

The Education Committee of Old York Road Temple - Beth Am works closely with the Education Director in carrying out the goals of the religious school. We strive to ensure that the religious school includes an interactive curriculum that encourages critical and creative thinking. We focus on developing our students' relationship with Judaism in numerous ways, including the practice of social action and "Living Jewishly." To that end, the committee is responsible for assisting the Educational Director in reviewing and developing curriculum, coordinating school-wide educational and social programs, managing the school's annual budget, and creating and updating school policies and procedures. The committee consists of a Chair, as well as members of the congregation at large, including, but not limited to parents of children in the religious school. The chair will report to the Executive Vice President.
