KIDS CORNER!

Dear Kids and Parents,

This week is the first teen minyan with Rabbi Rosen at 9:00am in the library. Stay tuned for an exciting Purim program at Adas Torah!

This week's parsha craft will be an edible cloud on the mishkan.

The answer to last week's riddle is, the Kohen Gadol had 12 names on the Choshen, plus on Reuven's stone it also said the names of the 3 avos, on each shoulder, the 6 shevatim, the name of Hashem in the Urim Vetumim and another on the Tzitz = 29 names. The spinning goats were the ones that women used to spin goat hair threads for the black curtains.

This week's question is: I stand very tall but couldn't stand up on my own, no one could stand me either, but with Hashem's help one man could do it all. What am I?

Bonus: Who got a blessing in the parsha, and what was it?

Good Shabbos, Rabbi Avrohom Wagshul

We are looking for volunteers to stand outside with the security guard for an hour once every three months. Thank you to Asher Adler, Rabbi Dave Sorani, Zack Glastein, & Noam Young who took shifts last Shabbos.

D'VAR

TORAH

Steve Kirschenbaum

The S'forno writes that the Keilim made for the Mishkan weren't destroyed, lost, or fell into the hands of our enemies, contrary to the items that Shlomo Hamelech made for the Beis Hamikdash, which did fall into the hands of our enemies. Why? Says the Seforno, the Mishkan was built by Betzalel and other righteous people who physically participated in the building of the Mishkan and Keilim. When it came to building the Beis Hamikdash, Shlomo Hamelech contracted some of the work out to non-Jews -- Chirom the king of Tzor and his Avadim. The zechus of the building of the Mishkan was that Tzadikim did it themselves. The Beis Hamikdash didn't have this zechus, and so, it didn't have the zechus to last forever unlike the Keilim of the Mishkan.

We assume that Shlomo Hamelech made a halachik calculation. We are Mevateil Talmud Torah for an actual Mitzvah but we are not Mivateil Talmud Torah for a Hechsheir Mitzvah, to prepare for a Mitzvah if others can do it. The assumption might be that Shlomo Hamelech made this calculation and held that the Tzadikim should learn and we will get others to build the Keilim for the Beis Hamikdash. What's wrong with that calculation?

The Netziv in the Ha'eimek She'eila has an essay in which he deals with Hechsher Mitzvah, preparation for a Mitzvah. Preparations for certain Mitzvos are performed by people who would otherwise be learning. For example, the Shulchan Aruch cites the Rosh himself participated in the baking of Matzos. Baking Matzos is only a Hechsher Mitzvah. Similarly, the Gemara Kiddushin 41a states that certain Amoraim were involved in preparing food for Shabbos. Rabbah salted fish. Why did he salt fish, that is a Hechsher Mitzvah -- it could've been done by someone else?

For this, the Netziv proposes that those preparations not mentioned in the Torah, such as removing the Shofar from the head of a ram, we leave for others to complete. That aspect is not a Hechsher Mitvah Ha'kasuv Ba'Torah -- it doesn't say in the Torah to pick an Esrog off a tree. Therefore, we don't find Tzaddikim are Mevateil Talmud Torah to go pick an Esrog off of a tree.

However, we do find that the Torah commands us to prepare for Shabbos. It is a Hechsher Mitzvah that is mentioned B'feirush in the Torah. The same thing is true about the baking of the Matzos. Because the baking of the Matzos is mentioned B'feirush in the Torah in conjunction with the commandment of making Matzos, these preparations of the Mitzvah have a higher level of importance, and we are Mevateil Talmud Torah for these types of Hechsher Mitzvah.

So, there are two types of Hechsher Mitzvah; those mentioned explicitly in the Torah which we are Mevateil Talmud Torah for, and those not mentioned and we are not Mevateil Talmud Torah for since it is efsher al yidei acheirim. For this reason, the Keilim of the Mishkan weren't lost, and the Keilim of the Beis Mikdash were.
