New stained glass window in the Rabbi John Rayner Prayer Room

Rabbi John Rayner z”l was uppermost in our thoughts at the Shabbat service on 9 February. John and Jane Rayner’s grandson, Lev Taylor (pictured), who is studying to be a rabbi at Leo Baeck College, gave the sermon to a packed Sanctuary. He reflected with great affection on John as a grandfather – and avid collector of jokes!

We left the Sanctuary for the dedication service for the stained glass window panel created by Ruth Kersley and now in position in the John Rayner Prayer Room. Rabbi Elana Dellal read from a sermon by Rabbi Rayner reflecting on a rabbinic saying about never praying in a room without a window. Rabbi Alexandra Wright’s dedication prayer included a passage about performing mitzvot by creating beautiful ritual objects and places of worship. Igor Zinkov, our student rabbi, then read a blessing before everyone marvelled at the new stained glass panel and enjoyed the sumptuous Kiddush Jane Rayner provided for this special occasion.

Echoes of Contempt

Last month there was a Board of Deputies event at which Rabbi Alexandra Wright was in conversation with Reverend Bruce Thompson for the launch of his book Echoes of Contempt.

Rabbi Alexandra summarises this important book for LJS News:

Echoes of Contempt traces a particular kind of prejudice and contempt developed in Christian theology towards Jews and Judaism. The book begins with the breach that is created between Pauline Christianity and Pharisaic Judaism and what Revd Thompson describes as 'a struggle for hearts and minds'. It continues with the 'unjustifiable claim made by many Christians that Jews were responsible for the death of Jesus' and traces this hostility in the Church towards Jews through the early centuries of the Christian era to the moment that Constantine embraced Christianity and eventually made it a state religion in 325 CE.

We encounter the figures of John Chrysostom and Augustine in the fourth and fifth centuries, massacres and an early blood libel in Syria, and are then led into the early and later Middle Ages for an examination of the Crusades and the tragic consequences for the Jews, with their subsequent roles in European society as usurers, attracting further hostility. We hear about the blood libels that took place in England in the 12th century and the repeated expulsions, including the expulsion of the Jews of England in 1290, followed by expulsions from France in 1394, much of Germany by 1350, and Spain and Portugal at the end of the 15th century.

In this gathering of the evidence of Judeophobia throughout the last two millennia, Revd Thompson includes Luther and his tract The Jews and their Lies and the mutation of this form of hatred of Jews into the racial prejudice of antisemitism in the latter part of the 19th century. Moving from one century to another, the author demonstrates the way in which the echo of those first statements of contempt against the Pharisees/Jews in the Gospels is heard throughout the centuries and reaches its tragic and catastrophic climax with the Shoah, the Holocaust, only to re-emerge more recently in radical Islam and the messy and complex issue of anti-Zionism.

Council Report

'By knowledge, the rooms are filled with all precious and pleasant riches.' (Proverbs 24:4)

Education is at the heart of Judaism, and the LJS has an amazing range of educational programmes. The Council recently met with Caroline Villiers, Head of the Nursery School, Barbara Fidler, the Chair of the Nursery Committee and Harriett Goldenberg, Chair of Education, to hear about the provision for learning for all ages. We looked at some of the work the youngest children are doing in science, numeracy and in writing and learnt of the high number of pupils registered in Rimon, our Religion School. We also discussed the thriving programme for adults and congratulated those involved in the Tu Bi'Sh'vat Shabbaton.

The education departments of the synagogue, along with social care, rabbis and the management, had had an intensive two days prior to the Council meeting, undergoing a Safeguarding audit. 'Safeguarding' is the term used for measures to protect the health, well-being and human rights of individuals, especially children, young people and vulnerable adults, enabling them to live free from abuse, harm and neglect. The audit looked at all areas of our work with children and adults who may be at risk. The aim is to ensure that the appropriate policies and procedures are in place. We will receive a written report with recommendations in due course. This was a demanding process for the staff and volunteers involved, but it will give us a useful analysis of our gaps, as well as our strengths.

As you are probably aware, we are facing challenges with maintaining the synagogue building. It is twenty-eight years old and very much like an old car, parts of it are beginning to require renewing. I have already written of our need to replace the boilers. This is expensive, but in hand. Council have now come to the conclusion that the situation with the toilets is not sustainable: many do not work properly, and they are in a generally poor condition. As a result, we have decided that we must prioritise their refurbishment and have agreed to aim to do this work during the summer when the Nursery School is closed (to avoid disruption to their activities). The renovations will be costly, but we have reached the point where we have to do something about them. Our plan is to pay for them from a combination of fund-raising, members' contributions through the Building Renewal Fund and from releasing some of our capital.

At this time of year, Council begins looking ahead to the AGM and to replacing those Trustees whose terms of office are coming to an end in June. We are looking for new people to join us on Council. At 10am on Shabbat 2 March a group of us will be speaking to the parents of the Rimon children to inform them of the work of Council and to see if any of them would be interested in becoming Trustees. Do join us if you would like to hear more.

Sue Head, Chairman of Council

Forthcoming Events

Community Service

Shabbat Morning Service 18 May

The LJS is a community of members and volunteers, friends and helpers whose support and service to each other and those who are not members of the synagogue is second to none. Whether it is being on Council or another committee, Phone a Member, Keep in Touch, Singing for the Mind, the Out and About Club, the Security Team, the Archive Team who meet at the synagogue on Tuesday mornings, those who give their time to teach Hebrew and other subjects, care for the Sukkah garden, who look after the books in the library, Video and Tea, the Bereavement Support Team, Members' Choir, fundraising and the many other activities and events that take place under the auspices of the LJS, we depend on the time and willingness of volunteers to take on a huge number of roles within the community.

At our Community Service on Shabbat 18 May at the LJS, we would like to acknowledge and thank all those who volunteer their time, and will be showcasing our activities – particularly those that reach out to local neighbours in Westminster and beyond – in the presence of our local MP, Karen Buck, local councillors, the Mayor and other dignitaries.

If you are already a volunteer, please put the date in your diary. If you would like to know more about our activities and ways in which you can get involved in synagogue activities, please do get in touch with Rabbi Alexandra Wright or Rabbi Elana Dellal on 020 7286 5181 or email: a.wright@ljs.org/e.dellal@ljs.org

Koleinu Services

Our Koleinu services are a chance to enjoy a Shabbat evening or morning in a creative and more spontaneous way in the John Rayner Prayer Room and are held while there is a service in the Sanctuary. You are invited to join us at 6.45pm on Friday 8 March and at 11.00am on Saturday 23 March.

Liberal Judaism's Day of Music

Saturday 22 June

Liberal Judaism is holding a Day of Music which will take place at Northwood and Pinner Liberal Synagogue (NPLS), with the theme of 'Music reflecting the text'. You are welcome to attend whether you are a singer, music leader, instrumentalist or just interested in learning some new tunes.

Through a range of song sessions and workshops, we will look to the future and ask what direction our synagogue music might take as Liberal Judaism introduces its new Siddur. The day will end with a musical event in the evening.

Liberal Judaism's Day of Celebration

Sunday 23 June

The LJS is hosting Liberal Judaism's Day of Celebration. This year we will be focussing on the role communities play in supporting their members in a variety of different ways.

We will look at how we can directly support individuals as well as how we empower our members, in turn, to support others inside and outside the synagogue walls.

Come and celebrate the current best practice, the Jewish textual basis for community relationships, and the deeper questions around community responsibility versus state responsibility.

Notes from the Rabbis' Desks: The mitzvah of volunteering and an inspiring Purim programme

One of the privileges of being a congregational rabbi – especially at the LJS – is working side by side with volunteers. Nearly 250 members of the LJS give their time, expertise and energy to the many different activities and events that take place within the community. Listening to their stories, one begins to understand and appreciate the reasons why people volunteer. Here is what a small group of volunteers have to say about the mitzvah of volunteering:

'I volunteer at the LJS because Judaism is a religion of deed not creed.'

'It is a privilege to be there for LJS members at a time when they may need support or befriending, and to be a link to the life and community of the synagogue.'

'I volunteer at the LJS to put something back into the community... The synagogue has given so much to me... It is our home and our extended family.'

'The LJS is full of such lovely, warm people, and the beauty of being a volunteer is not only the benefits we try to bring but the sheer pleasure, friendship and well-being we get from volunteering.'

Are you a parent whose children have recently started school with a few hours to spare each week? Have you recently retired and are you looking for some very part-time 'proxy' work? Do you feel you have a skill or some expertise that you could offer to the members of the LJS? Would you like to keep a lonely, housebound member company for an hour a month?

If you or members of your family would like to become more involved, please do contact one of us – Rabbi Elana Dellal at e.dellal@ljs.org or Rabbi Alexandra Wright at a.wright@ljs.org. Or telephone 020 7286 5181 and leave a message for one of us and we will get back to you.

For Purim this year at the LJS we are doing something a little bit different. We have planned 'Behind the Mask' – an evening of storytelling inspired by the Book of Esther around the theme of risk-taking and identity transformation. (Full details of the evening can be found on page 16.) The climax of the Purim story details Esther finding the courage to share with Ahashverosh that she is Jewish whilst knowing that Haman is plotting to kill the Jews of Shushan. Esther's courage in sharing her identity with Ahashverosh saves the Jewish community. Our 'Behind the Mask' Purim programme will begin with a text study led by student rabbi Igor Zinkov followed by a megillah reading and supper catered by Spice Caravan, a collective of refugee women. After supper we will have the opportunity to hear four individuals share their stories of risk-taking and identity transformation: Izzy Posen's story of transitioning from the ultra-Orthodox Jewish community to the wider Jewish community; Dex Grodner's story of developing and performing the art of drag; Rabbi Indigo Jonah Raphael's story of gender affirmation and transition; Hilary Totterman's story of conversion to Judaism. Please do join us for what promises to be a fascinating and inspiring evening.

Alexandra Wright and Elana Dellal

Artist Ruth Kersley tells us about our new stained glass window panel

Artist Ruth Kersley, who created the stained glass panel in the John Rayner Prayer Room, pays tribute to those who supported this project:

I extend my heartfelt thanks to the many people who enabled this project to come to fruition. I am particularly grateful to Karen Newman and Rabbi Alexandra Wright whose vision and resolve turned an idea into reality. Thanks also to Jenny Newman for her invaluable advice. I am indebted to Jane Rayner for lending me Rabbi Rayner's memoirs and for our lovely meetings at her home.

LJS News reports Ruth's prelude to reading the Haftarah portion on Shabbat 9 February:

“ I would like to start by saying how much it means to me to be with you all today and to honour the memory of Rabbi John Rayner through the installation of this stained glass window. Thanks to conversations with the many people who have supported me with this project I was able to build a picture of this extraordinary person.

From the beginning it was evident that my design would need to reflect Rabbi Rayner's moral integrity. In his Principles of Jewish Ethics he identified the three pillars of a civilised society – justice, truth and peace: 'Let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream.' This quotation from the Prophet Amos resonated with me immediately and I knew it would be the inspiration for the window's imagery.

You will see in my panel traditional hand-blown antique glass with all its characterful irregularities, and the use of paint and etching which goes back to mediaeval times. You will, however, also see the introduction of new techniques which have brought stained glass into the 21st century, and this includes dispensing with traditional leading and introducing night-time illumination through the installation of a light panel. Adopting a contemporary genre seemed wholly appropriate in the light of Rabbi Rayner's radical approach to Liberal Judaism in this country in the post-war era.

He left his native Germany on one of the last Kindertransport in 1939 never to see his parents again: they were to perish in the Holocaust. In spite of – or perhaps because of – this, I felt that having the window fabricated in Germany at the famous Derix studio outside Wiesbaden would be something of which Rabbi Rayner would have approved: a German studio creating a window for a synagogue which 75 years ago would have been totally unthinkable.

This week's Haftarah portion from the Book of Kings (6:1-13) describes the creation of Solomon's Temple built in the 10th century BCE, 480 years after the children of Israel left Egypt. The passage describes in meticulous detail every aspect of the construction of the Temple, with specific reference to the windows: 'He made windows broad within, and narrow without.' This suggests the Sanctuary required no outward light; rather its spiritual radiance would illuminate the world outside.

My hope in creating this window was to imbue the space with spirituality and provide an opportunity for personal reflection, revelation and calm. ”

Ruth Kersley

Tu Bi'Sh'vat 2019: from the LJS to Kew Gardens

The LJS Tu Bi'Sh'vat Shabbaton

‘See how lovely and excellent

My works are; I have created them all for you.

Take care not to spoil and destroy My world...’

This verse from Kohelet (Ecclesiastes) Rabbah 7:13 was at the heart of the Tu Bi'Sh'vat Shabbaton held at the LJS on 19 January. Tu Bi'Sh'vat, the New Year for Trees, is one of those minor festivals usually marked by children planting seedlings, or parents or grandparents contributing towards tree planting or reforestation in Israel through the JNF (Jewish National Fund). Here at the LJS we often have a Tu Bi'Sh'vat Seder, but this year we celebrated with a whole day of study and activities.

The title of the opening session, ‘How varied are thy works, O Lord’, set the tone for the day as we gave attention to many aspects of our interface with the natural world, locally and internationally, and considered the inspiration we glean from liturgy and Jewish scholars. Rabbi Alexandra made the point that Tu Bi'Sh'vat is unique as a faith celebration of nature and renewal.

Following on from the very popular vegan lunch, our keynote lecture delivered by Rabbi Frank Dabba Smith really touched the audience. Hearing about the work of EcoPeace Middle East was, despite being depressing, also inspirational, so much so that a special LJS trip is being considered – watch this space!

From the Middle East we travelled to India (in spirit) with Graham Carpenter and learned about an important water project being run by Tzedek, while Bernie Bulkin guided participants through some of the environmentalist thinking of Rav Kook and Martin Buber. Meanwhile, two of our youngest members, together with their families, created fantastic paintings using blow art, skilfully instructed by Susannah Alexander. The mood was joyful as we sang with Rabbi Elana.

One of the many firsts of the day was the involvement of teens alongside the adults. Our KT1 and KT2 classes joined in for the opening *shiu*r led very ably by our scholar in residence, Rabbi Michael Hilton, and the conversation that ensued was lively and considered. As a parent and Chair of Education, I was delighted with the level of engagement of our young people and their intelligent, articulate contributions. Later in the day, two of our Rimon teaching assistants who are also now LJS- Netzer madrichim, Olivia Goldenberg and Lily Crane-Newman, led a session for adults on The Circles of Tikkun Olam. Comments received were that it was not only stimulating and worthwhile but that the presentation style might be adopted for learning elsewhere in the LJS.

Alongside all these sessions we had a hands-on marketplace where we learned about gardening in small spaces (with Kathryn Michael), doing our own composting (with Effie Romain), the importance of bees to the cycle of life (with Nicky Faith), and the life cycle of a tree (with Jenny Nathan, who had a full Tu Bi'Sh'vat weekend – see page 9).

We closed with Havdalah and tea. All in all it was a terrific day. If you didn't make it this year, do check the synagogue diary for next year's Tu Bi'Sh'vat celebrations.

Harriett Goldenberg

LJS member Diana Levitas wrote her poem, Unless, ten years ago, and it remains a timely reminder of the need to care for our planet.

*Unless we turn soon, now, yesterday,
There will be no world for the children of our children.*

*Unless we turn soon, now, yesterday,
The ice will melt and the polar bears will die,
The waters will rise and my city will drown,
My beautiful ugly city,
My city of hope and despair,
My city of infinite possibilities will drown.*

*Unless we turn soon, now, yesterday,
Unless we learn that the world is not for sale,
Unless we learn to share the fruits of the earth,
There will be no world for the children of our children,
And when the deserts spread and the floods engulf us
And we are hungry and thirsty
Who will care about Beethoven, Shakespeare or Da Vinci?*

*Unless we turn soon, now, yesterday,
There will be no world for the children of our children.*

Tu Bi'Sh'vat at Kew Gardens

As Friends of Kew Gardens, my husband, Michael, and I were delighted – not to say somewhat surprised – to receive an invitation to Tu Bi'Sh'vat at Kew on Sunday 20 January. It was a perfect winter's day – very cold but with a bright blue sky. Fifty of us met up and were taken on Kew's electric buggy bus for a tour of the arboretum with a commentary by the Director of Kew, Richard Deverell. In the spacious grounds of Kew we were able to appreciate the magnificent shapes of the trees in winter and the vast variety of trees that grow there.

We were all invited to take part in planting a sapling before going into the most elegant surroundings of Cambridge Cottage for a sumptuous kosher tea. Cambridge Cottage is one of the historic houses which belongs to Kew and is used for a variety of functions. During tea, which included a table full of traditional fruits including figs, dates, pomegranates and grapes, Rabbi Jonathan Wittenberg gave a talk on the history of Tu Bi'Sh'vat and thanked the Trustees for organising such a wonderful day.

It is hoped that this function will become an annual event.

Deep Calls To Deep: Transforming Conversations between Jews and Christians

Tuesday evenings 8.00-9.30pm
A major new eight-week course commences on Tuesday 5 March. Dates below.

Deep Calls To Deep is the title of a volume of essays, the fruit of several years of inter-religious learning between a group of Christians and Jews. This Tuesday evening course is for anyone who is concerned about the nature and need for dialogue. It will look honestly at those things that unite our faiths, but also at what divides us. Rabbi Dr Michael Hilton, the LJS's Scholar in Residence is curating the course and is delighted to announce that all the contributors to the book have accepted the invitation to take part. Please honour them by registering for this course with Debi Penhey: education@ljs.org or 020 7432 1284.

BRAND NEW! Absolute Beginners Hebrew

Absolute Beginners Hebrew starting 26 February run by Dr Dov Softi. For more information call Dov on 020 7432 1285.

Classical and Prayer-Book Hebrew for Beginners

Tutor: Susannah Alexander

Have you tried to get your head around Hebrew letters for years and never quite achieved success? If so, join this fun and supportive class, where we use a tried-and-tested method to get you reading faster than you thought possible. Beginning with Jonathan Romain's Signs and Wonders, we move on to a taste of grammar, liturgy and the Bible.

Next Steps in Prayer-Book Hebrew

Tutor: Dr Sally Gold

This course is to improve your understanding and confidence in Hebrew. We will be learning the Hebrew of the Tanakh (Bible) on the path towards greater enjoyment and participation in synagogue services. We practise reading simple Hebrew from the Siddur and the Hebrew Bible, building reading skills, knowledge of vocabulary and simple grammar at an unhurried pace.

David: Warrior and Lover King

Tutor: Rabbi Alexandra Wright

New students are welcome as we continue with the story of David, who is either defending Israel from the raiding Philistines or on the run from the murderous intentions of Saul, now his father-in-law. Neither his military prowess nor his close friendship with Jonathan, Saul's son, mitigate the king's jealousy of David. We read in Hebrew, texts provided, translating and analysing the Hebrew carefully.

TUESDAY EVENINGS:

8.00-9.00pm

8 January – 2 April 2019

Exploring Judaism

Tutor: Student Rabbi Igor Zinkov

Exploring Judaism is for people, including non-Jewish family members, who wish to know more about Judaism or who would like to brush up on their Jewish knowledge. It is also an essential programme of instruction for people choosing Judaism by conversion. Class members are encouraged to read materials which will be made available online during the year. In addition to offering knowledge of Judaism, the course encourages practical experiences of Liberal Judaism and space for personal reflection within the group. Saturday mornings until 30 March

Adult Torah Texts and Studying our Prayers

This class, led both by members of the class and the rabbis, examines the weekly Torah portion and our prayers. We have been looking at some of the more challenging texts in the Torah and the new Siddur, Shirah Chadashah and its theology. Please contact Michael Romain (romain@netgates.co.uk) or Harriett Goldenberg (hgoldenberg@btinternet.com) for further information.

BEGINNERS' HEBREW

Tutor: Naomi Brightwell

This class uses Jonathan Romain's Signs and Wonders to help absolute beginners to decode Hebrew. Classes include a little bit of grammar and vocabulary, the structure of the liturgy, plenty of off-topic conversations on Jewish food, and anything else that helps us have fun while learning. No previous knowledge is required. Former students have even gone on to lead Shabbat morning services.

KEYS TO UNDERSTANDING CLASSICAL HEBREW

Tutor: David Strang

This class is designed to increase students' understanding of classical Hebrew, as used both in the Torah and the Siddur. We are using the text book Prayer Book Hebrew the Easy Way (available for purchase, £27.00) and will aim to complete it by the end of the academic year. Each lesson involves a mixture of reading, learning vocabulary and grammar, and translating from Hebrew to English. Students are expected to be able to read with reasonable fluency and to know how to write in block Hebrew script before they begin this class. There is a core of students who have been following the course for two years now, but please be assured that new students will be made very welcome.

INTERMEDIATE HEBREW

Tutor: Nitza Spiro

The aim of these sessions is to explore the Hebrew texts which the students will come across in synagogue services on Shabbatot and festivals. The class will be working on fluency in reading, but at the same time will also be learning about the historical, ethical, philosophical and ideological messages of the texts.

Memoirs of a scientist – Bernie Bulkin on his new book: Solving Chemistry

In his new book, Solving Chemistry, LJS member Bernie Bulkin blends personal experience with the history of chemistry. LJS News asked Bernie to tell us how he came to write this book and about his experience of the writing process.

Bernie tells us:

“ Some people say that writing a book is a very lonely activity – just you and the keyboard. But I don't find it to be so. That is because at the heart of what I write are stories, and mostly my own stories. So it is with my new book, Solving Chemistry. As I wrote these stories of chemistry I was with my parents and classmates, the students who worked with me, my colleagues in industry, and the global community of scientists that I became a part of during the course of my career.

This book has a thesis: for a major scientific discipline, chemistry, something unexpected has happened. All the major problems have been solved, and we now have a complete (well, say 97% complete) understanding of chemical structure, reactions, the nature and laws governing solids liquids and gases. Despite chemistry being a very old science, at the beginning of the 20th century and even 50 years later there were huge gaps in our knowledge, both theoretical and experimental. Between 1950 and 2000 tens of thousands of problems were solved and many errors were corrected so we could see patterns in reactions and structures. What the great enterprise of chemistry does now is to use all this understanding to solve complex problems of biology, medicine, materials science and the environment.

Solving Chemistry is the story of how this happened, told in part through problems that I worked on personally over the course of my several careers in academia and industry. I also reflect on how my teachers rewired my brain when it was still young and plastic so that I could think like a scientist – a very unnatural way of thinking. What was it in my upbringing that limited me in what I could achieve, and what was it that helped develop the work ethic so that I could accomplish things in many different settings?

So no, not at all lonely at the keyboard. I hope many of you will enjoy reading Solving Chemistry as much as I enjoyed writing it. ”

An extract from Chapter 2 of Solving Chemistry:

I thought maybe I would read petroleum engineering at university. My father owned stock in Esso, and their work seemed both interesting and exotic. I told my parents about the direction I was contemplating, and for a few weeks they didn't say anything. Then one day they sat down with me at the kitchen table, where all serious meetings in our family were held, and said that unfortunately oil was found in the Middle East, and they doubted that oil companies would ever hire a Jewish scientist or engineer. My mind turned to chemistry. I learned later that their view was generally untrue.
