

Amanda Greenblatt

Amanda and Steve joined Temple Sinai in 1997 just after moving to Summit – and prior to having kids. Scott and Alexis were born at the end of 1998 (and we all feel like we grew up with Temple Sinai). The kids were consecrated, celebrated their b'nai mitzvah, were confirmed and graduated from the (now) Rabbi Gershon Hebrew High School. Both Steve and Amanda have been involved in a variety of temple volunteer activities, committees, and events.

Amanda has led the Sisterhood, been on the Religious School committee, participated in the Caring Committee, volunteered with Hospitality for the Homeless, and has co-chaired more galas than she can count.

Outside of the temple, Amanda is very involved with the Junior League of Summit; she served as the Board President and is now the Sustainer Director and the Chair of the DE&I Task Force. She is a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) and is a board member of Summit Marches On (an organization fighting for democracy by doing hands on social action).

Amanda graduated from Lehigh University and holds an MBA from NYU's Stern School of Business.
