Yom Kippur • Nickman Chapel

11 am for teens; after yizkor (12:30 pm) for all

As a teen, Mrs. Worley took action to try and save her school, Martin Luther King, Jr. Law and Public Service, which was on the verge of being closed down while the city was in an uproar over the Cleveland Browns leaving. She left Cleveland because she felt her childhood neighborhood of Central in the late 80's had changed from a safe space into a war zone.

But, when she came back, she met with leaders and realized that GCC was bringing together people who truly wanted to fight for this city. They wanted to prevent other 14 year-olds like her who were already planning their exit route. She will share with us her incredible story of how she has been able to help youth and how her high school experience helped her become a powerful woman and a force to be reckoned with!

Greater Cleveland Congregations (GCC), of which B'nai Jeshurun is a member, is a non-partisan coalition of faith communities and partner organizations in Cuyahoga County working together to build power for social justice. Their areas of top priorities are: Education · Jobs · Health Care · Criminal Justice · Sustainable Food · Gun Violence

Mission Impossible? The Promise of Teshuvah

There is a paradox at the heart of teshuvah, for it promises the impossible: that the past can be undone, that what is broken can be made whole, even that our misdeeds can become our merits. Discover why changes that seem impossible on the intellectual level are entirely possible in the spiritual and moral realm.

Louis Newman has been thinking, teaching and writing about Jewish ideas for over 30 years. One of the country's leading scholars of Jewish ethics, his most recent book is Repentance: The Meaning and Practice of Teshuvah (Jewish Lights 2010).

8:45 pm Havdallah
9:00 pm Guest Speaker Louis Newman followed by Q&A
10:00 pm Dessert Reception and Book Signing
10:30 pm Selichot Service featuring Cantor Aaron Shifman and the B'nai Jeshurun Choir

This program is made possible through the generosity of the R. H. Mohrman Cultural Foundation.

Free and open to the community.
Reservations encouraged, but not required.

Atid Coffee Talk featuring Raymond Towler 1st day of Rosh Hashanah • 11 am

After nearly three decades in prison for a crime he did not commit, Mr. Towler was exonerated on May 5, 2010 with the assistance of the Ohio Innocence Project (OIP).

Come and hear his story. A light nosh will be available. Atid-age non-members will be provided with complimentary tickets.

The goal of the Ohio Innocence Project is to free every innocent person in Ohio who has been convicted of a crime they didn't commit. Their work has led to the exoneration of 27 wrongfully convicted citizens who served a total of more than 450 years behind bars. Their work includes helping develop and advocate for lasting criminal justice reform through legislation as well as launching Ohio Innocence Project University, an active network of student groups at colleges across the state.

Atid is open to all Jewish young adults in their 20s & 30s. RSVP for these events through our Facebook page or contact Shani Kadis.

D'var Torah: Public vs. Private Piety
Rabbi Joel Levy, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty & Rosh Yeshiva

In Deuteronomy chapter 27 Moses describes an elaborate ceremony that the Israelites are to enact soon after crossing the Jordan River and entering the Promised Land. As part of the ceremony a formal list of curses will be written on stones and declared from a local hilltop. There are twelve curses laid out in verses 15-26. In each case the declaration of the curse is to be followed by a public shout of consent: "Amen!"

1. Cursed be the man who makes an engraved or molten image...and sets it up in secret...
 2. Cursed be he who dishonors his father or his mother...
 3. Cursed be he who removes his neighbor's landmark...
 4. Cursed be he who makes the blind to wander out of the way...
 5. Cursed be he who perverts the judgment of the stranger, orphan, and widow...
 6. Cursed be he who lies with his father's wife...
 7. Cursed be he who lies with any kind of beast...
 8. Cursed be he who lies with his sister...
 9. Cursed be he who lies with his mother-in-law...
 10. Cursed be he who strikes his neighbor secretly...
 11. Cursed be he who takes a bribe to slay an innocent person...
- Cursed be he who does not maintain all the words of this Torah to do them...

The Rashbam, Samuel ben Meir (France, 1085-1158), grandson of Rashi, proposes, in his commentary on Deuteronomy 27:15 that the common denominator between these twelve cases is that they are all sins that are commonly performed in private and which are thus unlikely to be discovered. For Rashbam this whole infrastructure of curses only pertains to people's private worlds of deviance and is meant to address private behavior. He refers us to a verse in next week's parashah, Deuteronomy 29:28: "The secret things belong to the LORD our God; but the things that are revealed belong to us and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law."

This famous verse, says Rashbam, teaches us that the curses were not required for public wrongdoing. Public sin is dealt with in public by the court system and the various official, and public, punishments; "the things that are revealed belong to us and to our children forever." The ritualized curses are required to create a common consent to some kind of unknown and ambiguous divine punishment in cases where sins are performed in private, beyond the scope of human courts: "The secret things belong to the LORD our God."

For many liberal Jews, Jewish practice really only makes sense in the public realm. I have many wonderful congregants in my community who come to synagogue "religiously" every shabbat and holiday and for whom that practice is extremely deep and meaningful. If I ask them whether they would consider shabbat davening on their own or en famille whilst away on their summer vacations they look at me with puzzlement; why would they do such a thing? Some might visit Jewish communities and pray with them on foreign holidays but that merely reinforces my claim here. One of the Achilles' Heels of liberal Judaism is that at its best it creates spaces for public practice but it very often fails to articulate any compelling reason for private piety.

Rashbam makes it clear that the court system, the "shoftim and shotrim", cannot really influence, let alone ensure, private practice. Other mechanisms must be in place in every society to inculcate private piety rather than just public compliance. Fear of punishment is nowhere near as effective, or as important, as true fear of God - a deep and abiding anxiety that one's behavior has made one cursed, unworthy and unable to receive divine blessing. In this month of Elul, as we gear up for Rosh HaShanah and Yom Kippur, Rashbam offers us both a question and a challenge. What will we do, what steps will we take, so that Judaism is more than a series of external norms, and is instead something that guides and sustains us, even (and especially) when we are alone? Our liturgy encourages us to imagine ourselves as sheep passing one-by-one under the penetrating gaze of our Shepherd. Will God see in our hearts only public compliance and conformity or will She also be aware of a deep personal commitment to Jewish observance that underpins and transcends mere membership of the flock?

Parashat Ki Tavo Self-Study

Vered Hollander-Goldfarb, Conservative Yeshiva Faculty

The parashah contains ceremonies to be carried out in the land that God gives us. It also contains the blessing and curses that could befall us should we fail in our relationship with God while living in the land.

1) We are commanded to bring 'from the beginning of all the fruit of the earth that you will bring from your land that the LORD your God gave you' (26:2). What does this mitzvah stress, and why?

2) The basket of the fruits are placed in front of the altar. Why?

3) Once the people are in the land, they will perform a ratifying ceremony of blessings and curses on the Mount Gerizim and Mount Ebal (27:9-26). Some of the warnings/curses seem basic enough to deserve to be among the few mentioned, such as prohibition against idol making, or murder. But why do you think that warnings against things such as tripping a blind person on the way were included in the list?

4) This parashah contains one of the two lists of blessings and curses that conclude covenants in the Torah (the other is at the end of Vayikra). In the blessing section (28:1-14) we are told that if we follow the LORD's mitzvot the 'fruit of your belly, fruit of your land, fruit of your animal' will be blessed (v.4). What does the order tell us about the priorities of the Torah? (For an extra challenge, look at v.11. What does that add?)

5) 28:15-68 are the horrible things that will befall us should we not follow the mitzvot. This very long section is usually read in a hushed voice (but loud enough that we can hear it). Why? All of this is included in 1 Aliya, but the Aliya does not begin there, but rather in the middle of the blessings. What might be the logic behind that?

Family Programming for the Hagim

Family High Holy Day Service

1st Day Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur • 11 am • Halpern Hall

The power of a family experience can add incredible depth of meaning, particularly at a time that holds so much sanctity. These services, led by Rabbi Josh and Alan Goldweber, will allow adults and children to sit together, pray together, and experience the High Holy Days together.

These family services follow the familiar liturgy with a creative approach, opportunities for participation, and most importantly, many special moments that revolve around the family unit. For this reason, we ask that children who attend these services be accompanied by at least one related adult (or have their child join with a friend's family).

Young Children's Holiday Experience

1st Day Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur • 11 am • Gottlieb Auditorium

This holiday experience combines singing, storytelling, movement, unique project stations and the sounds of the shofar to create an enjoyable holiday experience for families with young children.

May He who blessed our ancestors and is the source of all healing bless and heal those who are ill. May the Holy One Praised Be He mercifully restore them to vigor and lift the burden of anxiety from their loved ones and friends.

On this (Sabbath, Festival, Judgment or Penitence) day we pray that they be spared further pain. May God grant them health of body and health of spirit and mind. May we speedily be privileged to greet their return to good health by welcoming them once again into our midst. Let us say: Amen.

Anyone wanting to add a name to the list should contact Diane Shalom (216-831-6555 ext. 104 or dianeshalom@bnaijeshurun.org) by Thursday afternoon at the latest for inclusion in that Shabbat's program. We will also pause during the prayer for people to recite additional names from their seats.

Teen Programming (6th - 12th Grades)

1st Day Rosh Hashanah • 11 am • Nickman Chapel

Rosh Hashanah is an opportunity we have each year for teshuvah and a fresh start. Come hear the fascinating stories from immigrants who made their way to Cleveland from Central America in search of a better life for themselves and their families. We will hear about their struggles living as undocumented immigrants.

Our member, Abraham Kay, is the immigration attorney who worked with them to secure their status in the U.S. He will tell us about the court cases and legal challenges they faced.

(9th - 12th Grades)

2nd Day Rosh Hashanah • 10:30 am • Youth Lounge

An informal opportunity for holiday-themed discussion.

We welcome your children in the Main Sanctuary!
