פרשת וישלח תשפ"א

Dear Readers,

In this week's Parsha, Yaakov wrestles with an angel and has a dislocated socket of the hip. We learn the first negative commandment from this Parsha - not to eat the Gid Hanashe which is a nerve on the hip joint of an animal.

Enjoy our Kashrut activity about Chalavi-Milchig, Besari-Fleishig and Parve.

We have included a Parsha Wordfind and Crossword-enjoy!

We have included the answers to last week's activity about which mother had which of the 12 tribes.

In this week's Parsha, Yaakov has his name changed to Yisrael. We have added Shma Yisrael to our Tefillah.

We learn that Rachel Imeinu passes away and is buried on the road to Efrat. Yaakov erects a monument that is her tombstone. As she was buried on her journey to Eretz Yisrael, she is the mother most connected to us outside of Eretz Yisrael. Therefore, our Tfillot to her when we visit Kever Rachel, help us on our Jewish journey. As the mother of Yosef, she educated him with Midot Tovot through good Chinuch. People go to Kever Rachel to ask for a Bracha to help raise children in a good way. Rachel davened for Shalom Bayit and had a good relationship with her husband Yaakov. She was selfless as a mother and wanted her children to be like that. Good midot with a good Jewish education was important to Rachel Imeinu.

Not long to go for the launch of our megaminibytes Chanukah edition.....

Shabbat Shalom,

Morah Belinda and Morah Anne
