

Many members have a credit card on file with the Temple for making payments. With ShulCloud, it is also possible to use a direct debit from your bank (eCheck) to make a payment. The advantage of this for the Temple is that the processing fee for direct debit is about 30% of the credit card processing fee, potentially saving the Temple several thousand dollars in fees a year.

You can add direct debit to your account either using the “My Payment Methods” tile in your member account, or while you are making an online payment. To use the “My Payment Methods” tile, simply click the tile, then choose “Add New Payment Method”, select Bank Direct Debit and click “Add payment method to this gateway”. You can then skip to the directions below at “Setup Bank Account”.

To add direct debit to your Temple account, the next time you make an online payment, follow this procedure. Be sure you are logged into your account so the payment method will be saved.

Use the Donations link and choose your donation as usual.
