Celebrate

*Temple Aliyah Gala
May 15th 2022*

It is hard to believe that has been three years since we've met as a synagogue community for our annual gala. People are coming back slowly but surely for in-person Shabbat and holiday services and programs. But it hasn't been an easy task to regenerate the pre-pandemic energy and excitement of our community. This year's gala is a chance to bring us together as a community and an opportunity to acknowledge the effort of those who've supported us in meeting the challenges of the pandemic.

For many years Robin and Harley Frank have been supporters of Temple Aliyah. From one of the founding families of the synagogue, Harley has Temple Aliyah in his blood. As a couple, he and Robin have made the synagogue their Jewish home. When we were first hit with the catastrophic financial implications of the pandemic, the Franks stepped forward to ensure that we could continue functioning, including and critically underwriting our Community of Caring program.

After dealing with difficult staffing issues, Julie Davine was hoping her second term as president would settle into an easy stride, but the Covid virus had other plans for her. Julie met the already daunting duties of serving as synagogue president with optimism. Her tireless efforts and people-skills helped us weather this storm, and she deserves our community's gratitude for her exemplary leadership.

Chaired by the very able and organized Adrienne Ross, the members of our Covid Committee have navigated the ever-changing regulations and recommendations of various health agencies and translated them for the needs of our community. From our schools to our religious services, their recommendations have kept us safe. We are grateful to Tanya Altmann, Jason Bromberg, Holly Calig, Scott Calig, Lisa Grod and Matt Hershcovitch for their wisdom and commitment to our synagogue community.

The last two years have been unprecedented in challenges to our synagogue, the Gala honorees reflect the diverse ways in which it has taken a village to get through this together. While the pandemic is not yet over, it is a joy to celebrate with community and acknowledge some of the amazing people who have helped us through these challenging times.

-Rabbi Stewart Vogel

Julie, you have been an incredible leader of our community during some of its most challenging moments. You never backed down from a challenge, but instead brought everyone together with your kind and thoughtful leadership. On a personal note, you made me feel warmly welcomed when I first came to Aliyah, and I am so grateful to you.

Robin and Harley, everyone at Temple Aliyah has been touched by your generosity. In particular, when our members are grieving a loved one, struggling with illness, or otherwise in need of help, they can get that help because of you and your support of our Community of Caring. Aliyah could not be what we are today without you, and we are so appreciative.

To the members of our Covid committee, you all have worked tirelessly to keep us all safe over the past two years. You had late-night meetings, long meetings, spur-of-the-moment meetings, and you never stopped working on behalf of our community. Adrienne, you have essentially become a full-time staff member at Aliyah with the long hours you have put in, and I have personally felt safer on our campus because of you.

With deep gratitude and appreciation for all of you,

-Rabbi Shayna Golkow

Julie Davine, Kol Hakavod!!

Thank you for the years of service that you so graciously devoted to Temple Aliyah. And thank you to Jeffrey Davine, who gave Julie the encouragement and the time to be a shining inspiration to our community. Kelley and I love you and your entire family!!

Harley and Robin Frank, Mi'dor l'dor, from generation to generation.

I often think with great affection about our temple's founders, Norm and Debby Frank, whose kindness and whole-hearted support of Temple Aliyah has been a cornerstone of our congregation. And now Harley and Robin, you have taken that mantle and continue the beautiful legacy of your family. Kelley and I congratulate you and love you dearly.

Covid Committee, Refaeinu Adonai, v'nei'rafay

With your professional advice and guidance, you have answered our prayers for health and well-being. You made us feel safe on the bima and ensured the safety of others in our congregation. Adrienne, as chair, you spent countless hours there by our side in the toughest of situations. There is no substitute for that feeling of confidence that you and your committee provided. Thank you.
