Executive Message

Many changes have been happening at Agudath Achim these last couple of months. Before I mention a few, though, I should state that our building only sustained some minor damage from the severe snow and ice storm. A ceiling tile fell through in the kitchen from some water saturation. None of the pipes burst, but some melted snow got through a vent pipe or somewhere on the roof causing the leakage. Our roofer has been called to see if any patching needs to be done; I'm not looking forward to the heating bill that we will be getting shortly.

In-person Saturday services have resumed, and we have had nice participation. We will resume Friday night services in-person on April 9th. With so many people getting vaccinated, the Covid threat is finally calming down. Thank you if you're a member who has gotten your vaccination shot.

If you have been in the building in the last month I'm sure you noticed David Brainis' team of workers installing the security cameras. These cameras will view every open vantage point and outside entrances included. This is part of the Homeland Security Grant agreement. We have new doors on order that will replace the glass doors with steel ones. We will have metal pylons placed outside the main entrance doors to prevent a vehicle from ramming into the building. The rusted emergency exit doors will also be replaced, which is overdue due to their deteriorating condition. Finally, congregants will be getting a pass card to gain entrance to the building, sort of like a hotel room key.

Also, we are making changes to improve the Internet reception in the building by switching contracts from AT&T with very limited bandwidth to Comcast which should be cheaper and way more powerful.

Lastly, the executive board members voted to go with a more user-friendly program that would greatly help our members and staff to keep track of various donations like Honor's, Recovery of, Memory of, Yahrzeits, Dues, and other categories. Many Synagogues, including B'nai Zion, are currently using this program called ShulCloud. Most of the people that use it have praised it as a great way to keep track of dues and other contributions. It includes a synagogue calendar and a directory of members, which we sorely need. It syncs with Quickbooks to make our treasurer's job way easier. This program would provide much-needed continuity when our current office manager leaves this summer. It will cost $55 per month and a one-time registration fee. We will save by not having to pay for other programs such as MailChimp and a web hosting to off set the costs. Our Rabbi endorses this program since it would ease her workload as well.

Progress is being made on the Pergola; if you see the blue lines on the concrete slab outside the rear entrance, those are marking off where to locate it. Rabbi Feivel has been doing awesome work with the garden committee. We are closing the gap on funds needed to construct it but are not there yet. I'd like to thank the Rothkopf family for donating towards this project.

Lastly, I'd like to mention, we have committees that are understaffed and could use your help. If you're are available and wish to volunteer to be on a committee or serve as a board member please reach out to me or Rabbi Sydni.

Message from Rabbi Sydni

Reimagining Zionism: Striving to be a Light Unto Nations

Each Hebrew month of Iyyar, we observe the solemn Yom HaZikaron (Israeli Memorial Day), followed by the joyous Yom HaAtzmaut (Israeli Independence Day). Each Hebrew month of Iyyar, we are given the chance to reevaluate how we can best support and defend the world's singular Jewish state of Israel.

When we approach our personal Zionism, we each have a different story to tell. Many support Israel because of our Biblical heritage. The Tanakh tells the story of our people's connection to the land itself, as promised by God. For others, love of Israel stems from the joy of living in or visiting a place in which Jewish belief and practice is the norm. In most of Israel, kosher food is plentiful, and streets are empty on Shabbat. Sukkot line the streets and balconies in the fall, hanukkiyot adorn restaurant windows in the winter, and the buses beam messages of "Happy Passover" in the spring. Others of us have friends and family in Israel and pray for their safety above all else. And of course, we hold Israel in our hearts as a sanctuary state for Jews who have suffered persecution across the globe. Whatever our reasoning, as confident Jews, so many of our ideals point to wholehearted support of our State of Israel.

When I was growing up, my education of Israel started and stopped at just that - wholehearted support of our Jewish Democracy. We waved flags, learned about the diversity present throughout the country, danced to Israeli music, and sang HaTikvah by heart. While the sort of patriotism we were taught was integral to developing pride and confidence, it often lacked the complexity that conversations about any nation-state needs. No nation-state is perfect, and patriotism in any country should not mean agreeing with every single decision made by its leadership.

Just as responsible American citizens weigh ethics and morality when deciding whether to support or oppose our leadership, we cannot give a free pass to every decision made by Israeli leadership just because we love Israel. Just like loving the United States, loving Israel must mean doing everything in our power to achieve a state that protects and cares for all of its people. When we donate to Israeli organizations, we must do the same research that we do when choosing to support any American organization. When we decide whether to defend or speak out against a new bill passed in Israel, we must ask ourselves about its implications on the safety of all who live in Israel and its disputed territories, as well as its implications on the international reputation of Israel. When the world sees Israel in the headlines, the world thinks "the Jewish people"; regardless of our reasons for supporting Israel, we have the responsibility to keep Israel a country whose reality and reputation reflect our merits as the Jewish people.

When I think about my three years living and studying in Jerusalem, I think of the freedom I had to explore Jewish practice and prayer. I think of the community's profound sense of community and trust. Living in Jerusalem, I knew that a wait in line at the grocery store or a trip on the bus would inevitably mean a heart-to-heart conversation with a stranger and an invite to Shabbat dinner. Store owners would leave their goods outside in faith that customers would come inside to pay. I truly miss the Israeli conviction that community means family and the Israeli characteristic of clear honesty that comes with that trust. And of course, I long for the next time I can witness the breathtaking wildflowers of the North or the endless sand and rock of the South.

In the Prayer for the State of Israel that we recite each Shabbat, we ask for God to “Guide the leaders and advisors with Your light and Your truth. Help them with your good counsel.” May God help us to raise up leadership and ideas in the State of Israel that are worthy of God’s holy name and of the beauty of Israel’s sights and sounds - leadership and ideas that disavow racism, celebrate Jewish religious diversity, and expand the many technological, medical, and cultural gifts Israel has given our world. In that same prayer as we ask God to “bless the Land with peace and its inhabitants with lasting joy,” let us remember that peace and joy belongs not only to our fellow Jews but truly, to all of Israel’s inhabitants. May we join God in partnership to preserve Israel as a State that makes us proud of our heritage, a State that helps us towards our goal of becoming Isaiah’s ohr l’goyim, “a light unto nations.”

Prayer and Learning

Beginning on Tuesday, April 6, all classes and services (except for Rabbi Feivel's Thursday class) will be available both online and in person. Friday evening services will now be at 7:30 p.m.

For attending in person: Please wear a face mask in our building, and keep a distance of six feet from others present. Please avoid handshakes and hugs. Waves, nods, and elbow bumps are great substitutes!

For attending online: All services are available at <https://agudathshreveport.com/prayer/live>. All classes are available on Zoom, with the link in your email announcements.

Tefilah - Prayer

Passover

Likrat Shabbat (On Zoom) -
Friday, April 2, 5:00 p.m.

Shabbat Pesah VII - Saturday, April 3, 10:00 a.m.
Pesah VIII with Yizkor - Sunday, April 4, 10:00 a.m.

Weather permitting, bring your own vegetarian, grain-free picnic to enjoy outside after services on Sunday, April 4, around 1:00 p.m.

Kids' Shabbat Shindig

Saturday, April 3, 11:00 a.m.

We'll sing, play, and learn together, as Shabbat and Passover share a day! Please ask your child to wear a face mask throughout our gathering, and please accompany your child if she is too young to do so. If weather permits, we'll gather outside.

Limudim - Learning

Hodesh Hadash - Women's Learning

Tuesday, April 20, 11:00 a.m.

In a safe space for conversation, we'll explore diversities of gender in Jewish text and tradition. From genders that are neither male nor female in ancient Rabbinic tradition, to the modern day Conservative Movement's responsa on transgender individuals, Judaism holds a wealth of wisdom to inform our current outlooks and ideals.

Interfaith Cluster Gathering

Monday, April 26, 6:00 p.m. - Zoom

Together with St. James Episcopal Church, ProVision Christian Church, and St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Catholic Church, we will share our personal stories about the triumphs and challenges of living in Shreveport. We hope that this conversation will help us to meet our neighbors, to hear viewpoints we may not often encounter, and ultimately, to figure out how we as an interfaith community can best help our greater Shreveport community. This cluster of communities has been organized in partnership with North Louisiana Interfaith.

613? Relevant? Commandments

Thursdays, April 1, 22, 29, 7:00 p.m., Zoom Only

Explore the mitzvot (commandments) from the Torah with Rabbi Feivel. In this once/week series, we'll systematically work our way through the Torah, stopping at the commandments contained within. Using modern and ancient commentaries, we'll gain a deeper understanding of God's laws, and explore why our sages did (or did not) count them in their 613 total. Along our journey, we will continually ask the question— is this commandment still relevant for us today?

Exploring Judaism

Exploring Judaism

Tuesdays at 7:00 p.m.

Mazel tov (congratulations) for finishing our first six weeks of Exploring Judaism! If you paid for the first module and would like to continue learning with us, please submit payment for the second module on our website, agudathshreveport.com.

April 6 - God: Encountering the Holy

Israel literally means “to wrestle with God.” In this class, we’ll enter into the sacred struggle as we consider the many different paths that Jews take to connect with the Holy One.

April 13 - Talmud: Arguments for the Sake of Heaven

After the Bible, our most important set of religious books is made up of nearly 5,000 arguments, of which 99% are left unresolved. In this class, we’ll examine the history, ideology, and fierce debates of the Rabbinic Revolution, which continues to shape Judaism today.

April 20 - Starting Over: The High Holy Days

Rosh Ha-Shanah and Yom Kippur are our annual opportunities to examine our lives and start fresh. In this class, we’ll learn how the High Holy Days can help you repair relationships, gain new perspective, and return to the best in you.

April 27 - Kashrut: The Original Soul Food

We sit down to eat multiple times a day. Kashrut teaches us that each time we do so can be an opportunity to affirm our deepest values. In this class, we’ll focus on eating mindfully and making each bite sacred.

Community Religious School Director

As the Religious School faculty prepares for in-person learning starting on the 11th of this month, I am overjoyed by the support from parents and the creative celebration of Passover in our community.

So, how do I also address the sadness I feel about recent tragedies in our country? How can it relate to our Passover questions: "What is the meaning of all of this?", "Why do we eat matzah?," and "Why do we have this holiday?"

I found inspiration from the director of a Jewish camp in Georgia:

Our answer will be:

Avadim hayinu l'pharoh b'mitzraim

We were slaves to Pharaoh in Egypt.

In the magid (story telling) of our seder, this is exactly the order! The children ask questions, and we respond that we do this to remember that we were slaves in Egypt and now are free.

Collective memory in Judaism serves an important purpose. We remember to be thankful that we are free, that we were brought out of Egypt and that we must always protect those who are vulnerable.

This past week, in our very own backyard, we were starkly reminded that hate nonetheless still exists. Incidents of violence against the Asian American and Pacific Islander community have increased during the COVID-19 pandemic. This week, we witnessed horrific murders in Atlanta that took the lives of eight people, six of whom were of Asian descent and seven of whom were women.

We once lived in mitzrayim (a narrow place). The Hebrew word for Egypt is defined as "narrow" or "constricted" because of the slavery and discrimination. Let us remember that now that we are free we have a duty to ensure that our own countries are not narrow-minded, but rather, places where we stand up for justice and equity.

So, this Passover, as we remind ourselves and our children to speak out against discrimination and hatred, let us remember also that it is our very freedom that gives the imperative to do so.

June 29: Course Review (for all students)

Regarding Covid exposure: if you have been in close proximity with a family member who has tested positive, please get tested yourselves. This will provide as much protection to others as possible. Please do not come into the synagogue until that family member tests negative and you have waited an additional 14 days after their negative results to ensure that you are not positive without knowing it. Asymptomatic people are actually the biggest spreaders of Covid. So far, the masks and social distancing seem to be working. The Executive Board agrees that this information was important for all to know if the situation arises. See CDC guidelines for further information.
