candle lighting prayer as "yitromem libeinu, tshovav nafsheinu lehadlakat neyr shel shabbat" - "May our hearts be lifted, our spirits refreshed, as we light the Sabbath candles."

While there is much to explore theologically with these re-written forms (and perhaps to try out), what I appreciate is that the re-writing of this blessing taps into Jewish creativity and unleashes a certain vitality; the act of reconstructing the blessing connects us to our ancient practice of marking sacred time while reframing it with new words, thereby challenging us to pause and reflect more deeply on the meaning of the ritual.

One could argue that our ancient rabbis were also seeking to do something similar when they developed our ancient formula for blessing, "Barukh ata adonai eloheinu melekh ha'olam," loosely translated as "blessed are you Adonai our God sovereign of worlds. Before engaging in an action, the rabbis, through this blessing formula, invite us first to pause and name the Divine mystery that connects us - adonai/Source of Life - and then to acknowledge that we live in a universe where forces greater than ourselves are at work - eloheinu melekh ha'olam. They are inviting us into a moment of compressed attention where we connect to the mysterious and timeless that surrounds us.

I believe that all of us on an individual level have the capacity to draw from our tradition and re-create our rituals in ways that allow us to cultivate moments of thoughtful attention to the world and the passage of time in our lives. And, as a Reconstructionist movement we also continue that enterprise - writ large - today.

What I appreciate about our Reconstructionist endeavor is the power of a large community to bring creatively bring forth new content within ancient forms that deepens meaning in our lives. When I was looking at the list of workshops at the upcoming November Reconstructing Convention I was struck by how many seem to take on issues of concern today - racism, refugee rights, the complexity of Jewish identity, technology - while connecting them to our ancient wisdom architecture that may allow us to approach them with sacred eyes. I hope that many of us will be able to take advantage of and draw vitality from this gathering. And I hope that the Convention will help us continue to creatively engage with our tradition as a means to "develop the discipline to taste each moment" and become forces of transformation in the greater world.

Rabbi's Note

Strangers Becoming Neighbors: 3rd Annual FUSE 4Ever Grateful Talent Show

If you have not yet had the opportunity to attend a FUSE gathering - Fellowship for Urban Suburban Engagement - you will not want to miss Sunday November 11th at 3pm, when the different communities that make up FUSE gather to share talent, refreshments and community. FUSE events bring us together to broaden and deepen our interfaith relationships across the area. It is an opportunity to engage with our sisters and brothers in Chester and Marcus Hook as well as our suburban neighbors. This is an inter-generational event so bring your youngsters as well as your neighbors from all backgrounds. BI's BIMAS and Chorus have performed at this event in the past and BI talent will be a part of this November 11th celebration. The location for this event is in the midst of shifting so please look for emails or check our website to find out the location. But if you can possibly attend, please do. This is a time to celebrate but also to reach out across our religious and/or socioeconomic differences. This is a joyful way of engaging in tikkun olam (repairing the world), through celebrating and seeing the image of God in one another. Please be on the lookout for other FUSE events as the year unfolds.

SATURDAY MORNING DAVENNING (SERVICES) ON NOVEMBER 17 AT THE RECONSTRUCTING JUDAISM CONVENTION!

Just a reminder that the Beth Israel Community is invited to join hundreds of other Reconstructionists for a spirited Shabbat morning services at the Reconstructing Judaism Convention! There will be multiple Shabbat service options beginning at 9:30am including: Traditional Reconstructionist, Musical, Soulful/Mindful/Musical, Experiential, and Non-Davenning. The morning services will then be followed by a large communal Torah service at 10:45am. The Convention is taking place at the Doubletree by Hilton Hotel, 237 S Broad St, Philadelphia, PA, United States. Since parking may be challenging public transportation or carpooling is encouraged! The hotel is a 12 minute walk from Suburban Station or a 2 minute walk from the Walnut-Locus trolley line. If you are interested in being part of a carpool please email Diane Longenecker at diane_longenecker@bethisraelmedia.org and let her know if (a) you are able to drive or (b) you are interested in being part of a carpool. Hope to see you there! There is no fee for this part of Convention. Services will not be offered at BI this weekend.

A big thank you to Reformation Lutheran Church of Media for helping us park cars so that our crew could be at Kol Nidre. Shown here, Rabbi Linda and Deacon Beth Barkau and Deacon Beth and other parking volunteers from BI and from RLC. Rabbi Linda asked for help at the Interfaith Council of Southern Delaware County and their Reformation Lutheran Church of Media stepped up. What a lovely act of friendship!

R. Nathan with his fellow panelists at Maris Grove. The topic was "What We Have In Common – Ways We Can Approach Peace as Children of God" and included Jewish, Protestant, Catholic, and Muslim perspectives.

How to Reach our Rabbis

By phone: (610) 566-4645, choose option 1 if Diane does not answer. A voice message left for either Rabbi will reach them quickly.

By e-mail: Rabbi Linda: ravltp@bethisraelmedia.org Rabbi Nathan: rabbinathan@bethisraelmedia.org

Not sure who's 'on' this weekend? Check the calendar, easily available at bethisraelmedia.org and on the penultimate page of this Israelight. Also, each rabbi's e-mail account responds with a message indicating which rabbi is 'on.'

In cases of a real emergency...
Senior Rabbi Linda's and Associate Rabbi Nathan's home phone numbers can be found in the Member's Area of our website under How to Reach Our Rabbis and in our Directory.

The Rabbinic Liaison Committee exists in most Reconstructionist communities to ensure the maintenance of a good working relationship between the rabbis and the congregation. While congregants are always welcome and encouraged to discuss questions or concerns directly with Rabbi Linda or Rabbi Nathan , they may at times feel more comfortable talking to the Rabbinic Liaison committee. Issues raised by congregants are discussed confidentially and, when appropriate, are shared with a Rabbi in a constructive manner. To discuss a question or concern with a lay member of the committee please feel free to contact: Julian Yates (jyates@udel.edu) Deb Erie (debjoerie@gmail.com), Emily Levine (emily@emilysquireslevine.com), or Linda Cohen (lhc@comcast.net).

President's Message:

Kol hakavod to the entire community. It was such a joy to be with you at the recent Yomiim Noraiim. May you all have received a "ketivah tovah." Heshvan is sometimes referred to as "Mar Cheshvan" because there are no holidays or festivals to celebrate. After the intensity of the High Holy Days, I usually breathe a sigh of relief. Still, we have something to celebrate: the Reconstructing Judaism CONVENTION! Here in Philadelphia. It is NOT too late to register at events.bizzabo.com/reconconvention2018/home
Hope to see you there. Now we can look forward to Chanukah!

At the request of the editor… The following is from the President's Yom Kippur speech…

SBNR. You've heard of it? It even has its own hashtag. "Spiritual but not religious." There are people who say that's why they don't belong to a religious community like ours; "I'm spiritual but not religious." But what is spirituality? What is religion? Why do people think we can't have both? We can have both at the same time. We DO have both, here, at Congregation Beth Israel of Media.

I get it that "spirituality" is not necessarily the same as religion. Do an Internet search for "spirituality vs. religion" and you get the five, six, seven or even ten differences between the two. Still, "spirituality", by itself, seems very lonely to me. Especially today, when united, concerted action is so important.

There's a Yiddish expression about a certain kind of spiritual person; "ah tzaddik in peltz: — "a righteous person in a fur coat." When it is winter and it's freezing cold, there are two things you can do. You can wrap yourself in a fur coat or you can build a fire. In both cases, you're warm. But when you build a fire, those who gather round are also warmed and the whole group becomes warmer than the individual parts. With the fur coat, the only one who is warmed is the one who wears the coat. When you bring your spirituality into a religious community like ours, it's like lighting the fire for others, and yourself.
"Religion" had been defined as the structure, rituals, and beliefs that are created in response to and as an expression of spirituality. Religion provides continuity, accumulated wisdom, morals, and ethics. Religion, too, by its nature, involves the chance to find and socialize with peers. Spirituality, by itself, can be the "loneliest number"; religion can give you friends.
We have choices; we can be spiritual, only- a tzaddik in a fur coat-but at Congregation Beth Israel, we can be spiritual and religious and light fires to warm all of us and send the glow into the surrounding community.

I do understand religion and Beth Israel can look and sound 'odd' or intimidating to those who know little or no Hebrew. The forms may, at times, look daunting. But it's the substance we bring here which is critical. Spirituality can be wonderful and our rabbis and this congregation encourage, help and guide us as we explore our spirituality. And when there's trouble, who's the spiritual person, without a religious community, gonna turn to? Ghostbusters? I don't think so.

We don't resort to BI just when we're in trouble. We get married, have b'nai mitzvah, schmooze, watch movies, become educated, feed each other and the "stranger." We celebrate as a kahal (community). And we're going to do it again, even better, this year. In addition to everything else, there's a Reconstructing Judaism convention in Philadelphia in November and another Beth Israel retreat next June. Beth Israel community is so important to me and, I hope, to you. Long may we thrive.

We've long stated our mission as being "a vibrant community of individuals and families committed to celebrating our Judaism, nurturing our members, educating our children (and ourselves!) and repairing the world. We need you, physically and financially, but I maintain that you need us, too and we want to be here when you do. G'mar chatimah tovah.

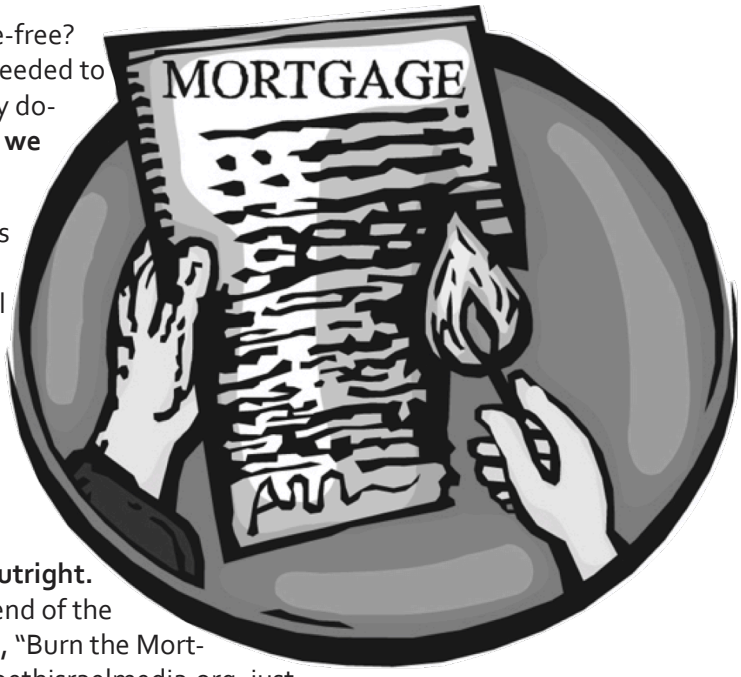
HELP BURN THE MORTGAGE THIS YEAR



Did you know that Beth Israel is really close to being mortgage-free? Last June we kicked off a campaign to raise the final $22,000 needed to pay off the synagogue's mortgage. For those who have already donated, thank you for your contributions totaling $13,850. Now we only need to raise another $8,150 to pay it off.

It's hard to believe, but Congregation Beth Israel has been in its current location for the past 21 years. In 1997, on a beautiful Sunday in September, Rabbi Linda and members of Beth Israel joyously paraded through the streets of Media and through Middletown Township carrying our Torahs to our new home where our community has thrived. We have held services, taught our children, studied Torah, celebrated and observed and honored special moments in the lives of our congregants, and most recently re-dedicated our Survivor Torah.

Let's burn the mortgage and own our synagogue building outright. With your help, we can raise the remaining $8,150 before the end of the year. Please send contributions to Beth Israel – be sure to note, "Burn the Mortgage!" if paying by check. You can also donate online at www.bethisraelmedia.org; just note "Burn The Mortgage" as the reason for your donation. Please contact Jennifer Lenway (jlenway10@gmail.com), or Joyce Romoff (joyceromoff@comcast.net) if want any additional information.

Hebrew School

The year has gotten off to a great start! We have lots of new, energetic and enthusiastic teachers and welcome Me'Ira Pitkapaasi (Mechina class), Orah Cohen (Alef-Bet class), Gabrielle Rubinstein (Gimmel-Dalet-Hay class), and Michael Thorner (Vav-Zayn class).

The first monthly Mechina session was brought to you by the letter Shin and also included learning about Rosh Hashanah and Sukkot and lots of playing and fun. The Alef-Bet class voted on their class name, "The Hebrew Heroes", made their own edible sukkahs (and then ate them!), and discussed tikkun-olam (repairing the world) and soup kitchens. In Gimmel-Dalet-Hay, the children created a Brit Kehilah (community agreement) for the classroom and talked about kindness, respect, and listening to one another. The Vav-Zayn class helped to harvest corn stalks for the Sukkah and discussed Ahnasat Orchim (Hospitality, or "bringing in guests"). All of the children had a wonderful time dancing and parading at the congregation's Simchat Torah celebration. Last, but not least, we are excited to offer congratulations to our principal, Adva Chattler, and her husband, Daniel, as they welcome their new baby girl, Ayala Julia Chattler. We will miss Adva while she is out on leave!

We are still looking for door greeters for Sundays when Hebrew School is in session. If you would like to volunteer, please sign up at: https://www.signupgenius.com/go/60b0d45afa72fa6f49-hebrew1

High Holy Days Big Thank You

We are so grateful to Rabbi Linda, Rabbi Nathan, and everyone who participated and helped in so many different ways (chanting, singing and sharing, reading, playing music and greeting, beautifying, mailing and parking). We are particularly grateful this year to our lay cantors (Laura Lee Blechner, Reisa Mukamal, Joyce Romoff, and Steve Smith), to Becca Beck and Nancy Blank for assistance with child care, and to those who stepped up to organize setup and cleanup (Carol Cowan, Shoshanna Gottlieb, and Kathy Trow). Thank you for being such a wonderful community.

Hebrew School & Adult Education

DOROT: Intergenerational Learning Comes to BI

The Hebrew School and the BI Adult Ed Committee are bringing a fresh approach to education for the congregation. We are bringing a previously overlooked resource to the table – our Hebrew School Students! One Sunday per month, the Hebrew school students and their parents and the rest of the adults of our community will engage together in educational activities. Each session will include a bit of learning together, separate time for the adults and school students to continue learning at their own appropriate level, and a moment to come back together to share insights.

Come be a part of this new learning paradigm as we tap into the wisdom and fresh perspective of our Hebrew School young people! A full schedule of topics and dates is forthcoming. Check the usual places.

November 4th, 2018 from 9:30am-Noon Families: Learning from our Ancestors

9:30 - 10:00 A breakfast nosh and singing
10:00 - 11:00 Intergenerational learning session: A new hands on look at our Biblical family tree
11:00 - 12:00 Two groups: Hebrew School students up to grade 5, Adults and Hebrew school students grades 6 and above.
Noon - ? More noshing and Dancing!
