ANNOUNCEMENTS

WEEKLY HALACHAH BY RABBI TORCZYNER

TORCZYNER@TORONTOTORAH.COM

How many times should a mourner say Kaddish each day?

Historically, many Ashkenazi communities assigned each kaddish opportunity to just one mourner, with a lottery among mourners when there were insufficient kaddish opportunities. [The practice is less common today.] According to Rabbi Moshe Feinstein, the goal was for each mourner to recite one kaddish per day; this is a mourner's minimum obligation.

There is some dispute regarding whether a mourner may recite a single kaddish in the merit of multiple people; it would be appropriate to assign each kaddish to a particular person.

A minyan should not recite multiple Tehillim or present multiple divrei torah in order to add recitations of kaddish.

(Mishneh Berurah 55:1; Aruch haShulchan Orach Chaim 55:4; Igrot Moshe Yoreh Deah 1:254; Doveiv Meisharim 2:15:1; Minchat Yitzchak 3:144:1; Beer Moshe 4:97)

DVAR TORAH BY RABBI METZGER

cmetzger@torontotorah.com

Why did G-d show Yaakov a dream with a ladder going up to the heavens with angels going up and down? Wouldn't simply promising Yaakov protection have sufficed?

Yaakov feels despondent and besieged from all sides. He just tricked his father, stole a divine blessing, and now his brother Esav is rightfully out for blood. This might be the very first night he manages to fall asleep.

Rabbi Shimshon Raphael Hirsch explains that the ladder itself represents a means to communicate with G-d, inviting everything earthly to work heavenwards. It is no fairy tale invented by Man, but a most substantial reality established from heaven itself. The angels ascending and descending, Olim viYordim Bo, working both for Yaakov and against him, show that the world's fate is not simply determined by the material world but is controlled by a higher power – G-d. "G-d stood beside him" because G-d is protecting Yaakov, on every plane of existence.

G-d's revelation to Yaakov is formulated perfectly for him, assuaging his fears and doubts even before G-d utters His promise. May we all learn how to be the ladders of support for each other and before we utter a word.
