Sisterhood Kickoff Event: Wine Pairing & Food Tasting Sunday, August 25 • noon

Join the ladies of Sisterhood as we socialize with friends, enjoy appetizers and learn about wine pairings. The afternoon will be led by our very own Seth Bromberg, owner of Kantina. $18/2019-2020 Sisterhood member; $24/non-member. You may join Sisterhood the day of the event. RSVP deadline is August 19 at bnaijeshurun.formstack.com/forms/winepairing or send your check payable to B'nai Jeshurun Sisterhood to the synagogue office Attn: Sisterhood. Contact Cathy Randall to learn more (216-408-1926 or crandall218@gmail.com).

Herman Sculpture Dedication Sunday, August 25 • 10 am

Join the family of the late Rabbi Jack & Shoshana Herman(z"l) as we dedicate "Starting a Dialogue", the newest addition to the Berger Family Garden of Togetherness.

Rabbi Herman was the beloved rabbi of Beth Am for 22 years, until his untimely passing in 1969. Rabbi & Shoshana's children, Daniel, Joel and Tamar, will dedicate this beautiful sculpture in loving memory of their parents. The sculpture selection was inspired by one of Shoshana's favorite table-top pieces of art, which was an abstract shofar. "Starting a Dialogue" is a seven foot stainless steel sculpture by contemporary artist Kevin Robb.

Transplant House of Cleveland
Wednesday, August 28 • 5:30 pm

Provide a home-cooked meal for all of the residents. This involves preparing a meal for 20 people at home and bringing it to the Transplant House and then connecting with the residents as they enjoy a family meal together. Volunteers can prepare different parts of the meal so it does not fall on just one person. Located at 2007 E. 115th St., Cleveland. Contact Nikona Thomas to help (216-536-8311).

Security Training for Congregants
Thursday, August 29 • 7 pm

As a follow up to Security Shabbat, we will be holding quarterly security training for our congregation, led by the Pepper Pike Police Department. These sessions will be open to the entire congregation, but will be limited to 40 members per session. RSVP to the synagogue office; contact Jay Ross with questions.

Back by Popular Demand
Sisterhood "BEE J" Honey Sale

This raw, unfiltered honey is produced from the apiary at the home of our congregant, Bobbi Pincus. Her bees are not subjected to toxic chemicals; they forage on herbs, native flowers and tree blossoms. It is approved kosher for home use by Rabbi Weiss. The sale benefits BJC Sisterhood, and is ready in time for the fall holidays, for your table or as a hostess gift.

$8 per 8-oz. bear-shaped jar; limited supply. Orders are filled as paid orders are received with pick up at the synagogue office. Please make checks payable to BJC Sisterhood and mail to Harriet Rosenberg Mann, 23575 Shelburne Rd., Shaker Hts., 44122. Be sure to include your phone number and/or email when ordering. Questions? Contact Harriet (harrietrmann@gmail.com or 216-765-0824).

Office Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are needed to help at the front desk with lunchtime relief. Times can be arranged to conveniently fit your schedule. Both men and women are welcome. We guarantee a friendly, rewarding environment. Please contact Marilyn Greenwald (440-449-2449 or marilynandstuart@gmail.com).

D'var Torah: Finding Consolation

Rabbi Joe Schwartz, Conservative Yeshiva Alumnus (2010-11)

Moshe prays many times in the Torah - for God to forgive the people after the sin of the golden calf, to allow God's spirit to rest on others and devolve some of Moshe's authority; for the healing of his sister - and in every instance, his prayers are for the wellbeing of others. Only once in the Torah - in Parashat Va'etchanan - does Moshe pray for himself.

In point of fact, Moshe doesn't exactly pray. He begs. "At that time," Moshe tells the assembled Jewish people, all of them destined for the land of promise, "I begged God, saying. . . 'please, let me cross over and see this goodly land across the Jordan, this good hill country and the Lebanon.'" (3:23, 25)

But, for the first time in their long relationship, God refuses his faithful servant's plea: "Rav lach" God replies to Moshe, "you ask too much. Speak no more to me of this thing. Go up to the top of Mt. Pisgah, raise your eyes to the west, the north, the south, and the east and look with your eyes - but you shall not cross this Jordan River." (3:27) It is especially painful to hear God use the same words to chastise Moshe as did the rebel Korah, who also said rav lachem. After all, what did Moshe ever seek for himself? And still he's told it's too much.

Of all the Jews gathered in the plains of Moab, Moshe alone is barred from entering the land. This is almost unbearable, for the reader and for Moshe alike. His entire life has been devoted to the service of God and the Jewish people. He has sacrificed all he had, forsaking his home and position. And now he has nothing: his parents are gone; his beloved sister and brother have died, he is without friend or peer. He wants only one thing: To enjoy, if only for a little while, the fruits of his life's labor.

And yet, the pathos here is only an extreme instance of the human condition. Kohelet, that extended meditation on the absurdity of life, says this plainly: When one realizes that all one's toil will be at best for the benefit of others, and at worse for no one at all, one can come to despise life. Indeed, Devarim Rabba (2:2) tells us that one name for Moshe is simply "ish", human being. And God's "no" to Moshe is the same as God's "no" in the Garden of Eden, from which humanity was driven "lest they stretch forth their hand, and take from the Tree of Life, and eat, and live forever."

It is an astounding irony, then, that the Shabbat on which we read Parashat Va'etchanan is known as Shabbat Nahamu, the Shabbat of Consolation. Even the Prophet Isaiah, whose words we read this Shabbat, tells us that "all flesh is grass, all its goodness like the flowers of the field." How are we to find consolation in any of this?

R' Ovadia Sforno offers us a hint of how we can move from despair at the futility of life to consolation. He writes that when God instructed Moshe to climb Mt. Pisgah, it was so that Moshe would bless the land and the people who would live in it.

The final lesson that God has to teach Moshe is that the way we can rescue ourselves from the mood of disappointment and despair that mortality can provoke - is to bless. To behold the green vistas we will never enter, consider the grandchildren we will never know, imagine the joys we will never taste doesn't have to fill us with regret. It could do the opposite. We could smile upon it. And, indeed, Moshe learns this lesson. It is with the text of Moshe's blessing (V'zot Habracha) that the Torah ends.

Even for the greatest of us, it is not an easy thing to accept our death. And it is not an easy thing to bless. But if we can turn despair to blessing, if we can find a way not only to accept, but to embrace that the world will continue without us, there may be, in the end, a reward for our labors, and consolation.

Rabbi Joe Schwartz served for three years as Rabbi of the Conservative Synagogue of Fifth Avenue, a small, traditional-egalitarian synagogue in Greenwich Village. He is now working on the creation of IDRA, a house of culture, learning and coffee in Brooklyn that is a new-old model for the Jewish and Jewish-adjacent and Jewish-curious community.

Parashat Va'etchanan Self-Study Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

In this parashah Moshe begins his epic speech about the Mitzvot, which we will follow for many parashot to come. Moshe will deliver commandments; some new and some renewed, as well as speak about them in general. Keep your eyes open for the 10 Commandments, as well as the first passage of Shema.

1) Moshe asks God again to enter the land: "let me cross and see the good land across the Jordan" (3:23-28). How can Moshe define the land as 'good' having never been there?

2) Moshe says to obey the laws that Moshe is teaching them so that they may live and possess the land (4:1-2). Why would this be a prerequisite for survival?

3) Moshe warns the people about the time when they will have been established in the land for many generations. They will "make sculptured images of all sorts, as well as do what is evil in the eyes of The LORD your God..." (4:25). Why is this warning given specifically to future generations? Why stress the 'doing of evil' after already mentioning the transgression of worshiping images?

4) At the revelation at Sinai the people turned to Moshe stating that they had heard God and lived, but fear that they will be consumed by the great fire if they continue to hear God's voice (5:20-22). What do the words of the people tell you about their experience of revelation?

5) The first section of the Shema is found in 6:4-9. After discussing our relationship with God, we are told to speak and teach the words we were commanded. We should also tie them on the arm and between our eyes (tefillin), as well as write them on the doorposts (mezuzot). Why do you think that physical reminders of the mitzvot were added to the instruction to study and teach mitzvot?

May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Dronzek (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianedronzek@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.

Kiddush or Oneg Sponsorships

“May He who blessed our ancestors bless those who give funds for kiddush.” (excerpted from A Prayer for our Congregation)

The mitzvah of a donation for sponsorship of a kiddush or oneg is a beautiful way to share the happiness of your milestone or remember a loved one with the congregation. Sponsorships are acknowledged in the Shabbat handout and in Tidings. The cost of a kiddush is $500 and an oneg is $250; partial sponsorships are available and they are tax deductible. Please contact Paula Botkin.
