Ten Rockets Launched at Israel From Gaza, Hamas Warns it Has Enough Rockets to Target Tel Aviv For 'Six Months in a Row'
Over the weekend, Palestinian terrorists in Gaza launched ten rockets at Israel, sending families across the country into bomb shelters. Iron Dome intercepted eight rockets. One rocket crashed into a home in Sderot. On Monday, following the attacks, Hamas's leader in Gaza, Yahya Sinwar, threatened to turn Israeli cities into "ghost towns." He warned that the Iranian-backed terror group in Gaza has "hundreds of kilometers" of attack tunnels and enough firepower to strike Tel Aviv "for six months in a row." Palestinian terrorists in Gaza continue to fire rockets at Israelis, killing both Israelis and Palestinians. In the past year, Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad have fired more than 1,300 rockets from Gaza at Israel. Congress is taking bipartisan action to stop the money trail to Palestinian terrorist groups that seek Israel's destruction. The Palestinian International Terrorism Support Prevention Action of 2019, authored by Senator Richard Blumenthal (D-CT) and Senator Marco Rubio (R-FL), works to sanction foreign supporters of Palestinian terrorist groups that threaten Israel.
