Don't Oppress The Sojourner - We Have Been There Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

Do we remember? The feeling of being the outsider, the ones with no right to complain when we are harassed? The fear of upsetting those who hold our fate in their hands? The knowledge that we don't belong in the only home that we know?

We were there. We were in Egypt (and through history - in many more countries), and we did not belong. Our bowed heads caused alarms, our mere existence was threatening. We might have felt local, but we were sojourners. We looked different, we had our own story. We were strangers. Dangerous by our presence.

'A sojourner you shall not oppress; you know the feelings of the sojourner for you were sojourners in the land of Egypt!' So goes the warning of the Torah. Who knows better than us the shame, the desperation, the impossible attempt to belong, having no other place to go? We are a nation born out of a narrative of bondage and social weakness. We should never need to be commanded to treat the weak and the sojourner among us with care, with compassion. Not to oppress him, not to shame her, not to take advantage.

Think again. In our Parasha are 2 of well over 30 times that the Torah warns us against mistreating the sojourner (Exodus 22:20, 23:9). Is our collective experience as down-trodden sojourners-slaves in Egypt not enough to create compassion? The Torah did not trust that. Is the memory of the suffering you experienced... in and of itself sufficient to awake love and compassion...? Have we not seen that the human heart - twisted as it is - works also the other way! ...Sometimes, the fact that you were in your youth a sojourner, oppressed, will push you to find an outlet for your soul by oppressing a fellow person who is now under your jurisdiction. (Nechama Leibowitz on Parashat Mishpatim.)

It is not accidental that the Torah groups the Ger, the sojourner, with other weak parties in the society such as the poor, the widow and the orphan, as seen in our Parasha (22:20-23). They may be the ones most in need of the protection by the 'system,' but are the least likely to receive it. Our treatment of these groups is the health test of our society, at any time in history.

Our prophets judged their societies by their attitude and treatment of these weak segments. Jeremiah, standing by the gates of the Mikdash (temple) in Jerusalem sounds a dire warning of the impending destruction of God's house because of the people's deeds (Jeremiah 7). His suggestion for remedy? Do justice, do not rob or afflict the sojourner, the orphan and the widow. God's house cannot stand on corrupt human foundations. Jeremiah was not listened to, if to judge by history. Exodus 22:20-23 warns against the afflictions of these very groups, threatening consequences. If they cry out? God will hear them, just like He heard our cry from the depth of the Egyptian affliction (2:23-25). Then 'My anger will be aroused, and I will kill you with the sword; your wives will become widows and your children orphans.' None of us are guaranteed our social position. Jeremiah's warning, unbelievable as it was to his generation, came true all too soon.

Where are we today? Our world has many who became sojourners out of need and danger. Let us not forget that we, too, have been sojourners in our lands of Egypt. Do not oppress the sojourner.

Table Talk by Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

We ended last week with the revelation at Sinai. As part of that, the people received some of the laws of the Torah ("Mishpatim" means 'laws'.) Here is a taste of a few of them (this is in no way a Halachic discussion.

- 1) The first law concerns a Hebrew slave (21:62-6). How long will he work? At that point, he will leave without compensating. Why might we have thought that there should be compensation involved? Why do you think that the person ended up as a slave? Has that changed by the time he leaves?
- 2) Some more slave laws, this time it is not specified that this is a Hebrew slave: What will happen if a person beats his slave and the slave dies (21:20-21)? What happens if the slave is hurt but shows signs of recovering? What does the law teach us about the attitude (dilemma?) towards slaves?
- 3) If a person steals an ox or a sheep, and has slaughtered or sold it, he will pay 4 times [the value] for the sheep but five for the ox. Why do you think that there is a difference between them? Why do you think these categories were chosen?
- 4) If you meet your enemy's ox or donkey lost on the road, you shall return it to him (23:4). Why do you think that the Torah chose to phrase it this way? What do you think your obligation should be if it is your friend's animal?
- 5) The 3 pilgrimage holidays (Pesach, Shavuot, and Succoth) are mentioned in this Parasha (23:14-19). What is the reason given for the celebration of each of them? Which one seems to be in a separate category from the other two?

L'hitraot* to Henderson Grant

After 47 years of dedicated service to B'nai Jeshurun, Henderson Grant has retired as our Maintenance Supervisor. He has been a friend and integral part of this synagogue and we want to honor him in an appropriate manner. Grant and his wife, Rosa, have asked that there be no events to honor him, and while we would like to have a retirement event, we will certainly comply with their request.

We do want to make sure that Grant and his family are able to enjoy his retirement and honor him in a way that he would appreciate. To do this, the synagogue will accept donations marked "Henderson Grant Retirement" for two purposes:

- A gift of appreciation for Grant from the congregation.
- A donation to Grant's Church in his honor. Grant is a Deacon at True Gospel Missionary Baptist Church and this donation will be appreciated by the family.

We hope you will consider making a donation so that together we can make a significant gift of appreciation. Thank you for supporting Grant during his long tenure at B'nai Jeshurun. Your gift will help us express our thanks for all Grant has done for our congregation.

May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Shalom (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianeshalom@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.
