This past Rosh Hashanah I spoke about the relationship we have with ourselves, and how it can always be improved. Part of the focus of my sermon was on relationships, attitude and having perspective.

Have you ever done something and then questioned your actions? Perhaps you start to internalize what you did and try to figure out the why. Has that ever eaten at you, annoyed you or taken over your thinking? You may even become obsessive over it. We are a people who tend to obsess about the negative. After all, we have been complaining since biblical times.

You can choose to have a negative attitude or you can choose a positive one. You cannot control what happens to you, but you can control your attitude toward what happens to you.

Dr. Leo Buscaglia, an author, motivational speaker and university professor wrote, "There are two big forces at work, external and internal. We have very little control over external forces such as tornadoes, earthquakes, floods, disasters, illness and pain. What really matters is the internal force. How do I respond to those disasters? Over that I have complete control."

Along a similar way of thinking, we sometimes start to live in the world of "what if". Oy, what if I had done that differently? Oy, what if I treated myself differently? Oy, what if I had made a different decision? Sometimes we live with regret. At this point, living in the world of "what if" will only hinder us. Instead we need to live in the world of what now. What will I do now that those decisions were made? What will I do now that the accident happened and I am unable to change the past? What will I do now that I realize I do not love what I am doing with my life? What now?

As we build a personal relationship with our own self, there are intentional ways that we can strengthen it. One way is through self-compassion. Kristen Neff, a Ph.D., is an associate professor of Education Psychology at the University of Texas at Austin. She defines self-compassion as... "simply the process of turning compassion inward." Neff continues to express "research indicates that self-compassion is one of the most powerful sources of coping and resilience we have available to us, radically improving our mental and physical wellbeing. It motivates us to make changes and reach our goals not because we're inadequate, but because we care and want to be happy."

As a part of the process of improving the relationship with yourself, you need to ask yourself for forgiveness. By allowing self-compassion, you will be further down the road to a better self-connection.

No matter how we approach this relationship with our self, it requires hard work to improve and hard work to remain healthy.

Thinking and reflecting upon attitude and how we approach all of our relationships is important to do throughout the year, rather than waiting for the High Holidays. May you have a year filled with reflection and growth!

Rabbi Frank DeWoskin

Cantor's Notes

Cantor Jan Sheer

Sukkot... This is a season when we are called upon to remember how many blessings surround us in every single day and to give thanks in any and every way we can.

We are told in Psalm 96, among many others, what a joyful act it is to sing our praises and give thanks to God, but sometimes we need a little reminder.

The holiday of Sukkot is one such reminder, as we sit in our Sukkah, look up at the beauty of the stars, as we surround ourselves with the abundance of food and prayers and friends and family to share it all with. Yet, we all have those moments when life's challenges can make us temporarily forget how very blessed we are. In those challenging times, may you find reminders of the blessings in your life. The following words may help.

Be Thankful

Unknown

Be thankful that you don't already have everything you desire,
If you did, what would there be to look forward to?
Be thankful when you don't know something
For it gives you the opportunity to learn.
Be thankful for the difficult times.
During those times you grow.
Be thankful for your limitations
Because they give you opportunities for improvement.
Be thankful for each new challenge
Because it will build your strength and character.
Be thankful for your mistakes
They will teach you valuable lessons.
Be thankful when you're tired and weary
Because it means you've made a difference.
It is easy to be thankful for the good things.
A life of rich fulfillment comes to those who are also thankful for the setbacks.

May you find a way to walk in gratitude in every moment of life you are given. Happy Sukkot to all!

Love and Blessings,

Cantor Jan

President's Message

Mackie Feierstein

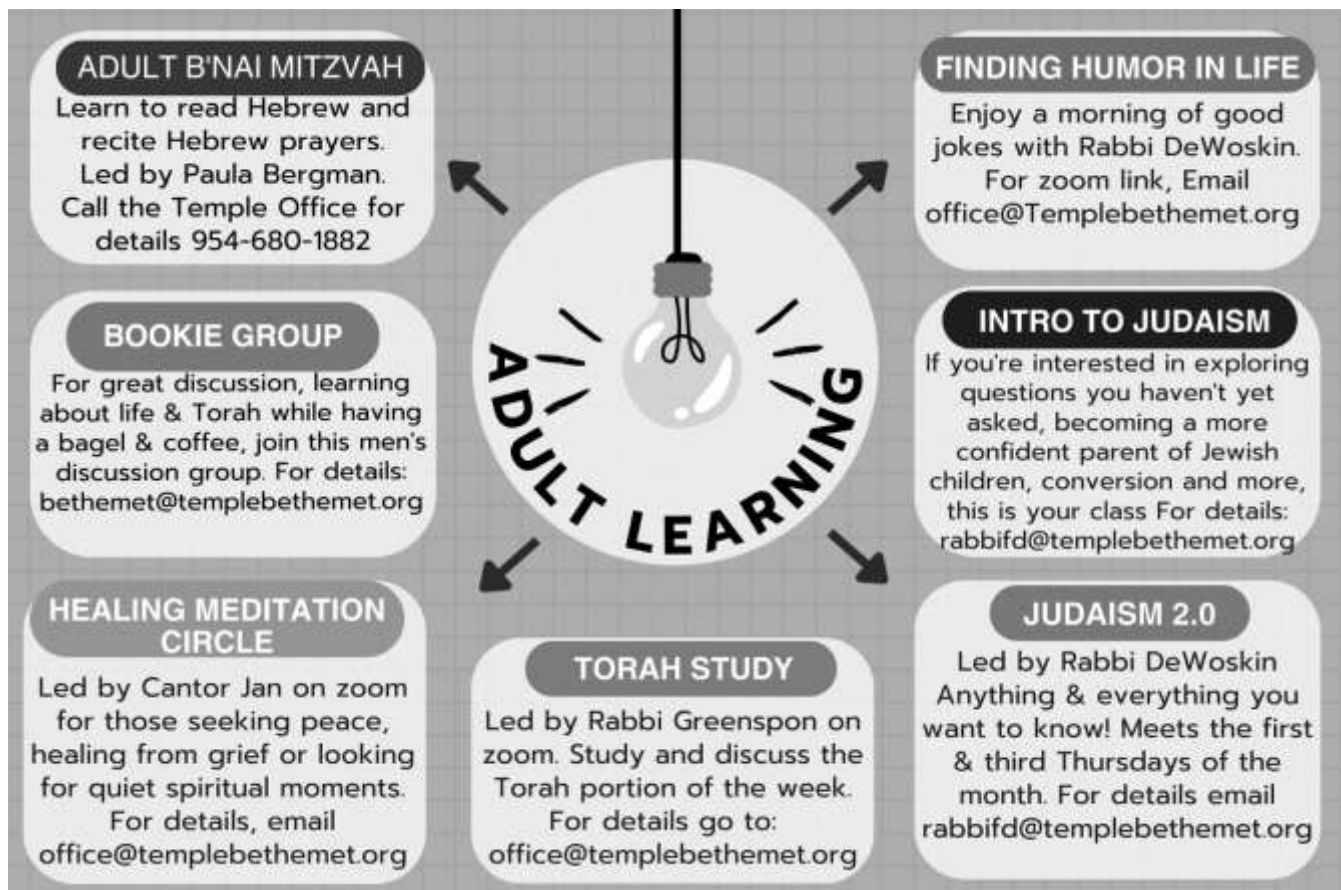

Shanah Tovah! I want to thank everyone who has made me feel welcome during my few months as President. This is an honor of a lifetime and not something that I take lightly.

I would be remiss to not personally thank Mark Glater for his service on our board and as our President for the past three years. Mazel Tov on his new role, the most coveted one in any temple...immediate past President! During the High Holidays, we are given a chance to ask for forgiveness, reflect on and repent for any sins over the past 365 days. The question I keep asking myself, is why only focus on that during these 10 days of awe? Imagine if we took this philosophy and applied it to our everyday life.

At TBE, we have the chance to make a significant IMPACT on our congregation and the entire South Florida Jewish community. The world continues to transform, and we MUST evolve to grow with these changes. I have spoken with a handful of our congregants, and we all agree on one thing: Temple Beth Emet has always been and will continue to be a special place.

As we celebrate Sukkot, remember that the Sukkah is a symbol for connecting, hospitality and interaction and it is invitation to visit us. We want to make TBE: THE PLACE YOU WANT TO BE!

Can you feel it? Can you smell it? Fall is just around the corner! And most important, the Jewish fall holidays are here!

Beth Emet School strives to provide excellence to our students so they develop a passion for learning, infused with Jewish values, commitment to the Jewish community and connection to the State of Israel. Our students learn, feel and practice every step of our Jewish Holidays.

As part of our Judaic studies, we look to develop a keen understanding of Jewish concepts, values and Mitzvot. In Jewish History the students learn about the major events and personalities that shaped the lives of our forebears. We explore the diverse ways in which the Jewish people have adapted and continue to adapt to changing times and circumstances. The goal of this program is to enrich the students' knowledge and appreciation of the Jewish inheritance and feel proud of our history, Jewish life and traditions.

Our K and 1st grade Hebrew Curriculum is based on the notion that the best learning environment for children is one in which knowledge is acquired through a variety of activities using each of the five senses. The program encompasses a wide range of activities through various modes of communication, integrating Hebrew language with the development of Jewish concepts, values, reading and writing skills. We create a visual and oral Hebrew environment in the classroom. The students learn through the use of books, pictures, songs, conversation, challenging games on the Clear Touch interactive board & digital media.

Our 2nd to 4th grade Hebrew program evolves around the books Shalom Ivrit 1-2-3. The Hebrew language is learned in contents relevant to the students' lives and cultural backgrounds. It is Modern Hebrew based on the most current understanding of language acquisition in children including the need to transfer and apply learning in new context and situations. The lessons revolve around the following themes: family, friendship, Mitzvot, traveling, food and music. Exposing our students to use multiple genres, stories, conversations, poems, songs, journals and bulletin boards, they will be able to think, write and communicate in Hebrew and to treat Hebrew as a living language.

Our 5th through Middle school students are using a Hebrew program that is interactive & independent, connecting the student to the modern Israeli culture. The revolutionary methodology for learning Hebrew is called Rapid Language Acquisition (RLA). RLA allows students to continue learning Hebrew rapidly, with emphasis on conversations, while making the ancient language of Hebrew come alive today in a fun and welcoming environment.

At Beth Emet School we feel fortunate to be able to teach students about their inheritance history and modern Hebrew language so that they may strive to safeguard and preserve their cultural, religious and civic rights.

What your children have taught me....and continue to teach me....

Today I watched a little girl walk over to a group of children that were playing together nicely. She took a chair from another little girl without asking. She sat in the chair with a super angry expression on her face. The other children looked at her. They seemed confused and as if they were trying to make sense of what was happening. Here they were playing so nicely, and this other student walks over and interrupts their play with her own agenda and feelings. The whole tone of the play changed. They started arguing over what they were playing and whose chair it was. And then....

Suddenly the child who had walked over and unkindly interrupted the play said to one of the other students, "I love your shirt!" The complimented girl smiled, said "thank you," and hugged her. After that they all went back to playing their happy game. How are children so forgiving? How do they let go of their anger so quickly and move back to genuine happiness so easily? Why were the other children so ready to accept a new player into their fold?

During the month of September, the children were introduced to the holy day of Yom Kippur. During this holy day we teach the children about reflection and kindness. We read stories that talk about how to say "I am sorry." Our school philosophy is to not force children to say "I am sorry," but to role model these words and to help them say these words on their own and from their heart, as opposed to repeating them because we insist they do so. Sometimes this practice is debated as many of us clearly remember being told "tell your brother/sister you are sorry," resulting in a grudgingly given mumble instead of something heartfelt. After observing this happening many times in our school, there is no doubt that being told to apologize does not carry the same weight as recognizing the need to do it on your own. Taking responsibility for one's actions is one of life's hardest skills. Even as adults we struggle to say "I'm sorry." Children from a very young age know what is expected of them. They don't add any defensive words or "qualify" their apology as adults often do. Their sorry is clean. Adults often will say, "I am sorry, but you...." This is not a clean sorry. Children, when they recognize the situation and begin to empathize, just say "sorry." At times, when they know they really "wronged" someone we will see them rub their friend's arm or belly repeatedly and say, "Sorry, sorry, sorry." It doesn't get any better than that!

During September and early October, the children also learned about the holidays of Rosh Hashanah, Sukkot and Simchat Torah. Four holidays in one month - the children and teachers have been so busy! For Rosh Hashanah we eat apples dipped in honey. For Yom Kippur we learn about the meaning of the words "I am sorry." For Sukkot we learn about the Sukkah and the different fruits we eat. On Simchat Torah we celebrate the stories of the Torah. What do we want the children to take away from learning about all of these holidays? We learn the value of tradition, some songs, and of course, always some special snacks to tie in with the holiday. Most importantly, we learn a holiday is happening and so we take time to dance, celebrate, and enjoy being together. In keeping with Jewish tradition, each holiday is a time for great learning to occur!

We wish all of our families a Sweet New Year, as is the Rosh Hashanah tradition! We wish you a year filled with the ability to let go of anger, the ability to forgive, and the ability to say a "clean" sorry like the children at Beth Emet. Shanah Tovah!

Shalom and welcome back to the new year of Merkaz Limud & Jewish Teen Leadership! There was so much positive energy that filled the Sanctuary on our first Sunday back together for the new year. We greeted many new faces this year, which is always a delight!

We are excited to share the themes that will be taught and applied through all the different subjects learned here within our educational institution: mishpacha - family, kehila - community and chaveroot - friendship. In our Jewish tradition, we hold these values close to our hearts. We understand that the foundation of a strong and vibrant community lies in the strength of our families. Our school is not just a place of learning; it is an extension of your homes, where we work together to instill the values that will shape the lives of our children.

Family is the cornerstone of our community. It is within the loving embrace of our families that our children learn the values of compassion, respect and responsibility. As parents, you play a vital role in nurturing these values, and we are here to partner with you every step of the way. Together, we can create an environment where our children feel loved, supported, and empowered to grow into confident individuals who contribute positively to society and understand their strong connection to the Jewish heritage.

However, our sense of community extends beyond the walls of our homes. It encompasses our school, our synagogue, and the wider Jewish community. We are blessed to be part of a rich heritage that values unity and collective responsibility. Our school serves as a hub for fostering connections, building relationships and strengthening the bonds that tie us together. Through various events, celebrations and initiatives, we aim to create a sense of belonging and shared purpose among our students, parents, and staff.

Friendship is a precious gift that we encourage our students to cherish. Within our school, we strive to create an inclusive and nurturing environment where friendships can flourish. We teach our children the importance of empathy, kindness and acceptance, so that they may forge meaningful connections with their peers. By fostering a culture of friendship, we aim to instill in our students the values of cooperation, teamwork and support, which will serve them well throughout their lives.

As we embark on this journey together, let us remember that our school is not just a place of education, but a community that thrives on the principles of family, community and friendship. Together, we can create an environment where our children can grow academically, spiritually and emotionally. Thank you for entrusting us with the education and well-being of your children. We look forward to working hand in hand with you to create a nurturing and enriching experience for each and every student.

May our families continue to flourish, our community thrive, and our friendships endure.

Ollie Schaub

Ollie Schaub will be called to the Torah as a bar mitzvah on Saturday, October 7, 2023. Ollie is a 7th grader at Pioneer Middle School in Cooper City where he excels in Mathematics and Art. Ollie has been one of the 7th grade students to be selected for the Advanced Art Program at Pioneer Middle School.

Ollie has elected to collect nonperishable food items for the less fortunate for his mitzvah project. Ollie is very compassionate and enjoys helping others. He hopes to collect tons of cans and nonperishables.

Ollie would like to thank his parents, brother Charlie, grandparents, Bubby, family, Rabbi Greenspon, Rabbi DeWoskin, Cantor Jan, and all the teachers at Temple Beth Emet for instilling and nurturing his Jewish faith. He would especially like to thank his tutor, Paula, for her guidance and support in preparing him for this important milestone.

YOUR LEGACY matters.

You have poured your heart and soul into Temple Beth Emet and made a difference. Your commitment stands as a testament to your values.

Now is the time to take the next step in making an enduring part of your Jewish legacy.

As you plan for the future, think about what your Jewish legacy means to you. Please consider Temple Beth Emet in your will or estate plan.

To learn more about how to create a Jewish legacy, please contact Laura Goodman at laura@templebethemet.org or 954-680-1882.

Don't miss out on this incredible event!

High Holiday Appeal 2023

Two men were sailing when their boat capsized. They swam to a nearby island for safety. After a day or so one of the men started crying. His friend asked him what was wrong. He replied, "We will never be rescued. We will be here forever." The other man replied, "Don't worry, it's Yom Kippur and my synagogue will hunt me down to ask me for my pledge."

Your temple, Beth Emet, will not be hunting you down, to ask for your pledge. Instead, we will ask you to be a generous philanthropic person.

We will ask you to contribute so that you enable a child, whose parents need aid, to attend camp or religious school. We will ask you to help sustain our membership to keep Judaism alive and flourishing within our families.

We will ask you to continue supporting our programs such as Mitzvah Day, Youth Group, Adult Education or the schools just as we will ask you to help us to do the mundane thing of helping us maintain the air conditioning in the sanctuary.

Beth Emet was founded by people who dreamed of creating compelling, meaningful ways for members to connect richly with Judaism and with each other. Today, those goals are still in the forefront of everything we do.

We do it through content: programs that engage our heads, hearts, spirit and even the funny bone.

We do it through connection: people coming together to be with each other, to be like that friendly next d'or (generation) neighbor.

We do it through credibility: Beth Emet is considered one of the nation's premier synagogues. Our rabbis and cantor are frequently recognized, and asked to help other congregations. Many of our temple's programs are copied by other institutions.

We do it through collaboration: we actively partner on projects with many Jewish agencies and non-Jewish organizations.

All of this is possible BECAUSE kind and generous people like you said "YES" I want these dreams to continue for generations to come.

How about saying yes to this year's High Holy Day appeal? Honor a loved one with a donation. Remember a loved one with a memorial gift. Sponsor a child's education or specify a particular program that you want to help support.
