Rabbi's Reflections

By Rabbi Daniel J. Fellman

A great Reform Rabbi, Victor Reichert of Cincinnati, offered wonderful advice for the summer months. Rabbi Reichert, who served Rockdale Temple for decades, encouraged his congregation to use the summer months for reflection and renewal.

Each year he would remind people to read a good book, take a long walk, and make a new friend over the course of the summer months. With its long days filled with smiles and warmth, summer invites us to do things differently, to take time for ourselves, and to find new appreciation for our world and our own lives. Summer can be a time not just of relaxation but of change and growth for all of us.

This summer marks a time of change at Temple Sinai. We will say L'hitraot to Rabbi Keren Gorban as she leaves to assume the pulpit at Temple Beth El in Tacoma, Washington. For seven years, Rabbi Gorban has shared her wisdom, passion, and music with us. She has been with us for celebrations and times of sadness, and she has worked tirelessly to ensure a bright Jewish future.

As her clergy partner this past year, Rabbi Gorban has been a wonderful colleague, helping me learn about Temple Sinai and its traditions while also encouraging new understandings and new possibilities. She and her beautiful son Yuval have brought smiles to so many, and I am sure we all share a sense of gratitude for all she has accomplished at Temple Sinai.

This summer also marks a beginning as we welcome Cantor David Reinwald to the Temple Sinai family of families. Originally from Chicago, Cantor Reinwald has spent the last 12 years at Temple Beth Shalom in Orange County, California, and he is thrilled to be returning to his Midwestern roots!

Cantor Reinwald is a gifted and compassionate teacher and leader. He exudes soul in all that he does, and he is particularly gifted in work with children. We are excited to fully restart our music program after the long years of pandemic distance. Cantor Reinwald can't wait to get to work with our choir and band, and to begin dreaming about new musical opportunities for all of us.

As a partner, I am looking forward to working with Cantor Reinwald as we bring Temple Sinai back to a full calendar of activities. The pandemic changed the way synagogues work, and while we have faced our share of challenges, we are emerging in new and exciting ways. Whether onsite or online, Cantor Reinwald and I can't wait to get busy sharing in the life of the Temple.

On a personal note, as I reach my first anniversary at Temple Sinai, I am filled with gratitude for all that all of you have done for Melissa and our children to make us feel at home. We are thrilled to be a part of Sinai, and we can't wait to see what the future has in store for all of us!

"I don't like to say 'Goodbye'" FROM RABBI KEREN GORBAN

"I don't like to say 'Goodbye...'" I sing these words from a Tom Chapin lullaby to Yuval when he resists going to bed at night. I'm also singing these words to myself as I approach my final days at Temple Sinai; I love this community and have found a home here, so part of me doesn't want to leave. But, as I prepare to head to Temple Beth El in Tacoma, Washington, my seven-year chapter at Temple Sinai—and your chapter with me—is coming to an end.

During the last seven years, I have been blessed with many gifts from this congregation. Some are tangible, like the set of Bible commentary gifted by an Adult B'nei Mitzvah class or toys for Yuval. But most are indelibly written in my heart and mind. A few of these gifts stand out in particular:

You have given me opportunities to learn, including enabling me to earn an MA in Religious Education, letting me experiment with different programs like NextDOR, and asking provoking questions. I have especially enjoyed learning in partnership with you in classes, workshops, one-on-one preparation for Divrei Torah, and especially in our Saturday morning Torah study.

You have offered me your trust, inviting me to be your guide through joyous milestones, painful experiences, and grief; letting me challenge you to think in different ways or try new things; and assuming goodwill when I made mistakes or didn't fulfill expectations. Your trust allowed me to flourish professionally and personally.

You have blessed me with your ideas and passions. In looking for my next position, I knew that I would need be in a place where I could continue some of the work that you have needed me to do here at Temple Sinai, especially work around inclusion. Our expansive definition of inclusion means that we are reaching outward to bring people who have had difficulty engaging with the Jewish community in and working to ensure that those already in our community feel seen and cared for. The innovative and inspiring ways that we have striven to embody this value of inclusion, as well as other priorities, mean that I will move into my next position with a toolbox full of ideas and possibilities that will hopefully bring blessing to my new community.

The gifts you have shared with me go far beyond these, and I will share more at my farewell service on June 3. I hope you will join me to celebrate my time at Temple Sinai and so I can thank you for the many blessings I have received here.

I don't like to say "goodbye" because it seems so final, despite the joke that Jews say goodbye and never leave. In Hebrew, though, there's isn't a formal word for "goodbye." We use "shalom" or "l'hitraot" instead, wishing each other peace on our journeys or looking forward to seeing each other again. Though I am leaving Pittsburgh, I hope that you all are blessed with peace and wholeness and that we will see each other again.

Shalom ul'hitraot!

Join us on Friday, June 3 at 7 PM to honor Rabbi Keren Gorban's seven years at Temple Sinai during our Shabbat Evening Service AND to wish her well with her new congregation in Tacoma, Washington.

FUN FOR KIDS IN JUNE

Tot Shabbat in the Bodek Rose Garden (weather permitting), Friday, June 17, 5:15 PM

Does your tot love bubbles and balloons? Bring them to a very special Tot Shabbat! We'll have buckets of water beads for them to play with, bubble wrap runways to pop along, bubble wands, and balloons to play catch with. This will be an extra special multi-sensory Tot Shabbat that you won't want to miss!

Tree Planting for the Arbor Day Foundation, Sunday, June 26, 10 AM–Noon

Let's give back to the Earth and get active by planting trees with the Arbor Day Foundation. Pick up a tree at Temple Sinai with information on how to care for it—and help us plant a tree to grow with us through the years.

This Tikkun Olam opportunity is perfect for kids and families who want to show their love and respect for nature. All are welcome.

Contact Sunshine Figlio at Sunshine@TempleSinaiPGH.org or (412) 421-9715 ext. 121 with any questions.

VOLUNTEER IN THE TEMPLE SINAI VEGETABLE GARDEN!

Do you like to work with plants or play in dirt? Contact Drew Barkley at Drew@TempleSinaiPGH.org for all the details on how to join our garden volunteers this summer.

Share your special occasion, honor a person or the memory of a loved one, or simply share your joy and tzedakah with the congregation by SPONSORING AN ONEG!

Contact Drew Barkley at Drew@TempleSinaiPGH.org or (412) 421-9715 ext. 111 for details.

8TH ANNUAL PRIDE SHABBAT EVENING SERVICE, FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 7 PM

Every June, people across the world mark the Stonewall uprising of 1969 that kicked off the first major protest on behalf of equal rights for LGBTQ+ people. At Temple Sinai, our Pride Tribe brings the congregation's focus on the successes we have had and the work that still needs to be done. Please join us for our annual Pride Shabbat as we celebrate our freedom as openly LGBTQ+ Jews by sharing readings, songs, and original writing.

FALK LIBRARY NEWS: LGBTQ+ BOOKS

In honor of Pride Month, June 2022, the Falk Library is highlighting some of the LGBTQ+ books in our collection. In addition, some of these books will be available for checkout in our "Library Annex," located on the desk outside Rabbi Fellman's office.

Mentsh: On Being Jewish and Queer, edited by Angela Brown—More than 30 contributors from around the world reveal their surprising, poignant, sometimes hilarious experiences in ways that offer a staggering perspective on issues of identity, institutions, and culture from the viewpoint of the queer outsider struggling to belong.

Like Bread on the Seder Plate by Rebecca T. Alpert—One of the first women to be ordained as a rabbi explores how lesbians can shape Jewish tradition to resonate with their own experience.

Balancing on the Mechitza: Transgender in Jewish Community by Noach Dzmura—Inspired and nurtured by the successes of the feminist and LGBTQ+ movements in the Jewish world, Jews who identify as transgender now sit in the congregation, marry under the chuppah, and create Jewish families. Balancing on the Mechitza offers a multifaceted portrait of this increasingly visible community.

SINAI 75 MEMORIES FROM SELMA P. RYAVE

As our year of celebrating SINAI 75 comes to an end, we want to end on a special note. Longtime congregant and former bookkeeper, Selma Ryave, shares remembrances from her 70 years with Temple Sinai.

When I think of Temple Sinai, I have contrasting moments, mostly some good and happy times but also some sad times. I have been there through every Rabbi except interim Rabbi Crystal during my nearly 70 years of membership.

I came to Temple Sinai in 1952, needing a job and applying for the position of bookkeeper. Jules Diamondstone z"l, as treasurer, interviewed me. By the end of the interview, the job was mine. Though it was considered to be a part-time job with fewer hours required at certain times of the year, I was pleased to have several benefits: in addition to my monthly salary of $150, I was given a reduced-cost membership; and my two daughters, Rosalyn and Cheryl, would be able to attend religious and Hebrew classes.

Mark Shaffer was the president and Rabbi Burton Levinson, the Temple's first rabbi; they moved on several years after my affiliation. Freda Leff, the Rabbi's and Temple's first secretary, and I were the only office staff for membership of about 350 families. When Rabbi Aaron B. Ilson became the second rabbi, the emphasis was on obtaining more members, and that emphasis was able to reach desired goals. By that time, Pauline Ostroff became the Religious School Director, a position she held for many years. Frances Silverman, formerly Temple's Nursery School aide, became Pauline's assistant. Pauline, Freda, Fran, and I became lifelong friends continuing even when we no longer were working together.

Speaking of Temple's Nursery School, this was a true story as conveyed by Liesel Ehrlich, the school's director. One day, a Temple member, whose grandson attended our nursery school, took his grandchild out for lunch. He asked his grandchild how he liked nursery school, and the child said he did not like it at all! The grandfather was surprised and asked why he did not like nursery school, and the child replied, "Well, I don't like Jews!" At least that is what the grandfather thought he heard. The grandfather then asked the child why he didn't like Jews, and the child replied, "Well, on Mondays they give us orange Jews, on Tuesdays they give us grape Jews, on Wednesdays they give us tomato Jews, on Thursdays they give us pineapple Jews, and on Fridays they give us vegetable Jews...and I do not like Jews!!" No longer puzzled or concerned, the grandfather had a big laugh.
