Now that we took part in our own Tashlich ceremony let's come together for a new community tradition known as Reverse Tashlich: a day of service. During Reverse Tashlich Jewish communities across the world clean their local waterways and parks to take a stand against the unnecessary waste and pollution that is destroying our waterways. Our goal is to come together as a united Jewish Community to raise awareness and remind ourselves that we are stewards of the earth.

We are fortunate to partner with the James River Association where we will get to:

- Test the River's water quality.
- Learn about JRA'S Paint Out Pollution program where we will create art pieces with stencils and spray paint.
- Pick up trash along the James River.
- Masks are required while we are congregated as a community
- Please be mindful this is a day of service out in nature: dress accordingly
- Please bring a filled reusable water bottle. We will have extras as needed.

To participate, please email rpeters@jewishrichmond.org to register!
