WELCOME NEW MEMBERS

We welcome the following to our membership and hope they will enjoy a long-lasting relationship with our Shul:

Abraham (Avi) Wacht

IN APPRECIATION

Friendship is one of life's most precious treasures. It requires a friend who inspires one to be a better version of oneself, with unbiased empathy, unquestionable protection and support in good and bad times, unselfish love, and continual moral guidance. My friendship has morphed to memories now. I would like to extend my sincere thank you to Rabbi Muskin, Rabbi Topp, Rabbi Kalinsky and all the members of YICC and members of Beth Jacob and the community, whose kind and sensitive words were expressed to me upon the loss of my "chaver", Dr. Sam Smith. May we all continue to establish, maintain, and nourish our friendship "treasures" with daily love. - Max Weinstein

UPDATED ADDRESSES NEEDED

If you have moved since last Purim or plan to be moving soon, please inform the Shul office immediately as we need to make sure that we have everyone's correct address for the purpose of delivering Mishloach Manot to our members. Thank you for your cooperation.

HALAKHIC CORNER

Question: Must the Shabbat candles be placed on the table where the Shabbat meal will take place, or may they be positioned on aside table or buffet?

Answer: Many Halakhic authorities, including the late Rabbi Yosef Soloveitchik (The Rav) and Rabbi Moshe Feinstein, instructed that one should place the Shabbat candles directly on the table where the Shabbat meals are served. They noted that the entire purpose for the institution of Shabbat candles was in order to illuminate the table on which one eats. If, however, there are extenuating circumstances that do not allow one to place the candles directly on the table, then the candles should be placed as close to the table as possible. The above refers to the householder, who can kindle the candles at the table. A guest, however, who is staying in a hotel, should kindle lights in their hotel room and not where the Shabbat meals will be eaten (see Mishna Brurah 263: 45-46)

FROM OUR SEMICHAS CHAVER PROGRAM

Question For the Week by Adam Lewis

Q: If there are two or more aveilim (mourners) at minyan, who gets precedence to be the chazzan?

A: For simplicity, we'll assume that both aveilim are local and are capable of davening properly on behalf of the congregation. With those considerations in mind, the order of priority is as follows:

1. An avel during shiva (this is uncommon because an avel during shiva would typically daven in their home)
2. An avel during shloshim (days 8 through 30 of mourning)
3. Someone with a yahrtzeit (anniversary of the passing)
4. An avel on the last day of the 11th month
5. An avel during the 12 months (any time after shloshim)

What should one do if there is a disagreement regarding who should be the chazzan? Above all else, the most important thing is to make sure that the aveilim respect each other and do not bicker. As Jews, we must always be mindful of how we can avoid desecrating Hashem's name. One of the worst things we can do as Jews is to fight with each other (especially over something like being chazzan and saying kaddish which are both intended to sanctify Hashem's name). When we keep that in mind, we will always be able to find a peaceful way to resolve our differences of opinions.

We are all united in supporting our chayalim and the Jews living in Israel right now. It's important for us to remember that our support and unity is not limited to our overseas brethren; we must also continuously find ways to love and support the Jews in our local communities. In wartime and in peace, we need to actively help a fellow Jew find a job, meet their future spouse, visit them when they're sick, inquire about their wellbeing, and generally do everything we can to bolster another Jew. A quick look at the media shows that Jews already have more than enough detractors. We can be the antidote to their hateful words. And in the merit of our acts of lovingkindness toward each other, may Hashem usher in an era of unending peace for all Jews everywhere.
