THIS Sunday, April 29 • 3 pm

Please join us for a screening of this Oscar® - nominated short documentary. The film tells the inspiring local story of the initiative to launch an authentic French restaurant, EDWINS, with a group of ex-convicts. Through their Leadership & Restaurant Institute, formerly incarcerated adults have a chance to learn valuable skills in the hospitality industry which gives them a better chance at a brighter future. The Institute also includes a support system to assist in obtaining employment, legal services, medical care, job coaching, literacy programs and more.

The screening will include discussions before and afterwards, and a graduate of the Institute will be on hand to tell his story of incarceration and redemption. Open to all. Free.

The Invisible Bridge* by Julie Orringer
Monday, May 7 • 7 pm

This month's Men's Club book discussion follows the Levi brothers from Budapest as they are forced to leave their native country in the late 1930's. The story follows each one through his adventures and difficulties as Europe is torn apart by war and anti-Semitism. How far would you go to pursue your dreams? Would you risk never seeing your family again? Free. RSVP to Harvey Wasserman (hpwasserman@sbcglobal.net).

Marcus Leadership Guest Scholar Weekend with Rabbi Sid Schwarz Friday & Saturday, May 4 - 5

Rabbi Schwarz is a Senior Fellow at Hazon, an organization playing a leadership role in promoting Jewish inspiration and sustainable communities. He is founding rabbi of Adat Shalom Reconstructionist Congregation in Bethesda, MD where he continues to teach and lead services, and he directs the Clergy Leadership Incubator (CLI), which trains rabbis to be visionary spiritual leaders. He also created and directs Kenissa: Communities of Meaning Network which builds the capacity of emerging spiritual communities.

He founded and led PANIM: The Institute for Jewish Leadership and Values, received the prestigious Covenant Award for his pioneering work in the field of Jewish education and was named by Newsweek as one of the 50 most influential rabbis in North America.

This month, we will celebrate Shabbat and learn about Shavuot together! We will have special Shavuot-themed activities and a service for families. Stay for lunch at noon!

Groovy Shavuot Ice Cream Party
Friday, May 18 • 6:15 pm
On the playground (weather permitting)

Join friends for some pre-Shavuot fun! We will enjoy a Ben & Jerry's ice cream party, then make your own groovy tie dye kippah! For families with children from birth through 2nd grade; older siblings welcome. $10 per household provides ice cream for all! Snacks will be served as well. Stay for the Shabbat Rocks! service at 7 pm featuring our live band. Register and pay on the BJC website or contact Julie Sukert.

Shabbat Rocks!
Friday, May 18 • 7 pm

This season has been generously underwritten by
The Jan & Ron Moskowitz Family,
Phyllis & Sidney Reisman and Jocelyn & Peter Saltz.

Bring your families to this wonderful evening, with a live band playing some of today's most upbeat Jewish music. You will find yourself tapping your toes, clapping your hands and dancing to these contemporary melodies. Multiple musical genres are woven through the service, highlighting text from each of the Psalms, which creates an energizing and engaging service. A special prayer book offers Hebrew, transliteration and English to make this service user friendly. Listen to and download tracks from our website. Services will be held in the Linden Family Courtyard, weather permitting.

Future dates: June 15, July 20 and August 17

D'var Torah: You Shall Be Holy

Rabbi Jeff Cymet, Rabbi of The New Kehila of Ramat Aviv, Israel

When Moses is instructed at the beginning of Parashat Kedoshim, the second of this week's double parasha, to "Speak to the entire assembly of the Children of Israel and say to them: 'You shall be holy, for holy am I, the Lord your God'" (VaYikra 19:2), Moses is ostensibly bestowing upon us one of the highest accolades possible: A status of holiness that, in its very self-description, equates the entire assembly of the Children of Israel with God.

The concept of holiness, in general, and the holiness of the Children of Israel, in particular, is so important to Judaism that Rashi notes (in his comment to VaYikra 19:1) that "most of the fundamental teachings of the Torah are dependent on it." In fact, it has been noted by those who study the literary structure of the Torah that this verse comes in the middle of the section of Torah that comes in the middle of Sefer VaYikra, which itself is the middle book of the Torah (book 3 of 5). In other words, the Torah emphasizes the centrality of this idea by literally putting it in the center of the Torah itself.

But what does it actually mean to be a holy nation, and what does it take? On the one hand, no single attribute in Judaism is more emphasized, idealized, and celebrated than holiness. But on the other hand, it is a concept that is ill-defined, potentially illusory and often offensive to others. Can we really be holier than other nations? And do we really want to?

The midrashic work, the Sifra, interprets the phrase "you shall be holy" to mean "you shall be perushim", meaning "separated." Holiness, in this view, means being set apart. (The word "perushim" is also the Hebrew word for the ancient Pharisees who saw themselves as separate and holy). The Sifra explains that God is essentially saying, "Just like I am holy, you should be holy; just like I am separate, you should be separate."

But how are we to understand the Sifra? From what are we to keep separate, and how do we do that? Rashi, in his interpretation of VaYikra 19:2, says that it is the Torah's code of sexual ethics that makes us holy, separating ourselves from the sexual immorality of other nations.

The Ramban, not unlike contemporary critics of Freudian theories that similarly essentialize the human spirit to issues of sexuality, found Rashi's interpretation - that holiness is entirely about sexual ethics - to be too limited and limiting. Instead the Ramban contended that holiness derives from the self control that involves "separating ourselves" from our natural desire for self-indulgence in all realms, and not just the sexual. Holiness is thus also to be found in all of the imperatives found in this week's double parsha, which scholars have dubbed "the Holiness Code," and which includes some of the most inspiring interpersonal ethical commandments of the Torah. We find

"[Y]ou shall not place a stumbling block before the blind (VaYikra 19:14), "[W]ith righteousness shall you judge your fellow" (VaYikra 19:15); [Y]ou shall not be a gossipmonger" (VaYikra 19:16), "[Y]ou shall not hate your brother in your heart" (VaYikra 19:17), and "[I]n the presence of an old person shall you rise and you shall honor the presence of a sage." (VaYikra 19:32)

But it was VaYikra 19:18 that Rabbi Akiva famously declared to be the fundamental principle of all of Torah - "And you shall love your neighbor as yourself." Thus, to be a holy nation is to be a nation of people who have so elevated themselves above self-indulgence that they can truly love their neighbors as they love themselves. In this way, holiness is manifest in our relationship to the other.

In VaYikra 20:7, God says: "You shall sanctify yourselves and you will be holy." In other words, the Children of Israel are not inherently holy, nor were we made holy by God. It is up to us, the Children of Israel, to make ourselves holy through how we treat others. The quest for holiness may often be elusive, at times may appear illusory, and may offend others for whom even the aspiration to holiness may appear to be pretentious, but it is at the very center of the Torah's call to the Children of Israel.

For Discussion: Who are your personal models of holiness? How do they conduct themselves? When have you felt that you were engaged in holy action?

Parashat Aharei Mot - Kedoshim Self-Study Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

This is another week with a double parasha (our goal is to reach the book of Bamidbar on the Shabbat before Shavuot). It contains the description of Yom Kippur ceremony, laws of forbidden sexual relations, and many laws told in brief form in chapter 19.

1) As part of the work of the Kohen Gadol on Yom Kippur (told in chapter 16 and read on Yom Kippur as well), he brings k'toret (incense) with coals into the Holy of Holies and a cloud forms (16:12-13). Why is the cloud needed?

2) The Torah (chapter 18) takes a very harsh stance on the issue of forbidden sexual relations (mostly ones that we would term incest). Why do you think that penalty for this seemingly private issue has the potential to bring a communal punishment (exile)?

3) 19:5-8 puts time limits on eating from a sacrifice. What might be the reason for setting time limits on eating the sacrificial meat?

4) As one harvests the grain in the field and the grapes in the vineyard, the pe'ah (corner) has to be left uncut for the poor and sojourner (19:9-10). Why do you think that we should leave this part uncut rather than cut it for them?

5) We are warned not to do iniquity in sentencing and in measurements (19:35). Why do you think that Torah put these things in one sentence? What is the connection between them?

May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Shalom (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianeshalom@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.
