KIDS CORNER!

Dear Kids and Parents,

Get ready for a sweet start to the 5779 at Adas as we welcome the Kosher Chocolate factory this Sunday, 9/16 2:00pm!

This week's parsha craft will be an edible bimah with a sefer Torah and inkwell with kulmus for writing the Torah (yes, I know we wrote that last week, but this week I mean it).

The answer to last week's riddle was: The Torah which is close to us to learn and do, without having to go up to the sky or across the sea.

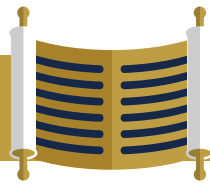

This week's question is: This week is not Chazak yet, but I got a Chazak in the Parasha. Who am I, and why did I get a Chazak?

Good Shabbos,
Rabbi Avrohom Wagshul

On Yom Kippur, the avodas ha'yom in the Beis Hamikdash is performed by the Kohen Gadol. However we find -- for example the Terumas Hadeshen and Sidur Hama'areches -- mitzvos that are only a hechsher to the Avoda and consequently don't need a Kohen Gadol. Even Siluk Bazichin, the Rambam says when Yom Kippur fell on Shabbos there was a mitzvah of removing the Ketores from atop the Shulchan and putting on new ones. That mitzvah didn't need to be performed by the Kohen Gadol because it was incidental to Yom Kippur and not uniquely a Yom Kippur Avodah.

The Ohr Sameach asks: the Rambam says that when Yom Kippur fell out on Shabbos, the Korban Mussaf of Shabbos was brought by the Kohen Gadol. But, Yom Kippur has no unique Korban Mussaf Shel Shabbos? It is incidental. Shabbos happened to fall out on Yom Kippur. Why then is the Shabbos Avoda performed by the Kohen Gadol? This seems to contradict the rule of Avodas Hayom B'Kohen Gadol.

Says the Ohr Sameiach: there are two ways to view Yom Kippur. The first way is as a day where we practice sigufim v'inuyim. The Torah obligates us to afflict ourselves by refraining from bodily activities. These are all part of the difficulty of Yom HaKippurim. If that is Yom Kippur, then it has no connection to Shabbos. When Yom

Kippur falls on Shabbos it is totally incidental because Shabbos has no aspect of siguf & inuyim.

The second way to view Yom Kippur is as a day of shevisa mi'tzorchei ha'guf -- a day of rest from the physical needs of our body. Our body needs to be fed, given drink, washed, etc. On Yom Kippur, we try to be spiritual beings and we rest from this work of taking care of our body. Therefore, we don't eat, drink, etc; we try to be like angels -- the mashal of Malachim, saying baruch sheim kavod malchuso l'olam va'ed out loud and wearing a kittel as the white image of an angel. It is a different Yom Kippur. The Rambam calls the laws of Yom HaKippurim 'Shevisas Asar' -- the laws of resting on the 10th day. Certainly we rest from doing work, but we rest from the Tzorchei Haguf, from the needs of our body. A person sees Yom Kippur as a day of shevisa from Tzorchei Haguf, as a day of being uplifted like angels - domeh la'malachim. It is not a day of pain; it is a day of elevation. When the Kohen Gadol brought the Korban Mussaf of Shabbos, he saw it as an extension of Yom HaKippurim. Yom HaKippurim is a day of rest from Tzorchei Haguf and so is Shabbos. For the Kohen Gadol, the Mussaf of Shabbos was not incidental to Yom HaKippurim; it was a continuous flow of Yom Kippur. Therefore, Yom Kippur is a Shabbos. It is a day of elevation and of resting from Tzorchei Haguf.
