From The Rabbi

This year, Shavuot is followed by Parshat Beha'alotkha, offering a provocative counterpoint. Rashi calculates that after the overwhelming revelation of Torah on Mount Sinai, Am Yisrael spent eleven months at the mountain studying and internalizing the Torah they had been given (Num. 10:13). It is in Beha'alotkha that they first leave Sinai. The moment was like a graduation of sorts, and should have featured a grateful, nostalgic look back at the extraordinary events they had experienced, and joyful look forward towards the great promise of their destiny. But in the Gemara Shabbat 116a, Rabbi Hama bar Hanina interprets "And they traveled from the mountain of Ha-Shem (Num. 10:33),' ... they departed from Ha-Shem." Tosafot explains, citing the Midrash Yelamdeinu, that "they traveled from Mount Sinai for three days like a child leaving school, fleeing and running off. So, too, they fled from Har Sinai for three days, because they had learned a lot of Torah at Sinai." Instead of taking up their journey from the mountain reluctantly, they bolted like children when school is out, impatient, tired of all the learning. This flight from responsibility and commitment colors the rest of their encounters in the desert, as they lurch from one crisis to another, on their long, circuitous way towards the Land of Israel. It would take many years for Am Yisrael to learn to absorb and integrate the wisdom of Torah and Mitzvot into their lives and really live up to their destiny – and we're not there even yet.

This attitude that regards Torah learning and Mitzvah practice as a burden, something to flee, or a speed-bump on the way towards fulfilling our appetites, still plagues Am Yisrael, and Modern Orthodoxy in particular. The strength of the Modern Orthodox vision is its wisdom, honesty, and confidence that the divine origin of Torah means it embraces and comprises all truth, properly understood, without the need to retreat to a false literalism, anti-intellectualism or a neurotically anxious approach to halakhah. Our openness to the world should mean we are constantly checking ourselves to make sure we are really following Ha-Shem's will and not some illusion or fantasy generated by ignorance or small-mindedness. But the vulnerability of Modern Orthodoxy is that this very openness can admit foreign values and desires that throw us off course, distract us and dilute our Torah learning or Mitzvah practice. The authentic Modern Orthodox vision, which is the true vision of Torah, sees Torah learning and Mitzvah practice as a thoughtful, heartfelt spiritual discipline integrated into an intellectually honest, emotionally sane and physically healthy life.

As our children move up and approach the summer, after their year of intense learning, we can sympathize with their desire to let loose a bit and enjoy the freedom of less structured time. Those children who go to camp and those who stay to enjoy the natural beauty of Sharon get to explore other dimensions of their personalities, to be active in Mitzvot, in new relationships, to move from book learning to life learning. For all of us, adults and children alike, the summer should not be a vacation from Torah, but rather a refreshing time to internalize its real living lessons into a healthy, engaged and awakened life.

Rabbi Meir Sendor

From Our President

It was wonderful to see such a large turnout for the past weeks board meeting. We elected our new board, reviewed the status of the budget, and ratified the Rabbi's new 2-year contract. After 30 years leading our community, Rabbi Sendor plans to retire the beginning of summer 2016 (July). Rabbi and Mrs. Sendor plan to make Aliyah.

We have begun the process of searching for a new Rabbi for our community. I have appointed Michelle Avigan, Rabbi David Saltzman, and Shlomo Lerner as the Strategic Planning Committee for the YI Rabbi Search, to coordinate the search. They are working on a detailed process and timeline for the search, and we will inform the community as details become available. There will be opportunities for involvement on the multiple committees that will be created around this process. Please read a message from them on the next page. I have complete faith in this trio and thank them for taking on this responsibility.

I would like to thank the outgoing board members from this past year. Akiba Covitz made an immediate impact on the board this year, coordinating the adult education programs. Highlights included the Yom Hashoah program with Sam Natansohn, the scholar in residence of Atara Snowbell as well as many other fine programs. We wish Akiba and Miriam good luck in their move to Teaneck. Rabbi David Jaffe, social action chair, will be spending the year in Israel. We wish David, Janette and the family a wonderful experience in Israel.

This year's board includes a few new faces: Andy Warren, publicity and marketing, Ian Schechter, education and Dahlia Weinberg, programming. Welcome and thank you for taking a leadership role in the shul.

We created a new portfolio, Outreach, focusing on the inclusion initiative started a few months back. This effort will be led by Jodi Saltzman. Jodi will also oversee the kitchen for the shul.

Michael Delman and Cookie Gebler will continue on the board without portfolio. I thank them for their years of service and appreciate their wisdom and support.

Finally, Roy Strunin has stepped up to V.P. Roy, coordinated the migration to shul cloud and created our new web page. Roy will continue to develop these programs, allowing us web based access to our shul accounts and shul information.

Thank you to the entire board for a great year, it has been a privilege working with all of you and I look forward to another successful year together.

There are many opportunities for involvement in the shul, please talk to me or any other board member about getting involved.

- David

Message from the Strategic Planning Committee for the YI Rabbi Search

Dear YI Sharon Community,

As many of you heard at last week's General Membership Meeting, we are the Strategic Planning Committee for the YI Rabbi Search.

We are at the very beginning stages of developing a plan for the search. We have already met and continue to reach out to the YI Brookline folks who were instrumental in running that shul's search for a new Rabbi. Our hope is to have a plan and timeline approved by the YI Sharon Board in the next few months. Once the Board give us the go ahead, we will share all the details with the community.

Rabbi Sendor has shown us that despite the fact that the community is composed of people who are in different life-stages, who have different needs, and who hold onto different hashkafot, we can all work together as a shul that is committed to halacha while also engaged with our society. One of our primary goals is to keep this coalition together. We have learned much from the Brookline process and believe that with its emphasis on open communication, transparency, and collaboration, we can achieve this goal. Our plan is to involve many people in committee work and to encourage copious feedback throughout this process. As part of this, we envision a survey of the membership as well as community meetings and forums. In short, we believe that it is essential that everyone in the community has a voice.

We see this as an opportunity to strengthen our sense of unity and reaffirm the special nature of this remarkable community.

If anyone has thoughts or concerns, please do not hesitate to approach one of us or send an email to yisharonsearch@gmail.com.

Sincerely,
Michelle Avigan
Shlomo Lerner
David Saltzman

Inclusion Initiative: The Young Israel of Sharon is joining with many other Shuls of the Greater Boston area in a Synagogue Inclusion Initiative sponsored by the CJP and the Ruderman Family Foundation intended to help Shuls enhance their accessibility, hospitality and support for those with disabilities. Information on this important initiative can be found on our website, www.yisharon.org under "programs," including my devar Torah from Shabbat Parshat Mezora inaugurating our inclusion program

All Sharon-based Torah classes listed on one site! Young Israel's classes are included on SharonTorah.org, which lists all the Torah classes being offered by Eitz Chaim, Chabad, Young Israel, and The Kollel. Just this coming week, there are 28 classes from which to choose, such as Daf Yomi at Eitz Chaim, "Prayer and Jewish Thought" at Chabad, Rambam Mishna Torah at Young Israel, to the Kollel's Monday Night Beis Midrash taking place at Eitz Chaim. Check it out!

Chased: Our Rabbis taught: Gemilut Chesed (loving-kindness) is greater than charity in three ways. Also, if you are willing to help drive people to/from medical appointments, please let Cyna know. Thank you.

Get To Know Our Members, featuring the Zwillenbergs!

This month we get to know the Zwillenberg family:
Karen, Danny, Jacob and Noah!

How long have you been living in Sharon?
We moved to Sharon this past December.

Where were you living before and what brought you to our lovely town?
We moved from Riverdale, New York, where we had been living since we got married almost 7 years ago. Karen grew up in Sharon, and we decided to move here to be closer to her family. Karen has great memories of living in Sharon, and we were excited to bring our family here.

What is your favorite part of Sharon?
We love the lake and Crescent Ridge. After living in the Bronx, we are happy to see grass!

What do you do to keep busy, for work and play?

Karen and Danny are both clinical psychologists. Danny works at McLean Hospital and has a private practice. Karen is home with Jacob and Noah this summer and plans to return to work in the fall. Jacob entered SHAS in January, and Noah is looking forward to joining SHAS this fall. In our free time, we enjoy reading, spending time outdoors, listening to music, and playing with our dog.

Tell us an interesting tidbit about yourselves!

Danny is the drummer for the Jewish rock band Blue Fringe. He is teaching Jacob to play the drums and hopes to have a band with our boys when they get older.
