JACK L. GROSSMAN

AUTHOR
EXECUTIVE PRODUCER

Jack has written and designed award-winning advertising, having won numerous industry awards. His housewares invention in the 1980s was featured in Spiegel Catalog, Neiman-Marcus and Brookstone Company. Jack has been highly recognized for his community service work, having been presented many humanitarian awards, including The Award of Excellence; one of only three presented by a $1.5-billion NYSE company. As a result, he was featured with his family in a :60 second TV commercial that aired during the final episode of Spin City and other national programs. He was recognized with a Power Board Award by Boys & Girls Club National for turning an almost defunct Florida Boys & Girls Club into a thriving organization that built and moved into a new 5,500 sq. ft. facility under his leadership, all within 15 months of Jack joining the Board. Jack is also a Founding/Legacy Board Member of Dove House Children's Advocacy Center, where he led a campaign that built a new $2.2-million state-of-the-art facility in 2008, with 93% of the project being donated. The facility serves sexually abused children and is affectionately referred to as "The House that Jack Built". All told, Jack has raised nearly $18-million in cash and In-kind for non-profit organizations. Jack is also an original Founder of the Lake Norman Jewish Community. Jack suffered a near-death brainstem stroke in 2010, which initially left him totally paralyzed on his left side. After intense physical therapy and a drive to continue to help others and produce the Child of the Forest book/film project, Jack is now 85% - 90% recovered and is back to work 100%. He has a beautiful wife, 4 daughters, and one grandson, and resides in Mooresville, NC.
