PARSHA MATTERS - by Rabbi Sammy Bergman

HEARING THE CALL THROUGH THE DETAILS

Adhering to a detailed halachic lifestyle can make it challenging for us to feel connected. The picayune details of knowing which prayers to recite, how to appropriately prepare our food, and what we can and can't do on Shabbat and various holidays take up much of our mind space. Some times we may feel that we have no emotional energy to focus on cultivating our love and awe for Hashem (both obligations in their own right) because we are too preoccupied assuring our portions of matzah are large enough and our lettuce is insect free.

The Midrash at the beginning of Sefer Vayikra provides an important perspective that can help us approach this challenge. The beginning of Vayikra focuses on the details of the various sacrifices offered in the Mishkan. However before Hashem gets to those details, the Torah tells us that Hashem "called out" to Moshe from the tent of meeting. The Midrash sees this "calling out" as an expression of Hashem's affection for Moshe. More importantly, the Midrash adds that Hashem prefaced not only this opening statement, but every commandment he issued, by calling out "Moshe, Moshe". Moshe in turn always responded: "Here I am" (hineni)!

I believe the Midrash beckons each of us to try listen for Hashem's call which prefates each mitzvah we do. Mitzvot can become burdensome when we view them as a mere list of requirements and restrictions. However, if we internalize that our mitzvot come from Hashem and that they represent His way of reaching out to us to build a relationship with Him, we can imbue each act we perform with profound meaning. When we feel we lack passion, we can even pause for a moment and imagine the feeling of Hashem calling out our names before giving us instructions on how to perform the mitzvah at hand. This Pesach as we are about to prepare our homes we can answer: "Here I am" thereby placing what might seem like a mundane chore in the context of a thriving relationship with God.

Change of Shacharit time over Pesach: On Pesach Days 1 & 2, Shabbat Chol Hamoed, and Pesach Days 7 & 8, Shacharit in the Sharp Sanctuary will begin at 9:00 am. Please go to <https://tinyurl.com/april23shaareishomayim> to access the updated April calendar.

The Yizkor Memorial Book has been an important part of our community's remembrance of loved ones and observance of Yizkor prayer. Emails with your previous year's listing or suggested revised or new listing have been sent out, with links to the online and printable form. Please complete the online form at <https://www.shomayim.org/form/yizkor2023> or return the completed printable form by email to coordinator@shomayim.org, fax 416-789-1728 or regular mail by April 23.

If you lost a change purse over Purim, please contact the office.
