

Strategy2025

Strategy2025 Update – November 2020

The Strategy2025 initiative continues to make progress in planning for the Temple's future.

This month, the Strategy2025 Steering Committee met with members of the Temple's committees to discuss a wide range of issues. Topics discussed included:

- Awareness within the Temple community of the work that committees do;
- Communication among committees and between committees and the Leadership Council and Rabbi Feingold; and
- Anticipated challenges and growth opportunities for committees in the coming years.

The conversation was fruitful and showcased the incredible work that Temple members do to make our community strong and vibrant. In addition, the conversation underscored the need to strengthen the culture of volunteerism at the Temple and for documentation of accumulated knowledge so that the next generation of Temple leaders can build on the success of the past. Another common thread touched upon during the conversation was the role that technology can play in giving members better access to all of the benefits of the Beth Hillel community. In particular, the conversation highlighted untapped potential for the Temple's website to serve as a clearinghouse for committee work that can enable collaboration among committees. In the coming months, the Steering Committee will continue gathering information from committee members to identify areas of focus for long-term planning. The Steering Committee also will begin brainstorming concrete ways improve committee communication, streamline committee structure, and create synergies between committees. More details about these topics and others to follow as the Strategy2025 initiative advances.

Strategy2025 Steering Committee: Jonathan Backer, Sandi Fugate, Robin Kreines, Esther Letven, Jim Lustig