"Chezi's Chochma" by Rabbi Zionce

Shalom,

This week's Torah portion of Yitro, named after the father-in-law of Moses, contains the Ten Commandments. When the Children of Israel camped at Mount Sinai (the mountain and not the hospital!) the Torah text contains a strange grammatical error. The word for camped is in the singular when it should have been in the plural. Previous verses in the same chapter of the Torah use the word for camped in the plural.

While it appears that a mistake is made in the text, Rashi, the foremost biblical scholar, says that this is done deliberately. Rashi states that when Bnai Yisrael, the Children of Israel, were ready to receive the Torah they were "like one person with one heart". Prior to this moment the Israelites were a disgruntled multitude of people. Now, Rashi states, they were unified like one.

It is my hope and prayer that we at Beit Rayim can emulate the ancient Israelites and be unified as one. While criticism and different opinions are always welcome at our shul, it is important to realize that we are all unified as one in our mission. That mission is to continue to foster a Conservative, Egalitarian presence in our growing community.

May we be unified in our goal.

Shabbat Shalom,

rabbi@beitrayim.org
