May God's great name come to be magnified and sanctified in the world God brought into being. May God's majestic reign prevail soon in your lives, in days, and in the life of the whole House of Israel; and let us say, Amen. May God's name be blessed to the end of time. May God's holy name come to be blessed, acclaimed, and glorified; revered, raised and beautified; honored and praised. Blessed is the one who is entirely beyond all the blessings and hymns, all the praises and words of comfort that we speak in the world; and let us say, Amen. Let perfect peace abound; let there be abundant life for us and for all Israel. May the One who makes peace in the high heavens make peace for us, for all Israel, and all who dwell on Earth. And let us say, Amen

In Loving Memory

All you who mourn the loss of loved ones, and, at this hour, remember the sweet companionship and the cherished hopes that have passed away with them, give ear to the word of comfort spoken in the name of God. Only the body has died and has been laid in the dust. The spirit lives in the shelter of God's love and mercy. Our loved ones continue, also, in the remembrance of those to whom they were precious. Their deeds of loving-kindness, the true and beautiful words they spoke, inspire all who remember to live our lives such that we honor the dead.

Blessed Is the Memory

Our congregation remembers with fondness and sorrow the members who have died in the past year, and whose souls have returned to the Source of all life. Their memories are an abiding blessing.

It is hard to feel serene when our world is not complete, when those who once brought wholeness to our life have gone. Yet in the emptiness their passing leaves behind, we are not alone. For we have the companionship of the living, and even our loved ones who have died live on in our hearts, for what they were is part of what we have become. We honor them when we live, as they would wish, responsibly and happily even in the shadow of our loss, and so draw closer to the Source of life, in whom life finds meaning, purpose, and hope.

Rabbi Richard Levy

The departed whom we now remember have entered into the peace of life eternal.
They still live on in the acts of goodness they performed and in the hearts of those who cherish their memory.

May the beauty of their life abide among us as a loving benediction.

To The Living

To the living—Death is a wound.
Its name is grief
Its companion loneliness.
Whenever it comes, whatever its guise,
Even when there are no tears—
Death is a wound.

But death belongs to life—
As night belongs to day,
As darkness belongs to light.
As shadow belongs to substance—
As the fallen leaf to the tree.
As time to eternity, so death belongs to life.

Life's meaning is not measured by how long we live—
It is measured by how much we do
To make life good.

Alvin I. Fine

The Tapestry of Life

The tapestry of life is woven thread by thread,
Until we close our eyes and our mortal bodies dead.
But what we weave from the beginning until the very end,
Will be the legacy we leave for our beloved family and friends.
I imagine my piece of art, and what it will become,
When I complete my weaving, and it is finally done.
I contemplate and ruminate about this lifelong task,
For I know it will be the first, and it will be my last.
A mosaic of vibrant color upon the sturdy loom.
In and out, warp and weft, produce a humming tune.
I choose the colors carefully, my pattern will slowly emerge,
To show my strength and resilience this beautiful piece of serge.
The colors I select are full of energy and diverse,
I try hard not to falter, but neither can I rehearse.
Every thread crosses and re-crosses until they intersect,
And as I weave day to day my experiences it will reflect.
A life of joys and sorrows, of sickness and good health,
Of love so rich this blessed life a measure of my wealth.
Soon my tapestry will be complete, although I don't know when,
But I will live and love abundantly until the final end.

Faye P. Seigel
