

During the High Holy Days, one of the most known and impactful rituals is the Shofar blowing. Congregation Netivot Shalom in Berkeley is organizing the Bay Area, and maybe the country, to have people all blow the Shofar on Rosh HaShanah, Day 2, Sunday, September 20, 2020, at 3:00 PM Pacific Time. Traditionally, the Shofar is not blown on Shabbat.

Imagine Jewish organizations around the country collaborating, each with a few volunteers that can blow the Shofar, reaching Jewish (and non-Jewish) ears with the hopes of penetrating the COVID-19 isolation.

Join along to create a wake-up call for our world. We can work our way through these difficult times. If you want, you can use this link to add the address of your Shofar-blowing to a map that is being created by Congregation Netivot Shalom.

Also, consider recording your event and sending it to Gordon for possible posting for our congregation to see and hear.

Call to action:

Join wherever you are, blow the Shofar!
Reverberating throughout the US
Rosh HaShanah Day 2 (September 20, 2020)
3 PM PDT
Shofar blowing