I am assuming that the war in Ukraine is still going on as this is being read. As I write this note the war has become a little bit more meaningful to me on a personal level. No, I have not been personally affected; I know no one personally who has been hurt. Yes, we as a congregation have been helping the agencies who have been trying to get our Jewish brothers and sisters out. Yes, we have taken into our school a little girl whose family, mother and siblings, have left. Yes, sadly, dad has had to stay behind to fight for his home and homeland. It has become a little more personal because of family history.

My cousin called me the other day and told me that the town that some of my grandparents came from, or at least lived in, before they began the journey to Canada and then the U.S. had been bombed. Bombed may be an understatement. What if they had not made that journey? Would they have been killed in WWII? Would I be fighting Russian forces today? Would my kids?

The war has also shown me how important the State of Israel is for Jews. Yes, I may not agree with all of the policies of the Israeli government; yes, I may see many flaws and failures in Israeli society i.e. the huge economic gap between the haves and the have nots or the animosity between the religious streams. But there is no doubt in my mind that at a time like this, having a place where Jews can get shelter, where Jews can immigrate and be saved without worrying about quotas, income, educational background or any other criteria is paramount. The Law of Return states that anyone who has at least one Jewish grandparent (taken from the Nazi era) or who has converted to Judaism (from whatever religious stream) can come home to the Jewish state. Had such a state existed back in the thirties who knows how many lives would have been saved?

Mark Cherendoff recently wrote: Eighty years ago, as Jews tried to flee the war raging in Europe, they had nobody to turn to and nowhere to go. Even if they could escape, almost no place in the world would accept them. The existence of the State of Israel guarantees there will be no repetition of that tragedy.

At this writing, as war rages in Ukraine, Jews are once again on the run, trying to flee another evil tyrant. But today they are greeted by volunteers holding signs under a giant Israeli flag, directing them to food and shelter. And for those who wish, there is also a flight to Israel, where a new life and new hope awaits them. Zionism is not about a "safe space" for Jews. Zionism is about creating a real home for Jews — the kind of home Robert Frost had in mind when he wrote, "when you have to go there, they have to take you in."

Mr. Cherendoff goes on to say about the State of Israel and his feelings about it even as it struggles to be a light to the nations and one that struggles to embody Jewish ideals: I'm going to celebrate Israel's achievements and ache in its suffering. I'm going to take pride in Israeli Olympians competing in sports I otherwise don't care about. I'm going to sing secular Israeli songs that quote the Psalms and watch excellent (and not-so-excellent) television shows produced in Israel. I'm going to dedicate my energy to the success of this grand national project of the Jewish people and do everything I can to ensure that our children do the same.

Rabbi's Writings

Rabbi Frank DeWoskin

Many who know me know that I love old school folk music. I am always up to join a Hootin Annie, a gathering of people to sing folk music. Folk music is a genre of music usually passed down in oral traditions from various cultures, regions and societies throughout the world.

At Hootin' Annies, when we got together to play our instruments and sing, we often sung songs about fighting for freedoms and rights for everyone. I recall singing one folk song in particular at camp, growing up, around the campfire, on Friday nights.

I'm on my way to the freedom land.
I'm on my way, Great God, I'm on my way.
I'll ask my family, if they'll go with me.
If they say no, I'll go anyhow.
I'm on my way, Great God, I'm on my way.

Freedom and making our way to the freedom land, captures two themes that we find in Passover. It is a holiday about freedom from both physical and mental slavery. This theme, woven throughout our history, requires us to always remember that we were once slaves in Egypt and that we should be fighting for freedoms, for ourselves and others, today.

Rabbi Jonathan Sacks (z"l) once wrote, "The message of Passover remains as powerful as ever. Freedom is won not on the battlefield but in the classroom and the home. Teach your children the history of freedom if you want them never to lose it."

The v'ahavta is a prayer talking about teaching our children. This means our values and how to live them out in everything that we do. All the more so, with all taking place in the world, we must teach the importance of freedom.

May your Passover be filled with learning, discussion and blessings.

Cantorial Notes

Cantor Jan Sheer

The Passover story is chock full of excitement! Miracles galore, plagues, an uprising against a world power, the parting of the Sea, celebrations of freedom...

Here are some interesting and perhaps “not so well known” heroines who helped save our leader Moses’ life along his way. Included are some interesting ways to include their memory and incredible examples of bravery in your Seder...

During the past few years it has become popular for many people to honor Miriam, sister of Moses, with the “Kos Miriam” (Miriam’s cup). It was Miriam who watched over her baby brother Moses after their mother put him in a basket in the Nile to avoid his certain death as a Hebrew baby boy. Later, after the crossing of the Sea into freedom, it was Miriam and the women who led the celebrations in song and dance throughout the night.

- Your family could start a tradition of playing the most joyful music you can find and dancing around the table while singing and playing instruments, after drinking from “Kos Miriam”, of course.

Two very brave Jewish women who don’t get remembered as much are Shifra and Puah, the two brave Hebrew midwives who had the incredible courage to disobey Pharaoh and refuse to kill Jewish baby boys they had delivered, as Pharaoh had decreed.

- One way to honor them at your Seder table is to place a picture of someone in your family, or perhaps from history, who demonstrated bravery amidst oppression, and tell their story as well as the story of these two brave women who were willing to sacrifice their own lives for others.

Yocheved, mother of Moses, saved his life by hiding him as a baby for three months. Then, when she feared he was getting too old to hide, she placed him in a basket in the Nile, hoping someone kind would find him and allow him to live. Pharaoh’s daughter ended up doing exactly that.

- You can honor Yocheved during your Seder by sharing stories of things your mothers did for you as you were growing up.

Then there was Pharaoh’s daughter, who found baby Moses floating down the Nile in the basket, surmised that he was Hebrew, and yet still adopted him and raised him in the palace of the Pharaoh.

- You can place, on the table, either a pacifier, a small basket, or any baby accessory to symbolize this brave act of saving Moses’ life once again.

May your Seders be meaningful and joyful celebrations of freedom!

Happy Pesach!

Love,

Cantor Jan

Let's Get Moving In Kindergarten

Beth Emet School students learn a vast number of subjects. Language Arts, Math, Science, Social Studies, STEM, Reading, Writing, Hebrew, Art, Music, Agronomy, Israeli Dance, P.E., and Chess are all part of our fun and educational weekly curriculum. We are busy bees learning all day, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. It is important to keep our students engaged and having fun during every lesson. As teachers, attending professional development conferences, reading articles, and learning from experience, has provided us the best way to keep our students interested and focused. We can't expect our students (especially kindergarteners) to sit down at a table all day and enjoy learning. We understand that movement is essential. Not only does it provide health benefits, such as exercise and fine motor skills, but it is also a powerful teaching tool for the brain. Research has shown time and again that children need opportunities to move in class. Memory and movement are linked, and the body is a tool of learning, not a roadblock to or a detour away from it. By incorporating movement-based activities into our daily lessons, we are allowing our students to absorb new information and ideas, like the human sponges that they are!

What exactly is movement-based learning? Movement-based learning is any activity that involves movement. Lessons can vary from simple movement, such as clapping your hands for the number of syllables in a word to harder movement, such as learning an entire math lesson from a dance. In kindergarten, more movement = more fun and learning! There are an infinite amount of learning activities that can be incorporated into the classroom. We play sight word games, such as Sight Word Swat. In this activity, each student receives a fly swatter and sight words are placed on the floor. When the teacher calls out a word, our students have to move all around the room to try and find the word. When the word is found, that student has to swat it with their swatter. They then have to pick it up, spell it, and repeat the word. We are so fortunate to live in South Florida where the weather is beautiful year-round. Often, we take our learning outside. In Math, we draw number lines on the sidewalk when practicing addition, subtraction, and skip counting. Our students take turns solving different equations and hopping to various numbers, while learning and having fun!

Movement in our school is not limited to just Language Arts and Math. In Hebrew class, we create Hebrew letters with our bodies. In Science, we go on nature walks and conduct many different experiments. In Agronomy we plant, water, and take care of our garden. We also have P.E. and Israeli Dance where they are moving during the entire duration of class. All day long we provide engaging lessons to our students that allow them to have fun and learn at the same time.

Making Learning Visible

On Thursday February 24, the teachers from our Beth Emet Early Childhood Center came together to show families how young children learn in our Reggio Emilia-inspired school. Each classroom created a table outside of their room that showed amazing documentation, work samples and photos of children learning through play. The effort they put into their displays was tremendous. They work so hard each day to create a developmentally-appropriate learning environment for all of our students. We showed highlights of our learning experiences.

Some of our documentation highlighted how early childhood students thrive with sensory exploration. When our school celebrates the Jewish holidays, we know building on their sensory exploration adds to the joy of learning. As we explored Tu B'Shevat, the classes were able to touch, scoop, and feel soil. Tu B'Shevat is the birthday of the trees...what better way to bring them closer to this holiday, than to feel the soil from which our trees grow? When we explored the farm, books came out and then came the oats - from literacy, to creative play, then back to sensory we headed! We scooped and poured and perhaps a few oats landed on the floor! When we make playdough with our students we often ask, "What will happen if we add a little more flour or water?" We experiment with different amounts. Some days it is slimy and somedays it is doughier; we notice which textures we like to touch and we notice which textures we could fold more. We notice the impact of measurements. When we see what the students love we know a new sensory experience will arise.

We showed photos that showcased how we build a love of learning with our loose parts exploration. As children explore with loose parts we see curiosity, capability, inquiry, growth motor strengthening, pre-writing skills, compassion and so much joy! In our open-ended class environment their opportunity to manipulate and move materials allows them to problem solve, and think critically. We see that they are learning everything we want them to learn organically. They are independently guiding their learning.

We see our students as competent and capable individuals, key components of the Reggio Emilia philosophy. As we create a garden because they asked, as we design a ballet opera house with magna tiles because they showed an interest, and as we build, design and manipulate boxes because they are interested, we know we are on a path that allows for amazing learning opportunities to happen each and every day! We listen, we observe, we reflect, we collaborate, and then we plan the best learning possible!

Thank you Beth Emet ECC staff members for supporting an environment that lifts children up and celebrates critical thinking and problem solving.

Did you smell the Hamantaschen baking in your neighborhood?

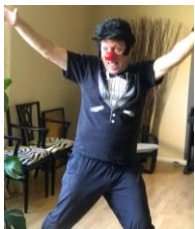

Boooo for Haman, but YAY for homemade Hamantaschen!

Our highlight of Purim this year was the smell of Hamantaschen radiating throughout our neighborhood and across the ocean to Israel!

Jennifer and I were thrilled to host, both in person and virtually, our second annual Hamantaschen Bake! It was such an amazing opportunity for us to be able to connect our Merkaz Limud (Hebrew School) classes & families, our surrounding community – and best of all, our friends and Partners 2Gether in Nesher, Israel!

We were elated to have more than 45 screens on Zoom, 20 tables full of eager students on-site, with over 200 participants altogether!

Once everyone was settled in and ready to start, I explained step-by-step, the process of making the dough and how to form the shape of Haman's hat. It was very helpful to have the technology that we invested in last school year that made our experience such a success, including the big 65-inch TV screen and professional camera that allowed us to zoom into and focus on the steps of what I was teaching. Einat Winter, our Partnership 2Gether liaison, helped to manage the chat for any questions or comments posted. It was so much fun to teach a cooking experience, as cooking and baking are both passions of mine. We enjoyed seeing everyone in their homes and in the classrooms participating and having fun.

Once the Hamantaschen were bursting with yummy fillings like chocolate spread, dulce de leche, raspberry, strawberry, and apricot, and formed into their unique triangle shape, participants were let in on the secret twist that keeps the Hamantaschen from opening up while in the oven. If you would like to hear that special secret, I guess you need to join us in the fun next year! As the delicious smells of Hamantaschen were wafting through the air here and in Israel, we were joined by a very special Gamemaster – Mr. Silvio! Mr. Silvio impressed us with his ability to include every participant, from children to adults, in English and in Hebrew, in fun games and humor that entertained all of us! He got us moving and grooving while we all anxiously waited for our oven timers to beep! The smiles on everyone's faces were priceless.

Chag Sameach!

Camp

ECC Camp (3 Mo – 4 Yrs) and Day Camp (K- 5th Grade)

It is hard to believe that camp will be starting in only two months! Over the past several weeks we have been planning an amazing summer program for our Beth Emet Campers. Every summer we challenge ourselves to create a program that has structure and a variety of activities, while at the same time gives the campers time to build in the cabin, hang out with their friends, or just “chill.” Camp is an experience that strengthens one’s life journey. It is a process of risks and mistakes that are meaningful and reflective — not a series of grades, scores, and tests. It is not about the right or wrong answers, but the critical-thinking process that reveals patterns and alternatives. To this day, some of my strongest childhood memories are from my camp experience.

The adult staff gives campers the opportunity to learn, to step back and look at what they are doing, reflect on the task or problem, evaluate it, and consider alternative solutions - they are learning for life. Campers also have time in their day where they get to decide which activity they are going to engage in. We will be offering our fabulous Electives program that includes: animal care, cooking, sports, dance, art, and a counselor-in-training program, just to name a few. It is nice to get some say in what your day consists of!

Camp Beth Emet is a wonderful camp where children from our Early Childhood Center, our Elementary and Middle schools, our Religious School, and our community come together as one to create lasting memories, to explore new activities, and to enter a comfortable, supportive community that feels like “coming home.” We hope to see you at our camp this summer.

Beth Emet’s Camp experience with caring professionals encourages children’s emotional and social well-being – two critical and valued components of learning for life!

Teen Camp (6th – 10th Grade)

It’s hard to imagine that Teen Travel Camp is in the final planning stages for our 2022 summer. Every time I think we can’t top the previous summer, we do. This summer will be no different. Whether it’s day trips three days a week, exciting programs on campus, and a three-day trip to Camp Shalom in Ocala, the excitement is in the air.

Are you excited yet? To top it all off, you are spending the summer with Rayna and the most amazing staff!!! Are you ready for this?

Hope to see you at camp!!

My husband and I made the decision to leave a Life and Legacy Gift because Temple Beth Emet has been a critical part of our lives for over 35 years. Our children were named there, attended pre-school and religious school, had their Bat/Bar Mitzvahs and attended Confirmation. Our Rabbi later married our daughter who he had named as an infant. The temple has been "a second home for us." It provides spirituality, education and encourages philanthropy. My father-in-law was put into a concentration camp at age 13. He spent 4 years there and lost most of his family. It is imperative that we ensure the survival of our Jewish communities and remind future generations that they "must never forget these horrible atrocities." I served on the board at the temple and later became its president. I encourage everyone to give back, perform Mitzvot and to give a gift to the Life and Legacy campaign.

Samuel Ian Jerry will be called to the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah on Saturday morning, April 2, 2022. Sammy is currently a 7th grader at the Sagemont Upper School in Weston. When he's not in school, Sammy is usually on a soccer field - most often playing with his Davie Sharks travel soccer team. If it's not soccer then he's throwing a football or running a 5k as Sammy is someone that loves to be on the go.

Given his love of all things active, it was fitting that for his mitzvah project he chose to put together a team for the Kids In Distress (KIDS) Superhero 5k in January to help support children in foster care. Through Sammy's hard work and advocacy, he became one of KIDS top individual fundraisers for the race and had a team of almost 20 participating in the 5k on a very chilly Saturday morning.

While Sammy loves TBE and being with his family, his other favorite place is Camp Blue Star in North Carolina. Sammy began attending sleepaway camp fresh out of kindergarten and looks forward to going off to camp every summer to be with his camp friends. He even likes going to Shabbat services at the Elmore Solomon Chapel at Blue Star.

Sammy would like to thank all his teachers and counselors for the strong Jewish foundation they helped provide him since he began attending TBE in 2011. Thanks to the TBE ECC Challah fundraiser, which sent him home with a challah in his backpack every Friday as a preschooler, Sammy still insists that we have a challah in the house every Friday so we can light the candles and say the prayers. He also wants to thank Rabbi Greenspon, Rabbi DeWoskin, and Cantor Jan for all their help as they have watched him grow up over the years. While he is excited to have finally made it to his big day, he will miss his sessions with his tutor, Paula, who has been awesome through this process. Sammy invites everyone to join him in person or virtually on April 2!

Rachel Riestra

Rachel Riestra will be called to the Torah as a Bat Mitzvah on Saturday, April 2, 2022. Rachel began attending Mommy and Me classes at Temple Beth Emet as an infant and continued there through her Pre-K year as part of the Early Childhood Center. She spent her K-5th grade years at University School and is currently a 7th grader at our local middle school in Maryland. Rachel is a kind, compassionate, and positive individual. She enjoys playing tennis and soccer, cooking, baking, and spending time with family and friends. She has a vibrant personality and contagious laugh. Rachel has worked hard over the past year to reach this special milestone in her life!

For Rachel's Mitzvah project, she chose to spend time making Hanukkah gift bags for residents of the Charles E. Smith Ring House senior living facility. This is a Jewish assisted living facility that aims to honor older adults through quality care and meaningful life experiences rooted in Jewish values. This project was meaningful to Rachel because the Ring House has a Memory Care program that benefits those living with Alzheimer's disease or other dementia related disorders and Rachel has a grandfather who is currently living with Alzheimer's disease.

Rachel and our family would like to thank all those who have helped her reach this special achievement. We thank Rabbi Greenspon, Rabbi DeWoskin, and Cantor Jan for their dedication to our synagogue. An extra special thank you goes out to Debra Dayan for her guidance from afar via zoom in preparing Rachel for her big day. Our family is very proud of Rachel and can't wait to see their "Rachel ray of sunshine" stand before the congregation as she becomes a Bat Mitzvah!

B'nai Mitzvah continues on pages 16-17

Seth Greenblatt

Seth Greenblatt will be called to the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah on April 9, 2022. Seth began his education at Temple Beth Emet ECC and is now a 7th grader at Pioneer Middle School.

Seth is kind, caring, and loves animals - specially his cat Tinker. His favorite subject is Science. He really enjoys learning as much about it as possible. Seth is very creative and loves to read and play chess. His passion is music. He plays guitar, piano, violin, euphonium, and French horn. Seth also really enjoys writing both stories and music.

For Seth's mitzvah project he is helping to raise money to bring awareness of and abolish the newly passed "Parental Rights and Education Bill."

The Greenblatt Family would like to especially thank Debra Dayan for being so patient and preparing Seth for this special day. And of course, a big thank you to Rabbi Greenspon, Rabbi DeWoskin, and Cantor Jan for their kindness and support over the years. Mazel Tov Seth! We are so proud of you and we love you very much.

Chloe Barkey

Chloe Barkey will be called to the Torah as a Bat Mitzvah on Saturday, April 9, 2022. Chloe is a 7th grade Honor Roll student at Pioneer Middle School in Cooper City. Chloe loves science, cats, Harry Potter, cooking and vintage fashion. She is passionate about dance and has been part of Dance Theatre Company since she was nine years old.

For her mitzvah project, Chloe raised almost $2,000 for Orange Ribbons for Jaime through its virtual dance-a-thon. Orange Ribbons for Jaime was created by Jaime Guttenberg's parents in the aftermath of the MSD tragedy. Jaime was a competitive dancer at Dance Theatre. Chloe raised the second largest amount of money in the country and earned a $150.00 American Express Gift Card. Chloe then used the gift card to buy holiday wish list items for children in foster care through ChildNet. She intends to continue to fundraise through the annual dance-a-thon held each fall.

Chloe has been part of the Temple Beth Emet family since she was 15 months old, starting out at Camp Beth Emet and continuing through preschool. Her family has been affiliated with Temple Beth Emet for almost 35 years and would like to thank Rabbi Greenspon, Cantor Jan and Rabbi DeWoskin for their support. Thank you also to Chloe's Bat Mitzvah tutor, Paula Bergman, for her patience, love, thoughtfulness, and dedication throughout this process. We greatly appreciate you. We are incredibly proud of Chloe and are excited to celebrate this achievement with her. Congratulations!

Justin Rush

Justin Rush will be called to the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah on Friday, April 22, 2022. Justin began preschool at Temple Beth Emet when he was 2 years old and continued through Pre-K. He has attended Merkaz Limud since kindergarten and has also enjoyed many summers at TBE camp. Justin is a 7th grade straight A honor roll student at Indian Ridge Middle School. He is a peer counselor and on the school volleyball team.

Justin is a kind, warm, smart, loving, funny, and athletic person, who brings happiness to his family and friends. He loves playing sports, especially basketball, volleyball, and flag football. Justin has been playing competitive basketball since first grade and has won several championships with his team. He works hard and plays hard, putting his heart into every team he is on. Spending time with his family and friends, making Tik Toks, and ice skating at the local ice rink are some of his favorite things.

For Justin's mitzvah project, he participated in the Spirit Walk for the Animals presented by the VCA Animal Hospitals. Justin raised $1,000 to help the animals at the Humane Society of Broward County. Justin walked with his dog, Mallory, who is an adorable, 4-year-old French bulldog. Justin's love for animals influenced him to participate in this wonderful event and it has been a family tradition since our sweet Mallory became part of our family four years ago.

Justin and family would like to thank everyone who has helped him on his journey to his Bar Mitzvah including his preschool and religious teachers; as well as Rabbi Greenspon, Rabbi DeWoskin, and Cantor Jan. We would especially like to thank Paula Bergman for her support, guidance, and patience that helped Justin prepare for this amazing milestone. We are extremely proud of Justin's hard work and accomplishments and cannot wait to see what the future holds for our amazing son! Mazel Tov JUSTIN! WE LOVE YOU!!
