President's Message

Instead of asking people why they don't join a temple we need to strongly emphasize why they should join a temple.

1. Community: The temple is so often the place where we discover people who share in the same interests and values.
2. Connection: While there is great joy in being part of a Jewish community, there is also great value in connecting with other people within a similar demographic. Temple Sinai offers Women of Sinai, Brotherhood and Chavurot. A beautiful aspect of being part of these groups is that your presence not only benefits you, but it also benefits the community as well.
3. Education: Educating our children is very important. Still, just as important is continuing our own education. Temple Sinai offers classes taught on a stimulating level, and challenge those who attend with new ideas and thoughts.
4. Spiritual Expression: While there is no one right way for creating an atmosphere conducive to spiritual expression, the sanctuary of the temple is most certainly a good place to consider. Within our sanctuary are found beautiful music, meaningful sermons and valuable readings.

Please join Ann Miller, our Membership Chair in getting our message out. Each of us can make a difference.

Thanks for your support,

Bob Glast, President

Passover

Unlike other Jewish holidays whose observance is centered around the synagogue, Passover is a festival celebrated at home. It begins with a spring cleaning of all leavened products and culminates with the seder. This is the time when Jewish families of all denominations and levels of observance gather together to celebrate a timeless tradition.

Education is central to the Passover experience. In fact, there are four references in the Torah requiring parents to teach their children about Judaism through the relating of the Exodus story. Out of these four verses arose the four questions asked by four very different kinds of children; the wise, the wicked, the simple, and the one who does not even know how to ask a question.

The wise child asks; “What are the testimonies, the statutes, and the laws which Adonai your God has commanded you? (Deuteronomy 6:20),

The wicked child asks; “What does this service mean to YOU?” (Exodus 12:26),

The simple child asks; “What is this?” (Exodus 13:14)

And for the child who does not know how to ask; “You shall tell your child on that saying: It is because of this that Adonai did for me when I went free from Egypt.” (Exodus 13:8)

These four questions were the result of centuries of debate and editing. In fact, there are several early texts of the Haggada only containing the question of the wicked child. During the turbulence of the second century when, under Roman oppression, many Jews moved away from Judaism and allied themselves with Rome. In this context, the “wicked child,” became a metaphor for those seeking to remove themselves from the Jewish community, albeit as a result of political oppression.

With all the distractions of our modern world, it is often difficult to remain rooted in our heritage. At some point of our lives, we each exhibit attributes of the four children. We can be intellectually curious and seek to learn about a spiritual life, as with the wise child; or experience feelings of rebellion, getting too caught up in our hectic lives to take pause and connect to our Judaism. Like the simple child, we may simply want to understand the basics, and all too often, strive to have the humility to realize we don’t know what we don’t know.

Passover is a time to take pause and for all generations to learn from each other about the essence of being a member of the Jewish people. Our children are our future. By relating the story of Exodus, we ensure the continuity of our people by encouraging them to question and further understand the true spiritual freedom of the Israelites’ journey to redemption.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

Leslie Pepper

Director of Education

On Saturday, March 23rd, the PTO had its wonderful Mocktails and Megillahs that was combined with the Megillah reading and Purim Spiel. The main event took place in the Sanctuary where Rabbi Bentley did a marvelous job chanting the Megillah, beautifully interspersed with Alan Scott's Purim spiel. Thank you Alan Scott, Matthew Paolatta, Amanda and Dorian Curtin, Esteban Agron and Coco Mazet for making Shushan come alive! The party then continued in the social hall, under the big top where we feasted on Kosher hot dogs, veggie sticks, and Tater Tots, fresh popped popcorn and cotton candy, and Alicia Paoletta's delicious homemade Hamentaschen. Thank you Lily Mazet, Clara Horne, Deb Trudeau, Cara Cohn, Whitney Rosam, Alan Scott and Joel Agron for making the room so festive! The next day, at the end of Sunday School our 4-6th graders put on their very own Dr. Seuss Purim spiel for the Sunday School, their parents and even a few grandparents! Thank you for all the hard work Ms. Ruthie and Ms. Marjorie put into bringing this spiel to fruition. All class levels made Hamentaschen and groggers to use at the play.

With Purim over, we are turning our attention now towards Passover and celebrating our journey from slavery to freedom!

Our Kitah Zayin, (B'nai Mitzvah students) in addition to their regular studies, wrote on "Everyday Holiness", which went along with their past mitzvah project of organizing a school food drive for disaster victims this year.

Coco Mazet: "Tzedakah, in my opinion, is helping someone, but not on camera or making a big scene out of it. It is our way to give back to the community...by being involved in our mitzvah project after the big hurricanes, we thought if we were more involved in the world, it is because we are the future."

Asher Stone: "Tzedakah is when you do something for someone and don't expect anything back. It is important to help repair the world because we not only live in it but need to right the wrongs of tragedy or misfortune. Being a Jew, it is very important to me to work together on mitzvot."

Jake Presser wrote that giving Tzedakah or donating items to those in need is a wonderful way to perform Mitzvot. Repairing the world is very important because if we don't take care of the Earth, it might one day not take care of us."

Rachel Sanford: "Giving Tzedakah is helping someone without making a big scene out of it. The best tzedakah is giving to people who don't know you and you don't know them, but it is just helping people. Just being kind and helping spread happiness is important to me. Every time we do mitzvot like recycling water bottles, and using recycled plastics we are helping the planet."

Out of our seventh graders' writings came some easy mitzvah projects anyone can do: Recycling to keep our world clean and not use up all our natural resources; growing plants to give the environment oxygen; rescuing pets and saving their lives; saying hello to random people, who may just need a friendly smile that moment; giving food and water to those in need; giving someone a ride if they need one. What kindness and wisdom our students possess!

WOMEN OF SINAI by Reesa Manning, President

We were so glad to greet those members who attended our Birthday Celebration on March 17. And we greatly appreciated their suggestions for programs for next year.

On Wednesday evening, April 3, we will have the final session of the Pirkei Imahot series of discussions. Those who have attended have found the subjects and the input by members to be both interesting and stimulating. Join us at 6:00 pm.

Tuesday, April 9 will feature our luncheon and program. Please note that we now begin at 11:00 am promptly, so please come to check in by 10:45 am. This month our speaker is Dr. Mark Sofonio who is a Board certified plastic surgeon at Eisenhower. He will share information on the latest filler injections and plastic surgery techniques. See the flyer on page 8 of this Shofar.

Our May meeting on the 14th will include installation of our Board for the 2019-2020 fiscal year. But to have an installation, we need nominees for the Board. If you are interested in serving on the WOS Board, please contact me and tell me what type of position you are interested in filling. We want your participation! Send me an email at 4reesa@gmail.com.

Wishing all of you an enjoyable Pesach.

From Ann Miller:

I'm happy to say we have 3 new Chavurah groups at Temple Sinai. Each group is deciding on a name for itself. So far, we have Chai Maintenance and the Dirty Dozen. Within these groups, some events have already been scheduled.

Whether it is a Shabbat dinner, a poolside Barbecue, a trip to a museum, or to see a play, a chavurah is a great way to have a friendship group and share communal experiences and life cycle events.

Whether you are new to Temple Sinai, or long term members please consider being a part of a chavurah. For more information call the Temple office and we will send out the new form for you to fill out, and we will do our best to place you with like minded Temple members.

Dr. Mark Sofonio Discusses Cosmetic Surgery Options

Tuesday, April 9, 11:00 am—12:30 pm at Temple Sinai

Women of Sinai invites members and guests to attend a luncheon, raffle and informative presentation by Dr. Mark Sofonio, board certified plastic surgeon. Dr. Sofonio has a special interest and extensive experience in performing aesthetic surgery. He specializes in all forms of body contouring and facial rejuvenation surgery including the latest techniques in injectable fillers, laser surgery and hair restoration.

Reservations and payment due by Friday, April 5 to Women of Sinai, 73251 Hovley Lane West, Palm Desert, CA 92260, 760-568-9699.

Cost: $25 for dues paying and honorary members of Women of Sinai, $30 for all others.

From the Melamedet, Arava Talve

Arava, along with Students Bella Mazet, Charlotte Trudeau, Ethan Eslamboly, Marti Lond, and Matthew Paoletta outside the D.C. offices of Congressman Raul Ruiz

I had the honor of accompanying five Sinai teens to Washington, DC for a conference in early March designed for Jewish high school students. Together with 400 teens from across the country, they gathered to hear each other's stories and to learn that they have a voice in creating change. I was so proud of their engagement and efforts as they worked to understand their position on issues facing current legislation and to create a position paper for lobbying our representative, Dr. Raul Ruiz, and one of our senators, Kamala Harris.

What follows is an article written by Marti Lond, a sophomore at Palm Desert High School, a valued member of our Madrichim program (student helpers) and one of the five teens who made the journey.

From Marti Long, who participated in the L'taken Social Justice Conference in Washington, D.C.

A few weeks ago, some of the teens here at Temple Sinai travelled to Washington, DC to participate in L'Taken. L'Taken is a program run by the Religious Action Center that brings together Jewish teens from all over the country and educates them about certain social issues and how they are seen through a Reform Jewish perspective. We went in order to learn more about Reform Judaism and to see different perspectives on issues such as criminal justice, reproductive rights, gun legislation, the division of church and state, the two-state solution to the Israeli - Palestinian conflict, and other important issues. As our weekend went along, we realized that we'd never experienced anything like this before, and we knew we were going to go home with much more knowledge than when we arrived.

Personally, my favorite parts of the trip were going to the Holocaust Museum and learning about the process of lobbying. I have always enjoyed learning about the Holocaust and what our ancestors had to endure, so I knew this was an amazing opportunity. While we were in the museum, we were able to explore the four beautiful floors filled with information about the Holocaust.

The images and videos on display were mesmerizing, and I know I could have spent many more hours soaking in the information and stories. Another activity which I personally enjoyed was learning how to effectively tell a story. As we were exploring the issues, we had to keep in mind that we would be lobbying our beliefs to the representatives of our state; so, we had to learn how to structure our speeches to succinctly state our positions. We were separated into groups where we went through the steps of writing an effective speech: making a strong introduction, viewing the issue through a Reform Jewish eye, making a personal connection, and finally concluding with an "ask statement."

Bella Mazet and Matthew Paoletta at the Martin Luther King Memorial

Before this, to be completely honest, I didn't know what an ask statement was. However, because we were advocating for a social issue, we had to include a specific ask, why we were advocating for this issue, and what it meant to us individually. I thought the lobbying program was valuable because I can incorporate those skills into my everyday life, while the Holocaust Museum was really interesting to learn about so we never forget.

After experiencing this program with teens from all over the country, there are many things I'll take away. Not only were the social issues we learned about interesting and opened up new perspectives in my mind, but we also made many new friends and our Jewish connection was the first step in these new friendships. Personally, I learned how to write a persuasive yet emotional argumentative appeal, present myself professionally, and explored more about my religion and the political views it entails.

The experience of L'Taken was an amazing one to say the least. As a Jewish teen living in the Coachella Valley, I'm part of a very small Jewish population, so being surrounded by many other Jewish teens my age was very exciting and enlightening. On behalf of the group of teens who ventured to DC, I would like to thank Temple Sinai, the Jewish Federation, Arava for chaperoning, and lastly our parents for making this trip possible. I know that we all greatly appreciated and learned from the different simulations and points of view which were expressed throughout the weekend. We are all very grateful for what we learned in Washington,

Administrator's Point of View By Toni Robinson

Passover is almost upon us, and we here in the office are hard at work creating a fitting celebration for all of you. This year, as we prepare for our 2nd Night Community Seder, we are adding a few Sephardic specialties to the usual Ashkenazic fare. If you are interested in helping us prepare these treats, please get in touch with me at 760-568-9699 ext. 204, or trobinson@templesinaipd.org for more specific information. I am told that this event fills up quickly and we do have limited seating, so make your reservation early. The reservation form is on page 22 of this Shofar. Please fill it out and return it to the temple.

The Desert Cities Bridge Club has been on site for 2 months, and they are growing quickly. We look forward to having them here for a long time. If you are a bridge player and would like to join this group, they would love to have you. Contact Scott Magged at 818-731-3282.

As the summer months approach, and some of you return to your "other" home please, remember how much we value your participation in our community and look forward to your return each year. This coming year, the High Holy Days do not begin until the end of September, so you might consider an "early" return to the desert, and observe our Days of Awe with us this year.

A reminder that our fiscal year begins July 1st, and you will be receiving a dues renewal reminder around that time. If you have not finished your dues commitment for this fiscal year, please attend to it before June 30th. Your financial support is what allows us to exist.

We have had a wonderful year thus far. The change of time for our Erev Shabbat service has increased attendance dramatically, and having Shabbat dinners after Zimra service once each month has been well received and quite successful. There were 2 wonderful concerts this year, David Syme (who will return next year) and a NYC Klezmer group. Our Religious School was active and well attended. We were able to take 5 of our teens to Washington DC for the RAC conference, and they came home and reported to the congregation at Shabbat services what the experience meant for them. Shabbat morning Torah study continues to be a lively discussion every week. During the week, our ongoing Adult Education series has stirred renewed enthusiasm for the Jewish roots of the students. These are just some of the highlights of what Temple Sinai has to offer as your spiritual home. Next year, we hope to offer even more diverse opportunities to learn and engage with one another.

We loved celebrating Purim. We started with learning songs with Mr. David, our music specialist. Then our Judaic Curriculum Specialist, Ms. Dina, came to help us make Hamantaschen and gather lemons. Our family activity day was so exciting. We all dressed in costumes and shook our groggers as we sang and paraded around our play yard. Our families joined us as we participated in several activities. We made beautiful baskets called Mishloach Minot. These are baskets that we give as gifts to those we love. They should always contain two different types of things. In our baskets, we put the fruit we picked and the Hamantaschen we made. We made groggers, had our faces painted and used great smelling play dough to make pretend Hamantaschen. We even had a photo opportunity, so we could capture the children with their families.

We want to thank the Jewish Federation for funding our music and Jewish Curriculum specialists. These amazing teachers are a great support in helping the children and families learn about Jewish culture and traditions.

Be sure to view and like us on our Tikvah Facebook page. You don't want to miss seeing the amazing things we are doing.
