GUIDE TO THE JEWISH FUNERAL

⌘ INTRODUCTION ⌘

When a member of a community dies, it is the community's responsibility to lovingly assist the deceased's family in this final act of respect. In this spirit, Congregation Adath Jeshurun has prepared this basic guide to provide essential information concerning Jewish death, funeral and mourning practices.

The Jewish way of dealing with death is one part of a larger philosophy of life in which all people are viewed with dignity and respect. Our people believe that, even after death, the body, which once held a holy human life, retains its sanctity. Our sages have compared the sacredness of the deceased to that of an impaired Torah scroll which, although no longer usable, still retains its holiness. In Jewish tradition therefore, the greatest consideration and respect is accorded the dead.

Jewish law and tradition have imparted funeral and mourning practices with profound religious significance. Jewish funerals avoid ostentation. Family and visitors reflect the solemnity of the occasion in dress and decorum. Flowers and instrumental music are not in keeping with Jewish Tradition. Embalming and public viewing are avoided, and interment takes place as soon as possible after death.

The chevra kadisha, a holy society comprised of volunteers, oversee the preparation of the body. It is an act known as chesed shel emet, a true act of kindness performed without ulterior motive, for the dead cannot repay this service.

⌘ PRE-PLANNING ⌘

Gravesite Purchase Procedure

Graves may be purchased by calling Assistant Cemetery Warden, Steve Evans at 502-310-2900. Unused gravesites may not be sold to other individuals, but may be sold back to the synagogue at any time for the price for which they were purchased.

Purchase Price of Gravesites*

Prices are $3,325 per grave, which includes perpetual care. The price of opening and closing a grave is $1,550 per grave for members who have paid their first year's dues in full, and $3,100 for non-members, and this fee is charged at the time of burial. A Deed/Perpetual Care Agreement is mailed to the purchaser upon receipt of the payment in full. (*Prices effective from 7/1/20 - 6/30/21.)

Perpetual Care

Included in the cost of a gravesite is Perpetual Care, which is a mandatory part of purchasing a gravesite in the Adath Jeshurun Cemetery. It covers the cost of planting and maintaining (cutting, trimming, irrigating) grass or such other cover or foliage as it deems suitable for the grave site, and filling and leveling the grave if sunken. Perpetual care covers the maintenance of any permanent plantings which are planted on a gravesite. Perpetual care also includes maintaining all common areas of the cemetery, such as tree trimming, roadway maintenance, irrigation, grass cutting, lawn treatments, beautification, etc.

Perpetual care DOES NOT include maintenance, repair or replacement of any stone or memorial, nor any repair or replacement necessitated by damage or destruction to monuments, plantings, or grave sites resulting from vandalism, acts of God, or causes beyond the reasonable control of the Congregation. Further perpetual care DOES NOT include the cost of planting nor replacing flowers or other plantings which are approved by the Cemetery.

⌘ FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS ⌘

Jewish law requires that burial take place as quickly as possible. Burial may be delayed for the following reasons: to transport the deceased; if close relatives must travel long distances to be present at the funeral/burial; or to avoid burial on the sabbath or a holy day. In any case, the burial should not be delayed longer than necessary. Such special cases as death by accident or suicide, or death of children under 30 days of age should be referred to Rabbi Slosberg for guidance. Families should consult with the rabbi as soon as a death occurs.

⌘ BURIAL OF NON-JEWISH SPOUSES OR LIFE-PARTNERS ⌘

Burial in the Adath Jeshurun Cemetery had been to members of the Jewish faith. As of January 1, 2010, this policy has been expanded to include non-Jewish spouses or life-partners of Adath Jeshurun members. This policy only extends to non-Jewish spouses or partners of members of Congregation Adath Jeshurun. Burial clergy shall be Jewish, although a non-Jewish person may do a reading, as approved by the rabbi. No religious ornamentation, other than Jewish, shall be used anywhere in the Adath Jeshurun Cemetery. The burial must be approved by the Rabbi or, if he is not available, by the Cantor. Non-Jewish relatives of non-Jewish spouses/life-partners are not eligible for burial in the Adath Jeshurun Cemetery. Should the Jewish member of AJ discontinue membership at Adath Jeshurun, the burial rights for the non-Jewish spouse/life partner will not be honored, and any monies paid toward the purchase price of burial rights will be refunded. Should the non-Jewish spouse/life-partner predecease the Jewish AJ member, burial rights will be granted to the non-Jewish partner, provided that a double gravesite has been purchased for the eventual burial of the Jewish AJ member. Burial fees for non-members of Adath Jeshurun, including non-Jewish spouses and life-time partners of AJ members will be charged according to the non-member burial fee policy in force at the time of death.

Tahara – Ritual Cleansing

Jewish law requires that the deceased be cleansed according to a prescribed ritual as an expression of respect. This ritual is performed by specially trained persons called a chevra kadisha (holy society), and is arranged by the funeral home.

Tachrichim – Shroud and Burial Attire

Jewish law prescribes burial in plain white shrouds (tachrichim) to demonstrate the equality of all.

Cremation

Since cremation is strictly forbidden in Jewish tradition (even more since the holocaust), the Rabbi and Cantor will not participate at a burial service for a cremated body.

Officiants

Rabbi Slosberg and Cantor Lipp both officiate at funerals for Adath Jeshurun members in the AJ cemetery. Guest rabbis may officiate with the permission of Rabbi Slosberg.

⌘ THE FUNERAL ⌘

Funeral Services

Funeral services may be held in a funeral home, or at the gravesite. The synagogue may be used provided that certain conditions are met. The service usually includes the chanting of psalms, poems and Eil Malei Rachamim (the traditional memorial prayer), and a hesped (eulogy) honoring the deceased. Instrumental music is not permitted.

Condolence Calls

During the period from death until burial, the mourner (called an onen during this period) is exempt from performing all religious duties. Condolence calls should be made after the funeral during the shiva week, except on the sabbath.

Viewing Remains

Public viewing of the body is contrary to Jewish tradition.

Flowers

Flowers are associated with joyous occasions in Jewish tradition, and are not appropriate at a funeral. Friends and associates of the deceased who wish to show some concrete expression of sympathy are encouraged to contribute to a charity which was of importance to the deceased.

Leaving the Cemetery

After burial, it is traditional to either wash one's hands after leaving the cemetery, or before entering the house of mourning. This washing is an affirmation of life after involvement with death.

⌘ PERIODS OF MOURNING ⌘

Shiva – The First Seven Days

Shiva is the seven-day period of intensive mourning observed by the immediate family of the deceased beginning on the day of burial. The mourners include anyone whose parent, spouse, child, or sibling has died. During the entire shiva period, mourners are encouraged to abstain from work, to remain at home, and to contemplate the meaning of life, and the way that adjustment will be made due to the death of the beloved. Public mourning observances are suspended on the sabbath and Jewish holy days in view of the belief that the sanctity and serenity of these days supersedes personal grief. Mourners are permitted and encouraged to attend sabbath services, but they are not given an aliyah or honor. It is customary at Adath Jeshurun for the name of the deceased to be read at a sabbath service after the funeral.

It is customary for family and friends to arrange for a condolence meal (which traditionally includes round foods such as eggs) to be served to the mourners at the house of mourning when they return from the cemetery. Mourners should not serve as hosts or otherwise entertain their visitors. It is customary for a seven-day memorial candle to be kindled as a symbol of mourning, and for the mourners to refrain from wearing leather shoes and from shaving. Mourners participate in evening services in the shiva home during the seven days, except on the sabbath when mourners attend synagogue services. Visiting at the time of shiva is a most important mitzvah.

Shloshim – The First Thirty Days

During the thirty days following burial (except shiva), mourners return to work and normal activities, but refrain from public entertainment or social activities. In place of home services, mourners attend synagogue services daily to recite kaddish.

Shana – The First Year

Mourners for deceased parents continue to attend services daily to recite kaddish for eleven months, and continue to refrain from celebratory activities for a full year.

Yahrzeit – Anniversary of Death

The kaddish is recited each year on the anniversary of death (not burial).

Yizkor – Memorial Prayers

Yizkor prayers are recited on Yom Kippur, Shemini Atzeret, Pesach and Shavuot, and should be recited beginning with the first Yom Tov day after the death.
